Garner Blocks New Tax Revolt

Today

Blizzards and Sunshine.
Two New Cars.
See Cocolobo.
And Black Caesar's Island.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MIAMI BEACH, Florida, March 30.

FRANK B. SHUTTS' Miami Herald prints on the front page:

"Blizzards whirling in Eastern states. Motorists marooned. After-Easter storms leave snow 7 to 12 inches deep."

Here, brilliant, warm sunshine, thousands bathing in the ocean, children spending the day in their bathing suits.

John Hertz, of New York and Chicago, has returned here from the laborious North.

Until recently, he thought he had given up business and all other practical pursuits. Then, unexpectedly he went into the moving picture business.

WHATEVER MR. Hertz has, he got himself. He has worked all the way from the bottom up, knows the country and its people, therefore it is encouraging to observe his cheerfulness and hear his statement that conditions will improve and rapidly.

"Business, industry and men will adjust themselves to conditions as they are, and build up from where they are. They will not sit around waiting for miracles."

ON THURSDAY, Henry Ford will show his new eight and four-cylinder models.

It is announced that the eight-cylinder car will do 75 miles an hour, and sell probably, at a price not far above that of the 1931 model A four-cylinder. The new four-cylinder Ford, with many improvements, is expected to sell at a price considerably below the recent four-cylinder prices.

Both cars will have the same chassis, that the engines may be interchangeable.

The writer can testify that 75 miles an hour is no exaggeration as to the speed of Mr. Ford's new eight-cylinder model, having driven, with Mr. Ford holding the wheel of his eight-cylinder three weeks ago. It does all in the way of speed that this sedate person could desire and more.

WHEN YOU come here take a boat for fishing or merely for seeing and travel through smooth land-locked waters protected on the ocean side by coral reefs, covered with palms, when you have seen these shores and waters, the long stretches of keys and islands with heavily laden cocoanut palm trees, you know that this nation's property includes the world's most beautiful tropical region.

CARL FISHER as he drove one of his power boats down to Cocolobo Island yesterday morning, bewailed the passing of the flamingoes that once flew in flocks, making the whole sky seem bright pink. Ships landing here years ago filled casks with the flamingoes to eat on the way back.

They caught them in thousands easily, by stretching a string on stakes along the edge of the water. The heavy birds, like airplanes, must get a running start to rise into the air.

Frightened by cries back of them, they ran toward the water, caught their legs in the string, fell down and made no effort to rise. They were clubbed to death in thousands. Later men with guns to get the feathers for women's hats killed the few that were left.

Ernest F. Coe, of this city, and other citizens are interested in restoring the flamingo and other interesting creatures in a great Everglades national park at the southern end of Florida. Their plan should go through.

A FINE boat passes, and you are told:

"There goes Pastor Jones, richest colored man in this neighborhood."

He owns a beautiful island of about one hundred acres, raises all tropical fruits, catches fish, stone crabs, lobsters, has sent his sons to college.

One of those sons, Jim Jones, when you reach Cocolobo Island, will take from an enclosed reservoir, stone crabs for your luncheon. He skillfully breaks off the two giant claws, throws the rest of the crab overboard and it swims away.

Jim Jones says:

"He will grow new claws and we will catch him again."

What a life that must be, for a crab.

A white man says:

"No, if you take one big claw, leaving the other claw with which to catch his food and fight, the crab will grow the missing claw again. But with both claws gone he can't live."

YOU SEE the bones of a whale head more than 20 feet long that recently came ashore on Cocolobo Island and hear about huge sharks that dashed at full speed against the body of the helpless whale, plunging their heads into its sides and backing out with enormous pieces of whale meat.

Creatures of the ocean, like their two-legged relatives on land, are ferociously cruel in dealing with each other.

SEMINOLE INDIANS that once owned all this country and now live hidden away in the Everglades swamps, have opinions of white men that do not change. Asked by a New Yorker if he could safely leave his rifle in a certain spot a Seminole Indian replied:

"Yes, there isn't another white man within fifteen miles of this spot."

AFTER THE hurricane an energetic white man bought two hundred pairs of roller skates, soaked in salt water, hopelessly rusted, and sold them to the Seminoles. They could not be used and there is

SURTAX PUT ON $6,000 INCOMES

Speaker Steps Into Breach And Checks 'Radical' Bloc; New Levies Voted

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Speaker John N. Garner stepped into the breach in the House again today and stopped a threatened new tax revolt against the Ways and Means Committee.

With members of the so-called "radical bloc" making a drive to deprive corporations of the privilege of filing affiliated and consolidated returns, Garner appealed to the members to support the committee compromise. Representative Cannon (Dem.), of Missouri, withdrew an amendment to this effect only after Garner made his speech.

Under the committee compromise the privilege of filing affiliated and consolidated returns would be granted corporations by paying a 1½ per cent income tax penalty.

OPPOSED BY MANY

Abolition of affiliated and consolidated returns was opposed by many members of the committee on the ground it would force abandonment of many short line railroads and generally disturb business.

After Garner's latest victory, the House resumed its course of adopting the proposals of the Ways and Means Committee, accepting one by one amendments adding millions of dollars to the government's revenue.

Outstanding was an amendment providing for commencement of the income surtax with incomes of $6,000, instead of $10,000, as originally recommended. The change is expected to add $7,000,000 a year to the revenues.

NEW LEVIES

Other new levies, designed to raise an additional $45,000,000, included:

Corporation income tax rate raised another one-half per cent to 13½, to net $5,000,000.

Eight per cent tax on oil pipe line business, to net $15,000,000.

Five per cent tax on airplanes to net $2,000,000.

Readjustment and increase in the gift tax, to make the maximum rate 33⅓ per cent, in conformity with the House action making the maximum inheritance tax rate 45 per cent, to net $5,000,000.

Readjustment of the consolidated returns provision of the corporate income tax, so as to impose 1½ per cent on consolidated returns, to net $18,000,000.

Speaker Garner was showered with praise for his success yesterday in wringing an almost unanimous pledge from the House to levy enough taxes to balance the budget and thus preserve the nation's credit.

This appeal, indorsed by Republican and opposition leaders, together with nation-wide criticism of House disorganization, the drop in stocks and fears expressed in Europe all appeared to have had a telling effect.

The House not only voted special taxes similiar to those rejected in the manufacturers' sales tax, but it reversed a victory of the opposition by continuing credit allowed American corporations for taxes paid abroad.

The sales tax substitute program, embracing miscellaneous excises was defended by former opposition spokesmen on the ground they are luxury taxes. The anti-sales taxes forces, however, were twitted by members who said the taxes were no different from those rejected last week.

Securities of Three Banks Ordered Sold

Judge R. M. Gibson, in Federal Court, today authorized John H. Feather, receiver of the First National Bank of Pitcairn, the Peoples National Bank of Pitcairn and the First National Bank of Trafford, to sell stocks, bonds and other securities with a total par value of $650,000 and apply the proceeds to liquidation. The securities of the three banks, in the order named, amounted to $300,000, $190,000 and $160,000 respectively.

QUIZ POLICE OFFICIAL ON CHECKS

Hennessy Fails to Recall Cashing County Paper Paid to Ray for Hauling

Police Inspector Dennis Hennessy, of the South Side, had a lapse of memory today at the resumption of the inquiry into county truck hire, when questioned closely concerning three checks he was said to have cashed last fall.

The checks were for $269.50, $90 and $345 respectively, and were made out by Allegheny County to Eddie Ray, his brother, Hamilton Ray, and Charles Rock for trucking on road jobs.

Other highlights in today's hearing before County Controller R. G. Woodside were refusal of Woodside to commit A. F. Kaechle, Glendale, to jail for contempt, and testimony that the county paid $17.50 a day for a truck used to transport household goods of W. H. Ziefel, former chief clerk to the County Commissioners, from Mt. Lebanon to Buckeye Lake, O.

RECALLS ONE CHECK

The checks were introduced in evidence by Attorney Ralph H. Frank, representing the present County Commissioners.

Pressed to explain the circumstances, Hennessey testified, the only one he remembered about was the one for $296.50, bearing date of September 18, 1931, which he said he had cashed for Eddie Ray. Hennessey said:

"Eddie Ray called at my home on a social visit and incidentally asked me to cash the check, which I did."

Attorney Frank asked:

"Is it a usual thing for you to have that much cash on hand?"

Attorney H. D. Hirsh, representing Hennessey, objected and the question was not answered.

RECORDS PRODUCED

A. F. Kaechle, of Glendale, threatened with contempt charges if he failed to produce his books showing his trucking work for the county, brought records to the Controller's office today.

After examining the records, M. C. Conick, chief auditor for Main

Nicholas to Return At Carol's Behest

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 30.—(AP.)—Prince Nicholas, who angered his brother, King Carol, by marrying a commoner, Mme. Jana Deletj, is expected back here at the end of this week from his brief "exile" in France. The King sent Gen. Condescu after him earlier this month, and apparently the general persuaded him to come along. The Kotrotseny Castle is being prepared for him, but it was not known whether he would bring his bride.

Haviland, Music Publisher, Dies

NEW YORK, March 30.—(AP.)—Frederick B. Haviland, 64, music publisher, who brought out "The Sidewalks of New York" among more than a score of other song successes of the past, died of pneumonia yesterday.

He had conducted his own music publishing firm for 40 years. Among other successes he published were "On the Banks of the Wabash," "In the Good Old Summer Time," Goodbye Dolly Gray" and "Down in Jungle Town."

Mother Recovers Baby, Collapses in Court

Mrs. Ruth Yolton, 25, of 59 Dewey avenue, Ingram, collapsed today in the courtroom of Judge George V. Moore when she was awarded the custody of her 15-month-old son, Earl, Jr., whom she alleged, was taken from her last Friday by her husband, Earl Yolton, Sr., of Carnegie.

The mother testified she was forced to leave her husband on March 14 because of alleged cruelties and that she took her son with her to the home of her mother, Mrs. T. M. Patterson, at the Ingram avenue address. She charges her husband came to her mother's home on Friday and drove away with the child.

Through her attorney Cyrus A. Davis, Mrs. Yolton obtained a writ of habeas corpus, ordering the husband to bring the child into court today. When the testimony was finished, Judge Moore ordered the child be given to the mother, and Mrs. Yolton fainted. Court attaches and her friends worked over her for more than 15 minutes before she was able to leave the court room.

BUTLER, FLINN START TOUR

By MARK SHIELDS

Gen. Smedley D. Butler and Ralph Flinn, Independent Republican candidates for nominations as United States Senator and State Auditor General, respectively, were touring Western Pennsylvania today, with speeches scheduled at Waynesburg, Washington, Uniontown, Connellsville and Greensburg.

This Pinchot-backed ticket opened its campaign last night with an enthusiastic meeting of 3,000 partisans which crowded Carnegie Hall and overflowed to the Y. M. and Y. W. H. A. auditorium.

In addition to Butler and Flinn, Gov. Pinchot, County Commissioner C. M. Barr, Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, Pittsburgh candidate for the Superior Court, and Deputy Attorney General Ralph Smith, Independent campaign manager for Allegheny County, aroused the crowd to bursts of cheering in their attacks upon the

Kubelik Bankrupt, Blames U. S. Losses

VIENNA, March 30.—(AP.)—Jan Kubelik, celebrated violinist, brought his financial difficulties into bankruptcy court today, placing his liabilities at $125,000 and offering to pay his creditors 35 per cent.

He blamed heavy losses in American securities for his predicament.

Society Women Quell Panic Caused by Lion

Mrs. Harry Brown One of Riviera Heroines

CANNES, France, March 30.—(AP.)—American and British society folk kept their heads and helped to stem a panic at a restaurant here last night when a performing lion broke out of its cage.

Seven hundred guests began to stampede when the beast leaped clear upon the dancing floor. Clothing was torn, tables were upset and there were screams of fright.

Billy Arnold, of Paterson, N. J., leader of the orchestra, set his men to playing as loud as they could for such of the guests as continued dancing. Meanwhile others of the patrons calmed their more frightened companions. A fire hose was turned on the lion and it was herded back to the cage.

Among those who assisted in restoring quiet were Lady Asquith; Count Salm, former husband of Millicent Rogers; Mrs. Harry Brown, of Washington, formerly of Pittsburgh; Lord and Lady Fermoy; Mme. Paul Dubonnet, the former Jean Nash; Mrs. Elbert Soper, of Ottawa; Worthington Hine, of New York; Sir Geoffrey Archer, the big game hunter, and Lord Mountbatten.

Rain, Cold, Snow To End Warm Spell

A balmy spring day today, with the temperature in the 60's, will be followed by rain tonight, changing to snow flurries and much colder late tomorrow, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman predicted. The mercury may reach 70 today, he asserted, but likely will not equal the record of 79 for this date. The rivers, which reacher a crest of 21.8 feet yesterday, were falling slowly, the stage at 8 a. m. being 21.2 at the Point.

Los Angeles Clue To Crater Fails

LOS ANGELES, March 30.—(INS.)—Investigators today could find no trace here of Joseph Force Crater, long-missing New York Supreme Court judge, who was reported to be at the home of a friend in Los Angeles.

Justice Crater left a cold trail in Los Angeles, if indeed he was ever here, investigators reported.

Four Die in Blaze Started by Films

ZAGREB, Jugoslavia, March 30.—(AP.)—Four persons were dead today and four were injured in an apartment house fire, which started last night in films stored on the second floor.

Most of the occupants of the 45 apartments in the building escaped by means of ladders and fire nets.

1 DEAD, 2 SHOT IN FARM ROW

MEADVILLE, Pa., March 30.—(AP.)—George Slingluff was shot and killed today during an argument over the attempt of his brother-in-lay, Clinton Hamilton, to move household goods from a farm in East Mead Township. Hamilton surrendered and is held in jail on a murder charge.

Hamilton formerly owned the farm, but it was bought by Slingluff at a sheriff's sale a year ago. Hamilton had lived on the farm since its sale, but was under orders to move April 1. There was litigation over the ownership of the household goods.

Hamilton's brother, A. H. Hamilton, and William Youcum were wounded.

The shooting took place on a road near the Slingluff farm. Slingluff, A. H. Hamilton and Youchum had gone to the place to prevent Clinton Hamilton from moving the household goods.

After the shooting, Clinton Hamilton went to the nearby home of Will Hunter and asked to be taken to Meadville. Arriving in town, he surrendered to Sheriff J. L. Connell. He does not know Slingluff is dead.

Slingluff leaves his widow and one daughter.

Eben M. Byers III; Stricken in New York

FIRE DESTROYS OIL PLANT

Two firemen were injured and several families were forced to vacate their homes when fire that threatened a city block destroyed the plant of the Duquesne Oil and Supply Company, 3318-22 Smallman street, and menaced other buildings in the industrial section of Lawrenceville, early today. A general alarm was sounded.

The fire broke out shortly after 1 o'clock, and when it was under control, through the efforts of firemen from nine companies, three hours later, only a smouldering mass of twisted metal remained of the two-story corrugated building that occupied a half city block. Damage was estimated at $25,000 by Fire Chief Richard L. Smith.

Herman Kriston and his wife, Helen, carried their 11-month-old twins, Joseph and Louis, to safety from their home, 1 Haslett way. Three-year-old Leo Comoroski and his 18-month-old sister, Elizabeth, were carried out by their parents, Frank and Josephine Comoroski, of Haslett way.

Daniel Rose, of Engine Company 33, was burned above the eye. He was attended by physicians and returned to work. Edward Gratton, a hoseman of Engine Company 26, was removed to the Mercy Hospital with cuts on his right hand.

NEWS QUEST GETS ONLY PUZZLING REPLIES

Statement Says Kidnapers Alone Will Know Reason If Deal for Baby Fails

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NORFOLK, Va., March 30.—Rear-Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, acting as "spokesman" for the three negotiators for the return of the Lindbergh baby, declared today that "nothing has happened."

The admiral made his declaration following a brief conference with the Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, dean of Christ Episcopal Church, and John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk shipbuilder, his two colleagues in conducting the negotiations.

Facing about 40 newspapermen in the room of a downtown hotel, the admiral took from his pocket a statement concurred in by his two associates.

STATEMENT VAGUE

The statement, quite ambiguous, was as follows:

"If there is failure in the Norfolk negotiations, the kidnapers, and they alone, will know why."

He was immediately bombarded with questions to explain the statement. The admiral could not explain it satisfactorily and said the statement would have to speak for itself. He was asked:

"What does it mean?"

His reply was:

"What does it mean."

He continued his refusal to amplify on the statement despite protests that he was "speaking in riddles."

STILL HAS FAITH

The admiral was asked if there was any chance whether he and his two colleagues were being misled in these negotiations. His answer was:

Have you ever been misled?"

And then after a long pause he said:

"We may be misled—undoubtedly."

He quickly declared that he had faith in negotiations, saying:

"I wouldn't be in this if I didn't have faith."

Then he pulled from his pocket a newspaper clipping containing an article by Will Rogers, the humorist.

The article said that it was hoped the negotiations were not "misled," but expressed the belief that the three Norfolk citizens knew something and would bring good news to the Lindberghs.

Asked if progress had been made as a result of Dean Dobson-Peacock's visit to Col. Lindbergh, the admiral replied:

"I am still working. All work is progress."

MESSAGE TO ROGERS

The admiral asked that the following message be transmitted to Rogers:

"Your public message of optimism received. Glad you believe in us. If there is failure in the Norfolk negotiations, the kidnapers, and they alone, will know why."

Admiral Burrage, during the HOLLYWOOD, March 30.—(INS.)—Two film players, Greta Nissen, blonde Norwegian actress, and Weldon Heyburn, actor and former Alabama University student, planned to fly from Hollywood to Tijuana, Mex., today to be married. Their romance started when both were members of the cast of a motion picture. Miss Nissen said:

"We were never sure when we could get away from the studio to get married."

They will make an "aerial honeymoon," Heyburn declared.

Leaps From Bridge, Saved; Blames 'Hot' Drink

Off the Sixth Street Bridge and into the Allegheny River jobless Tony Masiglia, 30, plunged today as the noon-day crowd passed by.

He was fished out of the water by a boatman and rushed to the Allegheny General Hospital, where he had this to say:

"I met a friend today and he asked me if I wanted a drink. I think it must have been formaldehyde. It burned me and then my face got blue. Then I jumped in the river. Maybe this will change my luck."

Frank Levendon, who lives on a boathouse nearby, went to Masiglia's rescue on a skiff. Then police revived him on the river bank.

Masiglia, an electric welder, said he had been idle for more than two months.

PINCHOT STUDIES PLEA OF BARR FOR RELIEF SESSION

COMMISSIONER URGES STATE TAKE ACTION

Governor Shows Interest In Needs Here; Consults Leaders on Aid Problems

In Harrisburg today Gov. Pinchot was giving attention to a plea made to him last night by County Commissioner C. M. Barr that a special session of the Legislature be called within a few weeks to pass measures for unemployment relief and the creation of work.

Barr's plea was publicly made at a political rally in Carnegie Hall. He said:

"I urge all of you to call upon your Congressmen to work for federal aid in this emergency. I am going to ask Gov. Pinchot here and now to call a special session of the Legislature for the same purpose, and I hope he will come to a favorable decision before he leaves this hall.

RELIEF PARLEY PLEA

"There should be, preceding a session, a conference of business and financial leaders and persons interested in welfare work, at which a program could be drawn up which politicians would not dare kill, as they did in the special session of last year.

"We need legislation to consolidate our public relief agencies, to co-ordinate the work of the city and county. If the Poor Board, the City Welfare Department and other public agencies could all be under one direction in this emergency we could feed three persons for what it now costs us to feed one.

"The overhead on relief is 29 cents for every dollar spent."

During the day in Pittsburgh Gov. Pinchot exhibited keen interest in the unemployment situation and plans for relief.

PINCHOT INTERESTED

He was particularly concerned to know whether Pittsburgh was in any better condition than Philadelphia, where relief agencies have just declared their inability to continue and public borrowing power is exhausted.

The Governor talked the relief need over with Edgar J. Kaufmann, a leader in relief work. By others he was told that private emergency work funds had been exhausted, but that money still was available through an appropriation by City Council and the County Poor Board.

It was pointed out to him that when these funds are exhausted, which will be in a short time, the Harris family-help-family plan will be in operation, but that the next step appeared to be city and county bond issues unless the state furnished relief.

TAX BURDEN CITED

Representatives of real estate men are understood to have told the Governor that real estate taxes already are burdensome and to have pleaded for state aid.

While the Governor made no public statement on his future course, it is known he is considering plans for conferences leading to a special session.

The Governor is understood to be waiting decision of the Supreme Court on the Talbot bill before inviting any conferences. If this bill is declared constitutional, a way to make immediate appropriations will be opened, but the problem of raising revenue must be considered. Administration circles are understood to be considering the advisability of a state bond issue for relief purposes.

Note to Lindy Found In Floating Bottle

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 30.—(AP.)—Gov. James R. Beverley received by registered mail this morning a bottle found in the sea near Isabela containing a message addressed to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and concerning the return of the Lindbergh baby.

Written in indelible pencil, it announced the child's safety, and demanded a huge ransom. The signature, partly illegible, looked like "Tom Orr." The note was dated Pensacola, Fla. Gov. Beverley turned it over to the police.

VAGUE REPLIES DEEPEN LINDY MYSTERY

Admiral Makes Puzzling Answers on Negotiations For Return of Baby

course of the interview, said there had been some suggestion that he drop out of the investigation through lack of confidence. He said:

"My answer to that is that I am here."

In response to a question the admiral said:

"The kidnapers are afraid to go to Col. Lindbergh with the child."

Replying to another question he said:

"I don't know how the child will be returned."

QUIZZED ABOUT PLANE

He was asked why it was that Dr. Dobson-Peacock used a plane in his trip to confer with Col. Lindbergh at Hopewell, N. J., instead of taking a train.

The admiral said that the clergyman would have to answer that himself.

Q—Is Mr. Curtis going away today on a mysterious trip?

A—It is necessary that communication be maintained.

Q—Is Mr. Curtis going away today?

A—I don't know.

Q—Is he going to Baltimore to see a certian rum runner?

A—I never bought any rum from any rum runner and I don't konw anything about this.

Q—Is there any representative of Col. Lindbergh in Norfolk?

A—I don't know.

DISCUSSION HEATED

This last question was raised by the fact that a "Morrow" was registered at a hotel here. However, it developed that he was just a sightseer and was no relative of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, of Englewood, grandmother of the kidnaped baby.

The newspapermen kept bombarding the admiral with questions and insisted that his statements should be more clear.

The admiral replied that he was giving out only available information and that they could take it and use it as they saw fit.

The discussion between the admiral and the newspapermen became very heated at times. The admiral frequently would tap his cane on the floor to emphasize his remarks.

He is a tall, slim, gray-haired man with flashing blue eyes.

One reporter charged him with evading questions and not playing fair with the public.

DEMANDS APOLOGY

The admiral demanded the reporter apologize. The reporter refused. Then the admiral took down the reporter's name, newspaper and the name of his editor.

The incident was closed when the reporter smiled and the admiral said:

"Your apology is accepted."

During the course of the questioning, Admiral Burrage was asked how long it would be before the kidnaping might be solved by the negotiations. He replied:

"Some things can only be solved by time. It is conceivable that you may be even gray-headed before it is solved."

To another question, the admiral answered:

"Communication between Col. Lindbergh and the kidnapers is very difficult."

He was asked if a fourth man was taking part in the negotiations. He said:

"There are three of us and Col. Lindbergh is the fourth man."

The admiral declared that the Secretary of the Navy had not been in communication with him.

AUTHORIZED BY LINDY

Dean Dobson-Peacock, who on Monday made a dramatic flight to Hopewell, N. J., to confer with Lindbergh, said earlier:

"We are continuing our work upon the clue at the request of Col. Lindbergh—made personally by him."

Such pertinent questions as where the baby is, when and how they will next establish "contact" with the supposed kidnapers and how soon they expect to bring about the recovery of the missing child were left unanswered.

Amid quite a fanfare, the trio held a conference last evening at the rectory of Christ Episcopal Church. Dean Dobson-Peacock had only a few hours earlier returned from his airplane trip to Lindbergh's home. The three men conferred for about an hour before the clergyman emerged to make a statement to the press and the "talkies."

The statement told how Dean Dobson-Peacock had flown to Hopewell to see Col. Lindbergh "in order to bring our negotiations with the supposed kidnapers to a rapid conclusion," and how Lindbergh told him to "continue the work" on the "clue."

MISS CLAIRE WINDSOR . . . "I NEVER HAVE ENTICED ANYONE"

Miss Windsor, the beautiful screen and stage actress, sued at Los Angeles for $100,000 damages for alienation of affections of Broker Alfred C. Read. Mrs. Read, mother of two, is doing the suing. Miss Windsor: "I'm completely flabbergasted over the suit."

CLAIRE WINDSOR 'AMAZED' AT BALM SUIT

'All Flabbergasted' She Declares, Over $100,000 Action by Broker's Wife

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, March 30.—"I'm utterly flabbergasted!"

So declared Claire Windsor, beautiful screen and stage actress today following the filing of a $100,000 alienation of affections suit against her in Oakland, Cal., by Mrs. Marion Y. Read.

Miss Windsor was charged with tampering with the affections of Mrs. Read's husband, Alfred C. Read, investment broker, of San Francisco.

Miss Windsor declared:

"I never have enticed anyone to leave his family.

"I'm completely flabbergasted over the suit. Why, the very idea!

"I never lured any man away from his wife and never expect to.

"Of course, I know Mr. Read. I was introduced to him by Louis Epstein, Al Jolson's manager, but I don't know why all this fuss should be made over my knowing him.

"Honestly, I don't know what it's all about. It's got me flabbergasted, or floundered, or all a-flutter, or something of the sort."

The beautiful actress contemplates a counter damage suit for the same sum of money, her mother, Mrs. George Cronk, announced.

Miss Windsor is appearing on the stage here in the show headed by Al Jolson, the comedian.

Mrs. Read in her complaint charged her husband was "constantly in the company" of Miss Windsor when he was in Los Angeles, "supposedly on business." Read met Miss Windsor last September, Mrs. Read said, and she asserted the actress had pursued "a course of conduct calculated to win the love" of Read.

QUIZ INSPECTOR ON CHECKS

& Company, declared there was nothing to show what Kaechle had received from the county. All cancelled checks were dated 1932 and had no bearing on the truck hire investigation, he said.

CONTEMPT CHARGE FAILS

Kaechle refused to answer whether he had filed an income tax return for 1931. Frank demanded that he be jailed for contempt. Woodside ruled:

"There will be no commitments pending tomorrow's hearing in the Bowser phase of this investigation."

Kaechle later testified he had not made enough money last year to require his filing an income return.

At this afternoon's session, John J. Dean, ally of former City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley, testified he had had 10 or 12 trucks doing county work. He said he paid $1.75 an hour for the trucks.

E. W. Schellenberger, owner of one truck engaged by Dean, testified he received $17.50 a day. In May, 1931, he testified he moved household goods for Ziefel from Mt. Lebanon to his summer home at Buckeye Lake, O.

FIGURES VARY

Auditor Conick, recalled, testified that county records revealed Dean receiving $7,710 in 1931 for Schellenberger's truck but that Schellenberger's records showed him receiving only $4,725. Conick was asked:

"Did Dean collect for truck hire on the Schellenberger truck the day the Ziefel moving was hauled?"

"The records show that he did."

Robert Lafferty, Jr., testified at the hearing yesterday that he did some hauling last March and April at the county airport for which he received $475.15 from the firm of Watson Bowser and Brother, being paid at the rate of one-half cent a cubic foot.

He nearly fell off his chair when he heard Auditor Conick testify that the Bowser company was paid $2,289.54 for the work that Lafferty's trucks did.

Ligonier Youth Struck by Auto

LATROBE, PA., March 30.—Struck by an auto as he returned from school at noon today, Richard, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Novack, of Ligonier, was taken to the Latrobe Hospital today in a serious condition. Physicians said his skull was fractured.

Alfred Devito, also of Miller street, driver of the car was held by police.

BURKE IN CLASH ON GLASS BILL

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(AP.)—A charge that opposition to the Glass banking revision bill has been inspired by "stimulated propaganda" was made in a Senate banking committee hearing today by Senator Glass (Dem.), of Virginia.

Glass shouted the accusation during testimony by James Francis Burke general counsel of the Pittsburgh Clearing House, opposing the bill which is intended to curb stock speculation. Burke said:

"Bankers from all over the country have come to protest."

Glass cut in sharply:

"Yes, and they were brought here and organized to protest and I think you were, too.

"Didn't we have the same kind of protests before the Federal Reserve law was enacted? That shows exactly how much importance should be attached to stimulated propaganda."

Burke replied that the bankers "have a right to come here" and have done so voluntarily.

OCEAN FARES CUT 20 PCT.

NEW YORK, March 30.—(AP.)—The United States Lines today put into effect reductions averaging 20 per cent in Trans-Atlantic fares for all classes of passage on the ships Leviathan, President Roosevelt and President Harding.

The lowest first class rate for the Leviathan will now be $192 as compared with the former summer price of $265. On the Presidents Roosevelt and Harding, a one-way ticket to any British port is down to $118, to Cherbourg $123 and to Hamburg $128. Round-trip passages receive a further reduction of 7½ per cent.

Tourist rates on the Leviathan have been cut 20 per cent and third class tickets 10 per cent.

Dawes Gives O. K. To Home Loan Banks

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(INS.)—The home loan banks bill today received the indorsement of Charles G. Dawes, president of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Behind closed doors Dawes told the House Banking Committee his corporation was powerless to aid home financing and urged adoption of the measure to give this needed relief.

BONUS BATTLE TO BE RENEWED

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(INS.)—A bitter fight over full payment of the soldiers' "bonus" appeared inevitable today, with the administration and the more conservative members of Congress opposed to further drains on the Treasury.

Representative Patman (Dem.) of Texas, and Representative Rankin (Dem.), of Mississippi, leading advocates of full payment in the House, will press their fight before the Ways and Means Committee as soon as the tax bill has been disposed of. The hearings on the numerous bills providing for full payment may begin next week.

Patman warned that five out of every seven veterans holding bonus certificates and borrowed the 50 per cent limit. He said:

"If full payment is not authorized now, the remainder of their certificates will be consumed by compound interest."

Council to Discuss Railways Tomorrow

Discussion of the future status of the city's agreement with the Pittsburgh Railways Company will mark a meeting of City Council with the Traction Conference Board tomorrow afternoon. The parley was requested by Chairman Charles P. Finley, of the board.

Pointing out that the railways company's financial structure was "hard hit" by economic conditions, Finley recently reported to Council that unless steps were taken to bring order, the traction interests might again be forced into receivership. Fare increases were hinted in his report.

Atterbury Demands Truck Regulation

NEW YORK, March 30.—(AP.)—Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, says regulation of trucks, buses and waterways is essential to the prosperity of the railroads.

He told the Economic Club last night that failure to regulate commercial highway competition leads to overproduction of transportation facilities "just as serious as that in agriculture or industry."

Felled Oak Saves Auto From Plunge

A huge oak, cut down yesterday because it obscured the view on Route 88, near Charleroi, saved the car of Mrs. E. L. Crasis, 34, of Braddock, from plunging down a 250 foot embankment. A front tire blew out and Mrs. Crasis lost control of the car which crashed into the fallen tree. She was uninjured.

RAIL CROSSING GUARD URGED

McKeesport city officials, spurred by the death of a high school senior and the serious injury of her escort when a passenger train of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad struck their automobile at the Ninth street crossing, said today they would demand 24-hour guard service at all grade crossings in the city.

Genevieve Barkemeyer, 18, of 2118 Beaver street, McKeesport, was killed instantly and her companion, Wilbur Morgan, 27, of 410 Penny street, McKeesport, suffered a fractured left leg and possible internal injuries when their machine was dragged nearly 200 feet at the grade crossing accident early yesterday.

Police said the Ninth street crossing, the most dangerous in McKeesport, is unguarded after 10 p. m.

Day's Tax Receipts Show Big Decrease

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(AP.)—Income tax collections for March 28 were $680,572, as compared with $1,624,446 for the similar day of last year.

The day's receipts brought the total for the month to $191,304,729 against $390,741,438 last year.

RAIDERS SEIZE 2 RUM BOATS

NEW LONDON, Conn., March 30.—(AP.)—The Game Cock, described by officials as a British liquor supply boat, and the Yacht 247, of Boston, were seized last night by Coast Guard patrol boats from the New London base. They carried liquor valued by authorities at $150,000.

Thirteen men comprising the crews of the captured craft were arrested.

NEWPORT, R. I., March 30.—(AP.)—The former Navy subchaser 247, now registered as a private yacht, which two years ago served as a tender for the America's Cup candidate Yankee, and in a similar capacity for the late Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V, during the last international yachting classic, was seized during the night as a rum runner. Her crew of seven offered no resistance to a Coast Guard boat from New London.

At the Yankee's tender, the 247 was known as the Doodle. A barge on which the Yankee's crew lived was called the Dandy, completing the trinity, "Yankee, Doodle, Dandy."

Toys of 'Bluebeard' Victims on Block

CHICAGO, March 30.—(INS.)—The final echo of the crimes of Harry (Bluebeard) Powers will be heard this week in Park Ridge when the toys of three children he allegedly murdered will be sold at auction.

The toys were among the effects of Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher, a widow, who with her three children were slain in Clarksburg, W. Va.

'Troubles' McInerney Early Swim Stopped

James (Troubles) McInerney, former police lieutenant, whose alleged attempt to swim the Allegheny River, near the Ninth Street Bridge late yesterday was frustrated by police, was discharged in Central Police Court on a disorderly conduct charge.

He told Magistrate Leo Rothenberg that he and a couple of war "buddies" decided to go swimming.

COUZENS RAPS RAIL LOANS

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(AP.)—Railroad loans by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation were condemned in the Senate today by Chairman Couzens, of the Interstate Commerce Committee.

Pointing specifically to the recent loan of $12,800,000 to the Missouri Pacific Railroad, Couzens said the market value of the securities produced by this railroad was only $12,450,000.

He also called attention that the Reconstruction Corporation adopted a resolution approving the loan and submitted it to the Interstate Commerce Commission before asking the formal approval of the latter.

The commission then approved the loan "with reluctance," Couzens said:

"I have no knowledge of Congress having declared a policy of government ownership of the railroads, and yet the loan to the Missouri Pacific and others that have been approved, and others still pending, clearly indicate to me that if loans are continued in the same manner as they have been in the past many of these properties will eventually revert to the government or the government will lose its investment.

"The government will at least find itself in possession of the least desirable and least profitable railroads."

Hoover to Stay Dry, W.C.T.U. Head Says

CHICAGO, March 30.—(AP.)—President Ella A. Boole, of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union, has reaffirmed her conviction that President Hoover would continue to support prohibition. She declared yesterday:

"We have been told that tremendous influence is being brought to bear on Mr. Hoover to announce himself as a wet or in favor of a moist platform. I can say with considerable authority that no such proposals have even been considered."

Rich Benefactress Accuses Tailor-Concert Singer

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., March 30.—(INS.)—Charged with forcing his elderly benefactoress to sign a promissory note for $25,000, but denying he had attempted to rob her, Midhat Serbagi, tailor-concert singer, of Roxbury, was held by police today.

Mrs. Oliver Prescott, prominent musical patroness, claimed that Serbagi, while driving her to her summer estate in North Dartmouth yesterday stopped his automobile, drew a revolver, forced her upon threats of death to sign a promissory note for $25,000, then took a $5 bill from her pocketbook and left her standing in the middle of the road.

Serbagi, arrested at his home in Roxbury, denied the charges, claiming money he had earned as a concert singer he had turned over in part to Mrs. Prescott to invest for him. This amounted, according to Serbagi, to $25,000.

Veteran of 97 Operations, Boy, 5, May Quit Hospital

FAIRMONT, W. Va., March 30.—(AP.)—Although only 5, Frankie Powell has undergone 97 operations and is the "pet" of Cook Hospital because he's always cheerful.

Frankie has been under anesthetics 32 times and has always come out with a smile on his chubby face.

The child was admitted to the hospital at the age of 3. He was suffering acutely from "short breath" and cynosis. Today he is full of spirit and may be discharged in a few months.

Before entering the hospital, he was unable to talk or cry aloud. When 3 weeks old he developed pneumonia and in September, 1929, suffered an attack of diphtheria.

Operation No. 1 was performed as soon as Frankie entered the hospital. His case was diagnosed as congenital stenosis, or narrowing of the larynx. To keep the orifice open, weekly dilating was necessary. For the first six or eight months this operation required anesthesia, but for a year and a half none has been used.

Playing "doctor" and "operation" is Frankie's favorite recreation. With a surgeon's cap cocked jauntily over one ear and a pair of rubber gloves swathing his hands and arms, he converts a low stool into a table and "operates" on patients made from folded towels. Frankie can speak now, but in odd little whispers.

AUTO TRADE SPURRED BY ANNOUNCEMENT OF NEW CARS

MAKERS READY TO MEET FORD COMPETITION

Industry Optimistic as to Sales Prospects; Many Factories Showing Gains

International News Service.

DETROIT, March 30.—Relief, optimism and enthusiasm were predominant in the automobile industry today.

Already one of the factors that caused suspense has been removed — the announcement by the Ford Motor Company of its new four and eight-cylinder cars.

Relief has come to other companies through descriptions of the type of car with which they must compete. They know now what they must deal with.

Today the second factor that has hindered sales of cars of almost every price range—the cost of the Ford eight and four—will be removed. Late today Ford prices will be published and Ford salesrooms throughout Canada and United States thrown open.

BUYING TO START

Many new car buyers have been holding back until they learned the price of the Ford products. Automobile manufacturers have realized it and are certain that now there will be a general opening of pursestrings.

Optimism and enthusiasm shown by Ford dealers is reflected in other companies.

General Motors, following its announcement of last Saturday of formation of the Buick-Olds-Pontiac Sales Company, is preparing to open shows in 55 American cities April 2. Displays of General Motors products from Cadillac V-16's to electric plants will constitute the shows.

The Buick-Olds-Pontiac Sales Company will serve as sales and distribution organization for Buicks, Oldsmobiles and Pontiacs. General Motors estimated the company will do a $400,000,000 volume of business annually, selling 350,000 cars in the middle-priced field.

DEALERS ADDED

Rockne Motors Corporation, part of the Studebaker family, today announced addition of 114 dealers from March 20 to March 28. There are now 1,314 dealers in the Rockne sales organization.

On April 3, a new model Plymouth will be presented the automobile world by Walter P. Chrysler. It will be longer, more powerful and lower priced than its predecessors.

Harry G. Moock, sales manager, said the Plymouth Corporation was enthusiastic over business possibilities and predicted a volume of 200,000 cars this year, almost double the sales of 1931.

Graham-Paige Motors Corporation has set a new record for production of eight-cylinder models. Six hundred more cars have been produced so far in 1932 than in any previous fulf year.

Retail sales of Hudson and Essex automobiles in the United States and Canada continue to show increases, and De Soto showed strong gains in car registrations.

Other auto companies also reported growing enthusiasm and optimistic outlooks among their sales forces.

AUTO INDUSTRY TO FIGHT TAX

DETROIT, March 30.—(AP.)—Alvan Macauley, president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, indicated today that the automobile industry will make a vigorous fight against the proposed manufacturing tax on motor cars.

The opposition to the tax, he said, will be based on the claim that the automobile industry is doing more "to break the buying deadlock than any other American industry." The industry feels, he said, that when Congress proposes the excise tax on motor cars it is "aiming a blow at business recovery." He added:

"The action of the House constitutes a serious wet blanket on our business in the face of our efforts to help restore American prosperity. The action could not have come at a worse time."

He said the automobile industry's products last year paid a total of $1,020,000,000 in all forms of taxation and that "the car on the road is taxed 18 per cent of its present value."

Youngstown Pays Harrington Tribute

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 30.—(AP.)—Home from a 9,000-mile journey, the body of John T. Harrington, capitalist and philanthropist, lay in state at his rural estate near here, while financial and industrial leaders gathered to pay tribute to him at a funeral service this afternoon.

Harrington died in Sydney, Australia, February 28, while on a world tour. He had extensive steel, railroad and electric utility interests.

no place in the Everglade for roller skating.

The Indians enjoyed making the wheels run up the sides of a palm tree, after they had got rid of the rust.

BLACK CAESAR'S little island stands between Cocolobo and the ocean. You may still see the iron rings to which the Negro pirate fastened the swift sailing craft with which he took many prizes along this shore.

At the edge of the ocean, near Black Caesar's Island, you see the tall palm trees in which Caesar's lookout spent the daylight hours on watch. When a promising merchant ship came bound for the West Indies, hugging the shore to escape fighting the Gulf Stream, the slave in the palm tree gave the signal. Black Caesar sailed out and with the Gulf Stream current behind him, hooked on to the desired ship, robbing all, killing many.

THEY HANGED Black Caesar, in the last century, and white men are still hunting for gold that the Negro pirate is supposed to have buried.

THIS IS the last day of a visit to this state of which every American may be proud. Millions will come here within the next two generations. Their coming will be hastened by the determination of the thoughtful men in Florida to exempt from taxation, assessment and other impositions, all homes of moderate cost.

WILLIAM C. HODGES, chairman of the "Florida Century of Progress Commission," that will cause the state to be represented at Chicago's international exposition of 1933, has borrowed from King Solomon an excellent description of Florida.

"Length of days is in her right hand, and in her left hand riches and honor."

IRISH CABINET SPLIT OVER OATH REPLY

Approval of De Valera's Draft Withheld Owing To Vigorous Language

By LINTON WELLS

International News Service.

DUBLIN, March 30.—A sharp cleavage developed today in the Irish Free State executive council on the wording of President Eamonn De Valera's reply to Great Britain on abolition of the oath of allegiance to the British crown and retention of the land annuities.

While definite break-up of the cabinet was not expected, International News Service learned that approval of the draft of the reply was withheld owing to decided differences of opinion over the phraseology.

Because of this opposition, the reply was turned back to DeValera for redrafting. The President agreed to modify its strong language and submit the revised draft to a special cabinet meeting tomorrow or Friday.

Sean F. Lemass, minister of industry and commerce, and De Valera's chief lieutenant, was understood to be his leader's principal foe in the oath debate, which lasted four hours. Until now he had been one of the outstanding exponents of republicanism.

Lemass demanded that the way be left open for negotiations, while it was understood De Valera's reply, which was expected to be approved at yesterday's council meeting, was along the lines of the firm stand the Free State president has taken in his fiery speeches and in interviews given the press.

ADMITS KILLING TO AID BROTHER

PHILADELPHIA, March 30.—(INS.)—Clara Grace Prophet stands today as the self-confessed slayer of her husband, William F. Prophet, slain at the couple's home, November 23, 1930.

Harold E. Williams, her brother, twice convicted of the crime and sentenced to death, is innocent, she said.

He had no hand in the killing, nor was he there when it occurred, according to her confession, which was sent through her attorney to Judge Harry S. McDevitt and District Attorney Kelley.

The statement of Mrs. Prophet, now serving a life sentence for her husband's murder, was tendered to Judge McDevitt along with a petition asking that in view of the new evidence all proceedings be stayed until the court should determine whether a new trial should be granted.

The petition was taken under advisement.

Flogging Victim Gets Jail Term

SHENANDOAH JUNCTION, W. Va., March 30.—(AP.)—Lloyd Barron, publicly whipped by white robed and hooded men on the night of March 19, was sent to jail at Charlestown today to serve a 40-day sentence for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. He went to jail in default of a $10 fine and costs. Constable C. D. Walker said Barron profanely and publicly charged local persons with having been implicated in the whipping.

DOCTOR, NURSE KILL SELVES WITH POISON

Girl Calls Aid For Medical Instructor, Ends Own Life After Rescue Efforts Fail

BALTIMORE, March 30.—(AP.)—Shock, resulting from the death before her eyes of her employer and co-worker in scientific research, was blamed today by police for the suicide of Miss Mona Rittenhouse, who died last night from a draught of the same poison which a few minutes before had killed Dr. Frederick B. Jennings, Jr.

Coroner John J. Morrissey returned verdicts of suicide in both deaths, but said that he could not find any evidence of a concerted plan on the part of the two to destroy themselves.

By her death, the 28-year-old nurse placed serious obstacles in the path of the inquiry seeking to clear up the suicide of the wealthy volunteer instructor in pathology at Johns Hopkins medical school.

ACT SUDDEN

Only she was with him when he took the poison, and she snatched the bottle containing it as soon as physicians she summoned pronounced him dead. Her act was so sudden that the doctors had no opportunity to learn of any statement Dr. Jennings might have made in relation to his act.

The double suicide took place in Dr. Jennings' seven-room suite in one of the most exclusive apartment houses in Baltimore, where he had lived since returning from Saranac Lake, where he had undergone treatment for tuberculosis. Despondency over ill health was believed by Coroner Morrissey to have led to his act.

PHYSICIAN MARRIED

Dr. Jennings was married, his wife living in Colorado Springs, Col. Miss Rittenhouse was a native of Canada, but had applied for naturalization papers.

The nurse came here four months ago from New York. Hopkins officials said, to take employment in the Wilmer Opthalmological Institute, but had been aiding Dr. Jennings in research work and caring for him.

Nearly a pint of the poison, one so deadly that its sale is not permitted, was used in the two suicides, officials said, declaring Dr. Jennings apparently had obtained it at the hospital.

3 KILL SELVES IN HONOR PACT

CHICAGO, March 30.—(AP.)—Their absorption of the Samurai code during their long residence in Japan was believed by officers today the explanation of the triple suicide of a Quaker family.

In a private garage they had rented only a few hours before on Monday, were found the bodies of Horace E. Coleman, 65; his wife, Floy Elizabeth, 62, and their son, Horace, Jr., 21. The Colemans, missionaries of the Society of Friends in Japan for many years, died from asphyxiation from their automobile's exhaust. Their home was in Bloomingdale, Ind.

Previous to receipt of a warrant for the younger Coleman based on a young woman's charge, a Coroner's jury had decided the parents and their son had committed suicide for "reasons unknown." But authorities accepted the theory that the family, impelled by fear of disgrace over the charges, had followed the Oriental code they had studied during their stay in Japan, preferring death to dishonor.

GIRL ABDUCTED, ESCORT BEATEN

PATERSON, N. J., March 30.—(AP.)—A dramatic recital of the "kidnaping" of a young Paterson woman and the savage beating of her escort, caused a short-lived sensation here today.

State and local police organized a frantic search for Miss Milly Baker, 23, when John H. Jeffs, Philadelphia, staggered into police headquarters, bruised and bleeding, and told how two men with pistols had beaten and robbed the pair as they sat parked in an automobile in a lonely lane, and then carried off the girl.

They loaded her into their automobile, screaming and kicking, he said, and drove away.

For two hours police scurried in every direction seeking trace of the abductors. Description of the young woman furnished by Jeffs, was broadcast and automobiles were stopped and searched. While the search was most feverish, police learned Miss Baker was safe at home here.

She said the men forced her to accompany them, and later she was returned to her home unharmed.

Mine Strike War Blamed in Bombing

SCRANTON, March 30.—(AP.)—Police authorities in Taylor Borough blamed the strike of insurgent mine workers for an attempt early today to wreck the home of William Samuels. A charge of dynamite was set off in the yard at the Samuels home. Authorities learned that Samuels, an employe at the Pine Brook mine, had been warned to remain away from work, but had failed to heed them.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that was centered over the western plains is now centered over Lake Superior and extends down over the Mississippi Valley to another center south of Texas. It is producing cloudy weather over most of the interior of the country and rain over the Ohio Valley states and southward over the Lower Mississippi Valley states. Pressure is high off the South Atlantic coast and over the West. As a result of this pressure distribution the weather is mild from the central plains eastward and cold over the western and northern plains and over the Rocky Mountain states.

MELLON BIDS HOOVER ADIEU

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(AP.)—Andrew W. Mellon, new ambassador to the Court of St. James, paid his farewell visit to President Hoover late yesterday, prior to sailing for London Friday on the S. S. Majestic.

The former Secretary of the Treasury said there had been no special emphasis upon the question of war debts during his conferences with Washington officials. He declared:

"That is not a question I need to study. I am familiar with the background of the situation. It is merely a question of awaiting developments, if any."

Mellon expressed a belief that the House, now engaged in the enactment of a new tax bill, would "work out something reasonable to balance the budget."

Bergs Move South, Ice Patrol Resumes

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(AP.)—The Arctic, which last year failed to send icebergs south into the international steamer lanes for the first time in memory, this year is pushing the menacing ice south earlier than usual.

The Coast Guard today ordered resumption of the international ice patrol which was established after the sinking of the Titanic in 1912 after its collision with an iceberg.

Headline Hunter Tells in Radio Talk How Officer Handled Bellicose Japs

International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 30.—How a United States Marine lieutenant by his daring kept America out of the Far Eastern hostilities was told today by Floyd Gibbons, noted International News Service war correspondent, in a radio broadcast from Honolulu.

The famous head-line hunter related the story in telling of his adventures in covering the Sino-Japanese conflict in Shanghai, Manchuria and other Oriental points.

He said a Japanese airplane loosed bombs on the roof of a Chinese-owned cotton mill in the International Settlement at Shanghai. He continued:

CALLED FROM BARRACKS

"A news photographer had just called them out of barracks to pose for a picture."

Protests were made to the Japanese Admiral Nomura, who sent three naval officers, carrying automatics, to examine the mill, Gibbons said:

"Busting up to Lieut. Jesse F. Cook, Jr., they said they were going to inspect the mill.

"But Lieut. Cook looked right into their eyes and asked:

"'You mean, gentlemen, that you would like our permission to inspect the mill? You certainly don't mean you are going to inspect it.'

"When the Japanese finally admitted that, then Lieut. Cook sternly commanded them:

"'Put up those guns. Put 'em up.'

"His orders were obeyed, and then he sent an escort with them.

"And I'm telling you, folks, there was fire in that guard room. If anything out of the way had happened such as a double killing or anything like that, Uncle Sam's Army and Navy would have had a pretty tough battle keeping out of this private war.

"But Lieut. Cook kept America out of the war, for which I am pretty glad."

New Manchurian Revolt Blamed on Reds

HARBIN, Manchuria, March 30.—(INS.)—A new uprising, allegedly of Communist instigation, harassed Manchuria's independent government today.

Korean and Chinese insurgents on the Manchurian side of the frontier, opposite Vladivostock, have revolted against the new regime headed by Henry Pu Yi. Taking advantage of the mountainous and wooded terrain, the insurrectionaries are increasing their numbers, shielded from Japanese guns.

Small steamers from Vladivostock are discharging ammunition along the coast of a natural harbor near Yuanchuho, southeast of Tunhua. Japanese circles claim, adding that there is unmistakable evidence of Communist instigation.

The Harbin Times, a Japanese organ printed in Russia, reported today that the Soviet Consul General distributed 2,000 visas yesterday to Soviet employes of the C. E. R., which is evacuating part of its staff. The equipment and furniture of Chalantun, a summer resort operated by the railway, is being packed for hasty shipment to Russia.

JAPAN TO HOLD ISLANDS

PARIS, March 30. — (INS.) — Japan will retain possession of Yap and other Pacific islands she holds under League of Nations mandate even if she withdraws from the League as Tokio dispatches now threaten.

This frank admission was made to International News Service today by the Japanese delegation at Geneva.

If the League attempts to force Tokio to surrender the Pacific islands, formerly under the German flag, that organization will have to use more effective measures than were employed to end Sino-Japanese hostilities at Shanghai.

Ashes of Nagoya To Be Sent Family

NEW YORK, March 30.—(AP.)—The body of Capt. Y. Nagoya, who was killed yesterday in the plane in which he planned to span the Pacific, will be cremated, the ashes will be sent to his family in Japan, and other Japanese pilots will go after the $25,000 prize offered by the Tokio newspaper, Hochi Shimbun.

Plot Against Soviet Heads Blamed on French Aid

MOSCOW, March 30.—(AP.)—Moscow newspapers gave prominent place today to a dispatch from Paris to the Tass News Agency quoting the Communist newspaper L'Humanite as saying that far-flung activities by Russian "White Guards" were under way throughout Europe, including plots against the life of Joseph Stalin and other anti-Soviet conspiracies outside the Russian border.

Among the latter, the dispatches said, was a proposal to assassinate Maxim Gorki, noted Russian author, in Italy, and Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Foreign Commissar, in Germany.

L'Humanite was quoted as saying Russian emigres were now developing intensive anti-Soviet activity "under the protection of France and 'Vassal States.'" It sought to show that the recent attempt on the life of an official of the German embassy here was in furtherance of "white guard" maneuvers.

The Russian whites, the dispatch said, were directed from Paris and their "terroristic" organization was centered at Prague, Warsaw, Bucharest and Belgrade. The Prague organization, it said, recently sent two former Czarist officers to Moscow under forged passports to kill Stalin. Neither of them has yet returned, it said.

DAVIS MEETS MACKRELL AND PARTY HEADS

Senator Slated for Two Talks in Wilkinsburg; Announces His Platform.

Senator James J. Davis, candidate for renomination on the Republican ticket, conferred in Pittsburgh today with his campaign manager, Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, and subsequently met other regular Republican leaders. It was the first meeting between Mackrell and Davis since the Senator asked Mackrell to assist in his fight.

The Senator has two speaking engagements, one at Wilkinsburg High School, the other before a group of Wilkinsburg luncheon clubs, and then planned to depart for Sharon.

From Washington last night Davis announced his platform in a letter to Mackrell, which was made public through press associations in Washington. The platform included:

"Creation of the home loan banking system to break the jam in the mortgage market, save the homes of thousands of Americans from foreclosure and furnish funds for financing new construction.

"Formation of a depositors relief corporation backed by the federal government, for advancing funds to receivers of closed banks to protect the interests of the depositors.

"Stabilization of the bituminous coal industry by a program provided for in the Davis-Kelly bill.

"Strengthening and maintaining tariff safeguards to protect American wage earners.

"Legislation for the benefit of the widow and orphan of the soldier.

"A program of public works during times of depression to create opportunities for the unemployed and to help keep those at present employed at work.

"Appropriation for adequate provision for national defense against the aggression of other nations.

"No cancellation of war debts due to the United States from foreign nations. Keep out of Asiatic and European politics and thus avoid being dragged into Asiatic and European wars, forced upon us by quarrels which do not concern us.

"I want our immigration laws to be humane and to see families reunited. I am opposed to lowering the immigration bars, particularly those barring the Oriental. I favor the deportation of all undesirable aliens.

"Promotion of temperance through education and resubmission of the question of prohibition for a vote of people in accordance with constitutional provisions and in accordance with my statement on this subject issued February 4, 1932.

"I have consistently supported and will continue to support legislation intended to return the country to normal, agricultural, business and industrial activity, which will provide jobs for the unemployed and will continue in employment those who are now at work.

"The restoring to normal activity of agriculture is of greater importance to all classes than is generally understood."

Butler and Flinn Leave on Tour

by Philadelphia Republican organizations, the Republican state organization, and organization leaders of Allegheny County.

BARE PINCHOT PEACE

One of the high points of the meeting was the public reconciliation between Pinchot and Barr, who have been at political odds for years. Barr asserted amid cheers that he was fighting on the side of Gov. Pinchot because both were battling for civic decency and the ticket was composed of men of character.

Butler outlined his program but declined an invitational invitation from Barr to declare for a referendum on the prohibition issue restricting his position to an assertion that he was dry and would defend the Constitution of which the Eighteenth Amendment is a part.

Barr shouted in introducing Butler:

"I am in favor of a referendum on prohibition but I am not binding this candidate. I don't know how he feels on the subject. I believe this state would vote dry in a referendum and the women and mothers of Pennsylvania would help defend the Eighteenth Amendment. After all a referendum is an expression of the people, and that is always in order. I hold no brief for enforcement. No real attempt has been made to enforce the law, but it can be enforced."

IGNORES REFERENDUM HINT

It was this indorsement of a referendum which Butler ignored.

The central theme of Butler, Flinn and Pinchot was a cry to the remainder of the state to resist what they termed was an effort of the Philadelphia organization to gain control of the commonwealth. Butler, whose microphone manners have caused more than one disturbance, had trouble keeping in front of the transmitter as he huskily indicted the Philadelphia politicians, but only once did a word for which he is famous go on the air.

Then, with emphasis he pleaded with his hearers to "help him lick hell out of that gang." There was a roar of laughter as Butler pointed to the back of the stage where there was a cartoon on canvass of an octopus labeled "The Gang" which had its tentacles about Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Harrisburg.

OPPOSES WAR FOR BANKERS

The speech of the Marine veteran was constantly punctuated with applause, but the loudest insorsement came when he declared:

"I am opposed to sending American boys to be killed abroad in defense of the investments of international bankers."

As other points of his platform Butler declared:

"Millions of men, women and children are facing starvation through no fault of their own. Every worker has the right to work. The duty of the federal government is to see that he gets work. We can borrow enough to build roads and other public works, give our people jobs, restore their buying power, drive the depression away and pay it back when good times return.

"Pennsylvania needs, and I will demand, real tariff protection.

BUTLER BACKS LABOR

"I believe in the right of labor to organize, bargain collectively and protect its own interest.

"I am for strict limitation of immigration, but members of families of those already here should be admitted. Racketeers who violate our laws should be deported.

"I am for old age pensions.

"In the interest of their shareholders as well as the general public, public utilities must be brought under effective government regulation.

"The investing public and depositors in banks must be protected.

"I believe in taxing prosperity and not adversity, and in postponing new taxation until prosperity comes back. I am opposed to laying the burden of Europe's debts on the backs of our people."

Butler declared for disarmament and for adequate recompense to war veterans and their dependents.

HATES HYPOCRITES

Referring to his experience as safety director in Philadelphia, Butler said he had been dismissed for doing his duty. He shouted:

"I am for my friends, wet or dry, but I hate a hypocrite."

Pinchot in a short speech indorsed Butler as a sturdy fighter. He praised the ability of Judge Stadtfeld. He denounced the Philadelphia organization for refusing to support the Judge who is being backed by the Independents in a statewide fight.

The whole purpose of the campaign, Pinchot declared, is to keep the Philadelphia organization out of Harrisburg, which he said the Allegheny County Republicans had accomplished by his victory in 1930. He praised the Marine training of Butler as having fitted him for public service in civil life.

Flinn asserted he had not intended to be a candidate until the Philadelphia organization turned down Judge Stadtfeld.

STADTFELD SPEAKS

Judge Stadtfeld, reciting the refusal of the Philadelphians to support him, selecting as their candidate former Lieut. Gov. Arthur James, declared a judge should be swayed only by his conscience and his duty to the people. He said:

"There must be no back door to our courts. Who shall determine the qualifications of men for these positions? Shall it be the people, to whom the courts are responsible, or shall it be some political leader or organization?"

Judges William M. Parker and Robert Gawthrop, candidates for the two other places on the Superior Court, supported both by Independents and the organization, were not at the meeting.

Barr, as chairman, opened the meeting by denouncing the former government of Allegheny County as wasteful, and declared he had run for Commissioner only because Commissioner William D. Mansfield refused to side with Commissioner Charles C. McGovern in effecting a cleanup. Later Barr modified this attitude and included Mansfield as an aide in the strides toward decency he said he and McGovern were trying to take.

COYNE DENOUNCED

In unmeasured terms the chairman denounced State Senator James J. Coyne with whom Gov. Pinchot recently broke and urged support for E. J. Wuerthle, candidate against Coyne in the Forty-third District. No mention was made of John Benning, another Independent candidate who is being pressed to withdraw.

Barr insisted that he, McGovern and Mansfield would press a clean-up to a finish. He commented on criticism that the new board had retained employes of the old regime and brought one of the loud shouts of the evening when he said, referring to jobs:

"McGovern and I will pay our debts."

Barr pleaded with his hearers to interest themselves in legislative fights and send to Harrisburg a delegation friendly to Gov. Pinchot.

Last night's meeting climaxed a busy day in Pittsburgh for Butler and Pinchot. They visited McGovern at Valley Hospital. Sewickley attended a tea at which several hundred women were present, and conferred with a number of Independent leaders from western counties.

Butler Talks to Throngs at Washington, Waynesburg

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 30 (AP).—Swinging into Washington County in his campaign for election to the United States Senate seat now held by James J. Davis, Gen. Smedley Butler addressed crowds at Waynesburg and Washington today.

More than 500 attended the meeting in Washington.

Hoarse from his vehement speech at Pittsburgh last night, Gen. Butler reiterated his "dry" stand, flayed the Philadelphia gang and pleaded with the people to do their utmost to prevent the "gang" from controlling the state.

Judge Joseph Stadtfelt, candidate for the Superior Court, and Ralph E. Flinn, seeking the Auditor-Generalship, also spoke, the tenor of their remarks being substantially the same as Butler's.

Attorney John C. Judson, Washington County Pinchot chairman, presided.

One More Day to Pay City Taxes at Face

With but one more day to pay city and school taxes and water rents at face amount, City Treasurer Richard W. Thompson announced today that collections for the present year were six per cent less than for the same period of 1931. Taxes become delinquent April 1 and interest and penalties are added.

Total collections for 1932, according to the city records are $10,278,863.44. More than $10,400,000 is still outstanding. Thompson said. The total tax bill for the city, according to Thompson's records, is $20,642,072.94.

Make $1 do the work of $3 and escape those "pesky" colds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth washes. Hence, it goes 3 times as far. That's economy for you! Why waste money on antiseptics that must be used full strength to be effective?

IT'S plain to see—the difference between Pepsodent Antiseptic and other kinds is a big difference to the public. It's the difference between one dollar or three—the difference between positively killing germs or fooling oneself by diluting old-style antiseptics. After all, there are really only two leading kinds of antiseptics. On one side you have the mouth wash that kills germs only when used full strength. On the other side you have Pepsodent Antiseptic—utterly safe, when used full strength, yet powerful enough when diluted with two parts of water, to kill germs in 10 seconds. Pepsodent Antiseptic is at least three times as powerful as other leading antiseptics. Hence, it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you greater protection against sore throat colds. What a fine way to save money. Instead of paying $3 for three bottles, you pay $1 for one bottle and make it go as far as three—just mix as you use it. For years 3 people in 4 have diluted ordinary antiseptics but now they've discovered their mistake. When choosing your antiseptic, be sure you choose the one that kills the germs even when mixed with water. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic!

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds, prove its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent Antiseptic is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, it kills germs even when diluted with water!

FRANCO-BRITISH PARLEY SET

LONDON, March 30.—(AP)—Prospects for a four-power conference here in connection with the economic position of the Danubian countries faded today, but arrangements were completed for a meeting between Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Tardieu, of France, who will come over from Paris on Monday.

Tardieu will talk with MacDonald; Sir John Simon, the Foreign Secretary; Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and perhaps Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade.

Pierre Flandin, the French Minister of Finance, is coming with him, and these officials will discuss th whole range of European problems, particularly that of Danubian reconstruction.

Although MacDonald invited Germany and Italy to participate, the foreign ministers of those countries will not be able to be present. The four-power conference, therefore, will be held probably at Geneva sometime next month.

DETROIT TO PAY ALL DEBTS

DETROIT, March 30.—(INS.)—To refute printed reports, Mayor Frank Murphy has given International News Service a statement emphasizing that Detroit will not repudiate city debts. There has never been any intentions to default or repudiate city obligations, Murphy asserted. He said:

"Detroit is committed to the sound policy of balancing its budget."

Because of reports printed in some newspapers, city officials said they believed the Mayor's statement was needed to make plain that all city debts would be paid. Murphy continued:

"The increasing tax deliquency, has presented a perplexing problem, but one we have met thus far and will continue to meet by recourse to uncompromising economy in spending, reducing expenses, and putting into effect whatever economies are necessary to balance the city's budget. This promise to balance our budget has been and will be kept."

'Pioneer Mother' Shelters Bandits

PONCA CITY, Okla., March 30.—(AP.)—Robbers are hiding behind the skirts of Oklahoma's best-known lady.

In one night two motorists were held up by skulking fellows who popped from behind the statue here of the Pioneer Mother—the gift of E. W. Marland, oil man and philanthropist, to the state.

Woman Hotel Guest Plunges to Death

CLEVELAND, March 30.—(AP.)—A woman who registered as "Dora J. Smith, Madison, Wis." plunged 11 stories to her death early today from the Hollenden Hotel here. She was about 40 years old.

Hotel employes could give no reason for the woman's fall. A search of her room revealed she left no luggage or clues as to relatives or friends.

MARTIN SEES 'POLITICS' IN BANK ROW

Policy on State Deposits Attacked Only When Peril Is Past, Treasurer Says

HARRISBURG, March 30.—(AP.)—State Treasurer Edward Martin yesterday charged that "politics" lay behind the administration's move in connection with state deposits in closed banks. He declared:

"I have done what I considered was for the best interests of the state and its people as a whole. When many banks were closing each week and in week a total of 17 state depositories closed my policy was not questioned by the banking department. Now, when the danger is over and some political advantage is to be gained, my position is openly criticized.

Gov. Pinchot announced Monday that Gen. Martin's action in exercising the state's right as a preferred depositor in closed banks instead of demanding immediate payment from the surety companies was Gen. Martin's decision and his responsibility.

Attorney General William A. Schnader said Treasurer Martin acted wisely and legally in exercising this preferred depositor right.

The treasurer had agreed with the surety companies to exercise this right if they would not cancel bonds on state deposits in banks still open. Such cancellation would make consequently necessary withdrawal of state funds and undermine the stability of the banks, the treasurer felt, Schnader said.

"He fulfilled in every respect his understanding with the surety companies. However, it now appears upon investigation that none of the surety companies withdrew any cancellation notices which had been filed and that many of them continued to file with the board of finance and revenue notices of cancellation of depositary bonds.

"Therefore, it would be impossible for the state to depart from its customary practice of making collections from the surety companies in the first instance."

Robbers Tunnel Through 3 Walls To Loot Stores

NEW YORK, March 30.—(AP.)—Burglars tunneled through three walls to rob a florist's shop, grocery store and jewelry establishment side by side in Columbus avenue.

The first hole was in the wall of an apartment house hallway adjoining the florist shop. The thieves finally left by removing a rear door in the jewelry establishment.

Police reported the total loot at $1,500, most of it in jewels.

FAKE KIDNAPING WEDDING PLOT

LOS ANGELES, March 30.—(AP.)—Police today said they had solved a "kidnaping" mystery in which a 19-year-old girl voluntarily submitted to abduction to aid in extorting money from her father so she and her sweetheart could be married.

Ben Clifford, 23, was arrested as he tried to collect $900 in ransom money from Albert Bray, well-to-do real estate owner for the return of his daughter, Rita, who disappeared Friday.

In a room in a downtown hotel police said they found Miss Bray quietly talking with Arthur Lake, 24, a friend. The girl and the two men were placed in jail. Interviews later announced all three had confessed they plotted to obtain money so that Miss Bray and Lake could be married. Clifford, it was explained, assisted merely as a friend.

CAMPBELL ASKS RE-ELECTION

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Standing on his record for efficient and effective fidelity to duty and to my constituents," Representative Guy E. Campbell of Allegheny County today announced his candidacy for renomination and re-election to the House.

In announcing his candidacy, Representative Campbell said:

"Not since the World War has Congress had such a busy and important session. Matters of the most vital and far-reaching consequences have been acted upon and are still pending.

"My duty is clear. For the present, I must participate in the shaping and adoption of this legislation.

"I expect to be home and spend as much time in the district during the campaign as my public duties permit. Meantime, I must appeal to my friends to aid me to the fullest extent possible, in furthering my candidacy for re-nomination in the primary, April 26."

Council to Inspect Mayview April 6

City Council's annual inspection trip to the City Home and Hospital at Mayview has been set for Wednesday, April 6, President John S. Herron said today. The trip will be for the purpose of inspecting buildings and equipment at the city institution. The party will leave the City-County Building at 11 a. m. While at Mayview the members will be guests of Supt. and Mrs. James S. Hammers.

Thomas Amused By Comedian's 'Team' Offer

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 30.—(AP.)—John Charles Thomas, concert baritone, laughed until he cried yesterday upon learning that vaudevillian Al Trahan, in New York, had suggested a Thomas-Trahan team would be a concert headliner.

The comedian reported he had decided to cast off his cloak of buffoonery and "branch out" by becoming a concert artist.

The idea of Trahan deliberately falling over a piano stool before audiences started Thomas laughing, but later he said:

"I would be delighted to appear in joint recital with Trahan if he would let me play the piano and do the comedy stuff. He has a good voice. Let him do the singing."

Leaves Son $15,500; Daughters Get $25

Albert A. Hrala, Lorraine street, North Side, by his will probated yesterday, left his $15,500 estate to a son, Albert J. Hrala, after leaving $25 each to two daughters.

Joseph Delhordi, Upper St. Clair Township, left $600 to St. Agatha's Catholic Church, Bridgeville, and the remainder of his $9,000 estate to Mr. and Mrs. John Nemenich.

Hardware Dealers Will Hear Writer

E. B. Gallaher, business writer on hardware merchandising, will be guest speaker Friday night before the Pittsburgh Retail Hardware Association dinner in the Hotel Roosevelt. The dinner will be open to salesmen and representatives of allied industries.

2 WIVES CLAIM SLAIN MAN

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 30.—(AP.)—Dispute over identity of a middle-aged man beaten and stabbed to death yesterday near Mt. Vernon, Ind., today balked police efforts to find the slayer.

Mrs. Albert Johnson, of Evansville, told officers the body lying in a Mt. Vernon morgue was that of her husband, aged 32.

Mrs. George H. Claibourne, also of Evansville, who last night said positively she could not identify the body, early today said she had viewed it again and insisted the dead man was her son, Clifton Bruce Claibourne, 23.

Meanwhile the body of a second man found slain near here yesterday had been identified by a brother as that of Alfred Butts, 52, of Henderson, Ky., and Charles Hanniton, 37, Negro taxicab driver whose name and address were found written on a card in Butts' pocket, was under arrest at Henderson. Officers said they were convinced there was no connection between the two slayings.

Man Waives Hearing On Attack Charge

Samuel Vidavich, former proprietor of an establishment at 2112 Forbes street, has waived hearing for court trial on charges preferred against him by Alex Anderson, 45, of 2108 Forbes street, before Alderman Sol Goldstein. Anderson charged Vidavich with larceny by bailee and with aggravated assault and battery. Anderson preferred the charges after he had been arrested in front of Vidavich's establishment, accused of kicking in a window.

Third Card Party For 8th Ward Relief

The third of a series of card parties will be held tomorrow night by the Eighth Ward Relief Fund Committee at the Garden Inn, 5145 Liberty avenue. Mrs. Thomas Brassell is chairman. Proceeds will be used to donate baskets to needy families from the committee's headquarters at 4811 Liberty avenue.

North Side Bandit Aided by Woman

A woman bandit took $37.50 from the pockets of Howard Stamp, of Youngstown, O., while her companion held the victim at bay with a revolver at Forland and Middle streets, North Side, last night, according to a police report.

Drummers to March In South Side Parade

Six drum corps of the American Legion will take part in a parade to be held on the South Side tomorrow night in connection with the installation of a new South Side post, to be known as No. 453. It will have about 100 members. The work of installation will be in charge of members of Homewood Post, No. 351.

Speakers will be John Deller, county commander; George J. Proesl, state commander; the Rev. J. J. Hughes, state chaplain; Raymond D. Evans, United States Assistant District Attorney; Brig. Gen. Churchill Mehard and Col. James Costella.

Guilty of Extortion, Squire Asks Retrial

Justice of the Peace John C. Metz, of Kennedy Township, and Constable Edward Brubach, of Avalon, have filed motions in Criminal Court for a new trial, following their conviction on six charges of extortion. The question will be argued late in April before Visiting Judge R. R. Lewis, of Potter County, who tried the case.

ILLEGAL TRUCK HIRE ATTACKED

That 25,000 persons operating trucks for hire are transporting freight without permission of the Public Service Commission was revealed during a hearing before the Commission yesterday.

The Commission is engaged in a crusade against such violators. Approximately 50,000 persons in the state are operating trucks for hire.

Commenting on the illegal operation of trucks, Examiner W. E. Best said:

"Half of the 50,000 are operating illegally. The Commission has notified them they must file an application and prove the necessity for their operation and meet all the requirements of the law and the rules of the Commission governing the transportation of freight."

The Commission has issued warnings that if various truckers expect to continue in business they must apply for certificates and establish their right to carry freight. If they do not and refuse to obey stipulations in their certificates the Commission warns it will issue a rule and citation causing them to show cause why they should not be stopped from operating.

HOLLYWOOD NEWS -:- What's What in Realm Of Amusements -:- IN THE THEATERS

Barrymore, La Del Rio In Film

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, March 30.

Out to fill the theaters again, Hollywood is to offer unmatched cinema bargains this year.

Now comes David Selznick to announce that R-K-O will team John Barrymore and Dolores Del Rio in a modern story planned for early production. So far, I haven't been able to find out whether this will be the picture Adela Rogers Hyland and Gene Fowler will write for Dolores or whether Selznick has another story in mind.

Dolores Del Rio

At any rate, the teaming of this pair is another important instance of Hollywood's new largesse with famous names.

The announcement also is significant because it apparently disposes of the report that the three Barrymores will appear in a picture for R-K-O. Unless further arrangements have been made, John is only to do one more film at this studio. Lionel also is slated for one picture there.

Both Dolores and John Barrymore will finish their current vehicles in two or three weeks. In all likelihood, the new picture will follow immediately.

MR. LLOYD'S RECORD

Other actors may talk of their picture records, but with "Movie Crazy," Harold Lloyd rounds out his three hundred and fiftieth starring vehicle.

Harold started making pictures in 1914. He first appeared as a nondescript character called "Willie Work," which later developed into "Lonesome Luke." In the "Luke" characterization Harold made one comedy a week for three years, later branching out into the two-reel field.

Harold Lloyd

I wonder if you remember "Lonesome Luke." He wore a fedora hat which sat on the top of his head, a short coat, tight-fitting pants and big shoes. Two dots of a mustache, one on either side of the nostrils, was the facial makeup.

Tiring of this limited characterization, Harold discarded it and conceived the idea of the now-famous horn-rimmed spectacles. In this new guise he went back to one-reelers and, for several years, again turned out a picture a week.

In 1922, with "A Sailor-Made Man," he entered the feature-length field, and his activities, as compared to the past, slowed down to what virtually was a walk. In the last 10 years he has released only 13 features and, in the last seven, only five. "Movie Crazy," his third talkie, will be the sixth.

Plays and Players

—By WILLIAM J. LEWIS—

Manager George Young, of the Alvin, was "all smiles" yesterday. Reason—a long queue waiting to get to the boxoffice window to obtain seats for Katharine Cornell's appearance in the Sixth street Temple of Thespis next week in "The Barrett's of Wimpole Street," which will open Monday for the usual night and matinee performances. Miss Cornell plays the role of Elizabeth Barrett, and Brian Aherne acts the part of Robert Browning, who woos her. Curiously, all his scenes on the stage are with Miss Cornell, alone, and he never meets any of the other characters of the play except Flush, a spaniel, which is as it actually was in Browning's courtship of Miss Barrett.

* * *

Collegians are going to have their say in the movies. It may not be listened to, but they are going to be invited to say it anyway. David O. Selznick, Pittsburgh boy, who is exec vice pres of the R-K-O studios in Hollywood, has directed that a group of the rah-rah boys be given desks among the studio staff, and told to go ahead with suggestions, however radical, disregarding all evident trends in motion picture circles. Fresh ideas will be sought and the brains of college publications will be scanned in pursuit of writers who can find new grooves for their pens.

* * *

Pauline Frederick, prominent for her work on both stage and screen, is staging Gilbert Emery's new play, "Housewarming," which will be produced April 7 in New York by Ann Ayres, with Katherine Wilson featured . . . Anna May Wong, Hollywood's Chinese maiden of the fillims, will bow in "presentation" in New York Friday, and will sing both in English and Chinese . . . "Hot-Cha," song for Lupe Velez, which was born in Pittsburgh, but not heard here, is said to be the hit of Mr. Ziegfeld's "Hot-Cha" in New York, and, not only that, but the biggest song hit a Ziegfeld show ever had, according to report . . . Frances Dee will be Stuart Irwin's "closest friend and severest critic" in the fillim, "Merton of the Movies."

Carole Lombard and Chester Morris will be the high interest in "Sinners in the Sun" when that is fillimed, as it will be right away.

Thelma Todd, who was with the Four Marx Brothers in "Monkey Business," will help the boys again in "Horse Feathers."

Richard Barthelmess, who has been in the Orient, is sailing westward, and is expected to arrive in N. Y. April 18.

Gypsy Steps

Escudero, gypsy Spanish dancer, will give a performance in the Nixon this Saturday night.

Easter Views In Hearst News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Impressive pictures of the nationwide celebration of the Easter festival are contained in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, showing in the Penn, Fulton and other theaters. They include scenes in the famous Bowl at Hollywood, Cal., where more than 30,000 persons gathered to participate in the sunrise song service. There are also views of the great gathering at Arlington amphitheater, with President and Mrs. Hoover in attendance.

New pictures from China reveal extent of the destruction wrought in Chapei by the Japanese. The city is shown in flames after the truce had been declared, with rescue expeditions hunting amid the debris for survivors. Seldom has so graphic a picture been shown of the price paid by civilians in modern warfare. Hundreds of women and children are among the victims. There is a vivid description by the Globe Trotter.

LINDY BABY SEEKERS

The intermediaries in the latest phase of the Lindbergh baby kidnaping have given Hearst Metrotone News their first message to the public. John H. Curtis, wealthy Norfolk (Va.) boat builder, declares that he has every hope that the child will be safely restored to its parents ere long. Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock likewise expresses faith in the baby's safe return.

One of the most amusing chapters in aviation history is provided by Willard E. Blain, of New London, Conn., who demonstrates for the first time what he calls an ornithopter. The ornithopter is a set of wings on which Blain labored for seven years. They work exactly as he expected, with the slight exception that they would not take him off the ground.

GETS ONLY DUCKING

They do, however, ease his fall in a jump from the Thames River Bridge at New London. Blain escaping with nothing more than a ducking.

Members of the Chicago Polar Club took advantage of the belated cold spell for a dip in icy Lake Michigan. Apparently the members enjoyed the experience.

Society children are taking up boxing in a big way. Even the little girls are at it and Hearst Metrotone News presents Vera Martin, 4 years old, and Betty Ordway, 7, daughter of wealthy parents, in a thrilling contest for the amusement of the fashionable vacationists.

Broadway Playwright Signed by Studio

Harry Wagstaff Gribble, director and playwright of such Broadway successes as "Trick for Trick" and "March Hares," has signed a long term contract as a member of Paramount's production staff.

Notes About Stage and Screen

Under water dialogue is the latest problem in motion picture recording. This unusual effect had to be obtained during filming of an amusing scene in "Tarzan, the Ape Man," the African jungle story, coming Friday to the Penn. The scene depicts Maureen O'Sullivan being pulled into the water and protesting against being ducked by Johnny Weissmuller, who plays the role of Tarzan.

Dave Rubinoff, radio celebrity, and a Pittsburgher, comes in person to the Stanley Friday, heading Dick Powell's stage show. On the screen will be Frederic March and Kay Francis in "Strangers in Love."

TODAY AND TOMORROW

Among the leading supporting players in Paramount's screening of Rupert Hughes' "No One Man," coming to the Fulton tomorrow, is Juliette Compton, who has had important roles in such productions as "Morocco," "Kick In" and "Rich Man's Folly." Carole Lombard, Ricardo Cortez and Paul Lukas are featured in "No One Man."

"The Wiser Sex," opening today in the Enright and Friday in the Davis, shows how the underworld "frames" a district attorney and how he is rescued by a girl, Claudette Colbert. William Boyd and Lilyan Tashman head the cast.

DOUBLE BILL

"The Guilty Generation," with Boris Karloff, Leo Carrillo and Constance Cummings, and "Women Men Marry," with Sally Blane, Natalie Moorhead and Kenneth Harlan, is the double feature program which will come to the Harris Saturday.

Barbara Stanwyck, recent star of "Night Nurse," "The Miracle Woman" and "Forbidden," comes to the Warner Friday in "Shopworn." Regis Toomey is in the cast.

OTHER BOOKINGS

The Sheridan Square, beginning Saturday, will present "Impatient Maiden," co-featuring Lew Ayres and Mae Clarke.

"April Follies," in two acts and 36 scenes, featuring Ina Thomas' burlesque's platinum blonde, and Darlin' Lucky, billed as "The Blue Streak of Burlesk," will open in the Academy Sunday night with a midnight show. Eddie Kaplan will continue as chief comedian.

The Heroine

Constance Cummings is the heroine in "Guilty Generation," which will open on the Harris screen Saturday.

Miss Colbert, Brook In 'Bride of Enemy'

The first co-starring vehicle for Claudette Colbert and Clive Brook, tentatively titled "Bride of the Enemy," will be based on a screen play by Oliver H. P. Garrett. Berthold Viertel will direct. "The Misleading Lady" will be the release title of the Claudette Colbert-Edmund Lowe production produced under the working title of "Sensation."

Cummings Will Direct 'The Countess'

Irving Cummings, who directed "In Old Arizona," will handle the megaphone on "The Countess of Auburn," which features Alison Skipworth, Richard Bennett, George Barbier and Frances Dee.

Former Movie Siren Gets New Role

Rita La Roy, portrayer of siren roles, and Harold Minjir, former Ziegfeld comedian, have been signed to enact prominent roles in "Sinners of the Sun." They will support Carole Lombard and Chester Morris.

'Razzberry' Program At Kiwanis Club

"Razzberry Day" will be observed tomorrow at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club of Pittsburgh in the Fort Pitt Hotel. The program is being arranged by Ed Kliment. William E. Morris will be the club's booster for the program.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

WHILE SWAPPING tales of magic the other day, C. L. West remembered the time that Burling Hull was approached by an amateur magician and requested to build him an act. Hull, in case you are not familiar with the world of magic, is the man who designs and builds so many of the mystifying contraptions used by our greatest illusionists.

Hull never does work for amateurs. As a favor to a dear friend, however, he agreed to build an act for this amateur and to coach him until he reached the tryout stage. There was really nothing else he could do.

So Hull went to work and created an act that was virtually fool-proof. Every trick was operated by thin cords which led back to an expert magical assistant offstage. All the amateur had to do was to walk to the proper spot, talk his lines, wave his hands—and the magical effects would take place.

A tryout was finally arranged. The thin cords were placed in the proper manner. Things were bound to go off as planned. So Hull wished the amateur luck, shook hands with him and went around to the front of the house to catch the act.

But the amateur made his one fatal mistake. He entered from the left side instead of the right. His foot struck the bunched cords—and things immediately began to happen. Flowers popped up in vases, cards began to rise from their packs, eggs and handkerchiefs popped in and out of glass goblets, pigeons and ducks appeared from nowhere and soon filled the stage.

Finally two pistol shots rang out and an immense American flag dropped down. This being the cue for the curtain, the curtain immediately was rung down. The act was over. The whole thing had taken 45 seconds.

The booking agent who had been called in to see the new act rose from his seat and started up the aisle. As he passed Hull, he clapped his hat on his head and smiled nastily.

"Nice act your friend has there, Burling," he murmured. "But it doesn't last long enough!"

SHOWGIRLS are excellent targets for the Broadway jokester. One of the most recent inventions, practiced on a damsel in "Vanities," was done in the following fashion:

An advertisement was placed in the "Help Wanted" columns of one of our sedate—oh, very sedate—newspapers. It asserted that a showgirl wanted a colored maid for $50 a week, including room and board. The ad gave the girl's address and telephone number and specified that all applications must be made before 9 o'clock in the morning.

The showgirl was then taken out on a party and was returned home at the hour of 6:30. Tired as could be, she tumbled into her bed.

You can imagine how long she was able to sleep. The applications for the phony job tied up the phone service in that central. When she finally decided to go to a hotel, she had to fight her way through the applicants on the street.

Was that funny? I think not . . .

IT'S SUPPOSED to have happened in Hollywood the other afternoon. A tourist drove along Hollywood boulevard in a battered machine and finally came to halt. He jumped out and approached a well-dressed man who was standing at the curb.

"Here, you," cried the tourist, "I want to go into that house for a minute to get a drink. Watch my car, will you?"

"Watch your car!" exclaimed the well dressed one. "Why, sir, do you know that you're addressing R. B., one of the biggest stars in pictures?"

"That's okay with me," responded the tourist with a friendly wave of his hand. "I've heard plenty of stories about you, but I'll trust you just the same." . . .

THERE IS A certain newspaper man in this town whose bad luck with the horses has been snickered at by other reporters for several years. So far as any one knows, he has never made any sort of a winning. Yet he keeps playing and playing and playing.

A week or so ago he secured $18 from an unknown source and put it all on a hunch. Wonder of wonders, the horse came in. Bright and early the next morning he visited his bookmaker. The bookie gave him a check for $378, which constituted his winnings, plus his original bet.

The reporter flashed the check all over his office.

"I knew I'd come through," he crowed. "Maybe you fellows will think I'm a little wiser now. Look at that, $378!"

He deposited the check. And three days later it came back marked "No Funds!" . . .

WALTER O'KEEFE unfolds the slightly hysterical story of a chorus girl and her gunman sweetheart. The little lady was suddenly seized with the idea that she had a beautiful voice. So she went to one of those very classy music teachers who listened gravely to her efforts and assured her he would soon make her a second Lily Pons—at $15 a lesson.

For six months, she studied furiously. She would even practice at home. But every time she did this, her gunman sweetheart would jam his hat on his head and leave the apartment.

She finally grew annoyed.

"Listen," she cried. "I'd like to know something. Why do you always run out of the apartment when I start to sing?"

Her sweetheart favored her with a harsh stare.

"I got a reputation to uphold," he growled. "I gotta run outa here when you commence to yodel. I don't want the neighbors to think that I'm beating you up!"

* * *

AN ACE REPORTER on one of the morning papers was assigned to a recent political outing to which a number of proud fathers brought their offspring.

One of those doting daddies held a boy of 7 by the hand and beamingly exhibited him to every one in general. He finally led him before the reporter, who politely remarked that the child was quite a boy.

"I should say he is," cried papa, "but you ought to see his sister. That's a girl for you. She's only 17—and she's already studying to be a teacher. She knows everything—history, arithmetic, geography."

"Geography! Why, that girl's a wizard at it. Without even stopping to think, she can call off every doggone hemisphere!" . . .

* * *

HOUSEHOLD hint in a recent evening paper. Clipped by an anonymous reader.

"To dry-clean a suit, brush the garment with a stiff clothes brush, sprinkle with salt, rub in with an old handkerchief, shake off, brush well, and finally shake in the open air. Work from the outside of the stain towards the center. Use turpentine to take out paint marks, and if there are blackhead marks around any parts, make a paste of Fuller's earth, warm water and a little ammonia."

I think I'll stick to my tailor . . .

They've Never Tasted a Tonic!

THESE are not patent medicine children. Their appetite needs no coaxing. Their tongues are never coated, cheeks never pale. And their bowels move just like clockwork, because they have never been given a habit-forming laxative.

You can have children like this—and be as healthy yourself—if you follow the advice of a famous family physician. Stimulate the vital organs. The strongest of them need help at times. If they don't get it, they grow sluggish. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin is a mild, safe stimulant.

When a youngster doesn't do well at school, it may be the liver that's lazy. Often the bowels hold enough poisonous waste to dull the senses! A spoonful of delicious syrup pepsin once or twice a week will avoid all this. It contains fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin, and does a world of good to any system—young or old. You can always get this fine prescriptional preparation at any drug store. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin.

Get some syrup pepsin today, and protect your family from those bilious days, frequent sick spells and colds. Keep a bottle in the medicine chest instead of cathartics that so often bring on chronic constipation. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin can always be employed to give clogged bowels a thorough cleansing, with none of that painful griping, or burning feeling afterward. It isn't expensive.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Events

With the world championship bridge tournament, to be held at the Edgeworth Club, no farther off than Friday night, Pittsburgh and Sewickley contract bridge enthusiasts are feverishly improving their game these last days.

And of course there'll be many dinners, most of them small, often limited to a foursome, at the club before playing begins. The tournament in Pittsburgh will benefit Sewickley Valley charities.

Mrs. Chester Malsh Van Kleek will give a dinner party for four as will Mrs. Robert H. McCague, Mrs. J. W. Cree, Mrs. Kenneth Heald and Mrs. J. T. Austin, Jr.

* * *

One of the largest affairs of the post-Easter season will be the bridge to be given in Calvary Episcopal parish house Monday afternoon for the benefit of the Family Welfare Association.

Benefit Bridge

Today Mrs. C. E. Lott, chairman of the bridge is announcing another group of table holders for the affair. Among them are Miss Helen L. Hecket, Mrs. D. M. Craig, Mrs. J. Merrill Wright, Mrs. E. J. Edsall, Mrs. J. D. Schreuder, Miss Margaret Brainard, Mrs. J. R. Heyward, Mrs. W. C. Kirkpatrick, Miss Sophie G. McCormick, Mrs. Herbert Henderson, Mrs. G. M. Meigs.

Others are Mrs. David A. Reed, Mrs. R. E. Edmunds, Mrs. Stanley Fields, Mrs. Harry Hunt, Mrs. Henry B. Rust, Mrs. W. A. Hoevele, Mrs. Charles O. Scull, Mrs. W. H. Singer, Mrs. H. C. Flood, Mrs. W. C. Hawley, Mrs. Ray E. Hurd, Mrs. C. F. C. Arensberg and Mrs. G. W. Delamater.

Salvation Army Sets Aside Fifty Rooms for Business Girls Who Are Unemployed

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

A suggestion for a mass meeting of women possibly in Syria Mosque in the interest of unemployment relief was made yesterday by Mrs. John M. Philips, first vice president of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women. Mrs. Phillips was the chief speaker at a luncheon meeting given at the Evangeline Home of the Salvation Army under auspices of the women's division and attended by nearly 200 women.

Mrs. D. E. Miller, chairman of the women's division, courteously mentioned the florists who had graciously decorated the attractive Evangeline dining room and tables. Mrs. Campbell, wife of Col. C. B. Campbell, divisional commander of the Army, offered the invocation. Mrs. Hubert Chapman led the flag salute and Col. Campbell welcomed the guests.

Mrs. Miller and her predecessor, Mrs. A. G. H. Frazier, who had held the chairmanship for 11 years, presented two silver loving cups, one to Mrs. Osceola Clarke, of Waynesburg, and the other to Mrs. Isabella Pressler, of Sewickley Heights, in recognition of 10 years of Army service.

Present Two Cups

Mrs. Philips, Mrs. J. G. Challant, Mrs. H. J. Fox and Miss Martha Morrison, who constitute the newly formed advisory council, all spoke in appreciation of what Evangeline Home is doing for girls, especially those unemployed. It was shown through questions that girls and women in need of any kind of aid—mental, spiritual or material—may find it under Mrs. Miller's division. Positions have already been procured for several applicants, and the Home has set aside 50 rooms for the use of unemployed and professional women during the present emergency.

Adjt. W. B. Fowble spoke optimistically just before a tour of the building completed the afternoon.

Nine entertainment features will go to make up the "Camp Buddy Frolic" program which will be given Friday under auspices of the Ben Avon Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary. A string trio composed of Betty Husband, Lois Garber and Alice Jackson will open the program; a sketch called "The Red Schoolhouse," by a number of the boys, will follow; Donald Beitel will give a chalk talk, and the boys will follow this with a burlesque pantomime, "Little Nell, the Lighthouse Keeper's Daughter."

Buddy Frolic

In a singing novelty, "Hats," the boys will appear as Follies beauties, and next will come a series of Riley poems by the girls of Camp Buddy. Ray Stewart and Glenn Rosenfelder will give a sketch as the eighth number on the program and to close there will be a number in which the entire company will participate.

* * *

Triumph Chapter, No. 116, Order of the Eastern Star, will have a card party Tuesday in the Oppenheim-Collins Auditorium. Mrs. Mary E. Jones and Mrs. Margaret Fetzer are co-chairmen.

We know, Madam.
Washing dishes 3 times a day is dull work

BUT see if the New Oxydol doesn't make it easier

• Nothing could make jumping up after every meal to do the dishes a pleasure—but why not make it as easy as you can?

Sprinkle the New Oxydol in your dishpan—and see how dishwashing flies.

You've never had such thick, lasting suds—50% more suds to work for you—rich, clean-smelling suds that cut grease like a flash—and rinse away so dishes are sparkling clean.

Oxydol softens water too—and all water turns hard when you add dirty dishes or clothes. Try the New Oxydol. See how much it lightens all your housework—how snowy white it soaks clothes—and how easy it is on hands.

THE LITTLE FROCK STRESSES YOUTHFUL NOTE FOR SPRING

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, March 30.—With the advent of the extremely youthful note in the spring collection, emphasis is naturally placed on the little frock. For it is this type of dress that the youthful note can be stressed and used to the greatest advantage. Women here are ordering these simple little frocks with their youthful appeal. Not that the simplicity precludes originality. No, indeed. For you will find that as much thought and artful design has been put in to these simple little dresses as into a glamorous evening ensemble. It isn't to snare youth into the sartorial scheme and only a clever designer can make such frocks and avoid all tendency to the insipid and the "little girl" look that only too often is the terrible result of a simple little frock. On these frocks, trimming is reduced to a minimum, since trimming has a tendency to age a garment. Tailored frills and pleatings are often used, but never overdone. You will find such models at the most exclusive shop, and while the uninitiated may be inclined to wonder at the price-tag they carry, the fashion-wise woman knows that the price is not so much for the frock as for the youthful charm that it confers on the wearer.

* * *

LYOLENE'S SPRING collection features many extremely youthful and original frocks and there are many little dresses of the type sketched. The material is a gray-blue shantung with a self-toned dot and is used with trimmings of white shantung at the shoulder and belt. The new wide shoulder line is obtained by topping the arm with a series of little flat frills of the blue and white material alternating. The crushed belt has wide piping along the edge. Vertical seams are used to fit the bodice closely back and front. The edge of the skirt is widened by appliqued pleats pointed at the top and of varying length. It will be seen that many of the important touches of the season are incorporated in the design without sacrificing the essential simplicity of the model.

* * *

THE SPORT FROCK, by Lucile, is of a double-faced Rodier woolen. The fabric is navy blue on one side and white on the other. Both sides are utilized as shown in the sketch. The seams dividing the two tones are cross stitched by hand, giving a piqueted effect. The opposing tones on the sleeves is a new and smart note. The belt is of navy blue leather encrusted with white patent kid.

HERE'S THAT ENGLISH METHOD OF QUICK FAT REDUCTION

So Many Overweight People Are Asking About

A Discovery Recently Brought Here from England That Enables the Average Fat Person to Lose 6 or More Pounds Weekly . . . Without Starvation or One Extra Step of Exercise

It seems that the British have found a way to rip off excess fat that's the dream of every too-fat person. That is, to rip it off without starving, without tiring exercise.

Under an extraordinarily simple and pleasant regimen discovered there, the average fat person loses as much as six to ten pounds weekly; yet suffers no pangs of hunger, no aching muscles, no weakness or depression. Returning travelers from Europe talked so much about it, that it has now been brought to this country. Anyone can follow it; so if you want to get thin, here's your chance.

Eat, Sleep, Drink and Grow Thin, Doing Only This

All the method involves is a glass of water before breakfast—to clear the intestines and tone the system—and a few minor changes in your diet.

Here is what you do: Tear this article out and save it, so you won't forget.

Before Breakfast: Drink an ordinary tumbler full of cool water to which you've added a teaspoon of effervescent salt. (Get the brand named "Andrews" at any drug store.) This to eliminate the usual curse of fat people: accumulated poisons and bloat. Also to cut the moisture weight of your body—sometimes as much as three pounds in one day.

At Meals: Cut out ONLY fat meats. Eat your usual quantity of lean meats and ADD a double supply of green vegetables, . . spinach, cabbage, fresh peas, lettuce, etc. Then for dessert, shift from pastry and pies to FRESH FRUIT. The more you eat of these the better. They're super-nourishing vitamin foods.

Drink, too, if you like them, sauerkraut juice, tomato juice or orange juice "cocktails" before lunch and supper. Eat fresh fruit, too, before bed if you like to eat before retiring.

That's all you do. No wonder England and all of Europe is cheering this discovery. You lose weight day by day, week by week . . usually from six or seven pounds weekly to even as much as ten pounds, and feel amazingly more alert and active while you are. Doctors of world knowledge widely endorse this way. The salt tones and clears the system. The vitamin foods take the place of those that build weight and fat, and thus fat goes like magic.

Embark on the Great Adventure of getting thin today. Ask your doctor about this if you wish to be doubly sure this is the simplest, safest way to lose embarrassing bulk. You can get Andrews Effervescent Salt at any drug store for a few cents.

SUIT OPPOSED BY POOR BOARD

Preliminary objections to the taxpayer's suit of Walter W. Rhiel of Castle Shannon, seeking an accounting of County Poor Board funds alleged wastefully and illegally spent, were filed in Common Pleas Court by J. Clyde Miller and H. H. Dixon, members of the Poor Board and defendants in the suit.

The objections claim Rhiel is without authority to bring the suit and that his attempt to do so violates certain statutes. They allege there are no averments that defendants failed to comply with the law requiring filing annual accounts and having audits and settlements made.

Defendants question the jurisdiction of the court in an equity action and contend there is an adequate remedy in law. They claim the facts in the bill are insufficiently averred to permit answer and ask that the bill be dismissed.

Judge S. J. Snee recently denied a petition by defendants for dismissal of the suit and held the court had jurisdiction.

PINCHOT TO AID BANK OPENING

Request for more co-operation from the State Banking Department so that plans to reopen the Pennsylvania Bank and Trust Company, Thirty-fourth and Butler streets, made to Gov. Gifford Pinchot last night by the Arsenal Board of Trade, resulted in a promise by the executive to examine the charges made by board members.

Gov. Pinchot asked Dr. A. L. Lewin, chairman of the bank committee of the board, who made the request, to prepare a complete list of grievances and a complete reorganization plan.

The Governor indicated that he will take up the question with the state banking head. Dr. Lewin declared that the department should be just as active in opening closed institutions as they were in closing them.

BUS DELIVERY RULE DELAYED

Examiner W. F. Best, of the Public Service Commission, yesterday continued the hearing of the application of the White Star Lines for permission to carry package freight, in order to give hearings to additional protestants against the request.

The bus line wants to carry packages on five routes, operating between Pittsburgh and Washington, Waynesburg, Mt. Morris, Monongahela, Uniontown and elsewhere. They would limit the weight of packages to be carried to 50 pounds.

No tariff schedules have been compiled, it was testified. The applications are being opposed by the truck lines and railroads operating in the districts covered by the bus concern.

MORE STUDENTS TO VISIT KY.

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 30.—(AP)—As two bus loads of Eastern students left the state after protesting to Gov. Ruby Laffoon their ejection from the Southeastern Kentucky coal fields, another group from an Arkansas labor college announced plans to visit the mine area.

Lucian Koch, head of Commonwealth College at Mena Ark., said he and Harold Coy, instructor; Leo Grullon, New York newspaperman, and Sam Sandburg and Isaac Greensburg, students, would take relief supplies to Kentucky miners.

Koch announced they would leave Mena today, and come to Frankfort to ask Gov. Laffoon for protection before proceeding to Bell and Harlan counties. County Attorney Walter B. Smith has announced Bell county officials will take no notice of future student invasions, leaving them to citizens to handle.

The eastern students were elected because Mr. Smith said he had evidence they were affiliated with Communists. Koch, declaring members of his group were not Communists, said they would carry "copies of the bill of rights to deputized mine superintendents barring the highways."

ONE DAY LEFT IN AUTO TEST

Only one more day remains for motorists to have their cars officially inspected and approved, the Pittsburgh Motor Club warned today. Beginning at midnight tomorrow state highway patrolmen and police of the various municipalities will be on the lookout for machines which are without the official yellow sticker on the windshield.

The penalty is a $10 fine or a five-day jail term. The club said apparently most of the 240,000 passenger cars and trucks in Allegheny County were already approved.

The state highway patrol, within the next 10 days, will stop all out-of-state buses and trucks to determine whether owners are complying with the state law levying an eight-mill tax on the gross receipts of all buses and trucks operated in the state.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Remember That Good Looks Don't Make the Man

Are you looking for "an ideal"—a perfectly marvelous fellow with Ramon Navarro eyes and a Clark Gable technique?

Or perhaps, if you're a male, you've set your heart upon a nifty little replica of Constance Bennett, or a dazzling duplicate of the great Garbo?

And, meanwhile, whether you're male or female, you're probably passing up all the ordinary old-fashioned six-cylinder models—yes?

Then lend an ear to Fay.

Fay, too, was all set on finding her ideal. And she found him—how? How did she know him when he came along? Why, by his wonderful eyes, of course, and his marvelous line. So, of course, she just knew they were going to be happy ever after.

Were they? Listen—and learn about ideals.

"Dear Miss Martin:

"I wonder if you'll tell me if you think I'm on the right path. My story may seem like a trifle to you, but to me it's pretty important, and I would like to tell it and see what you think about it.

"You see, two and a half years ago I met my ideal, and when I say ideal I mean he was everything I had ever hoped for and more. Or, at least, he seemed so. He was good looking and seemed simply wonderful to me.

"Both of us fell in love with each other, and for a while things went fine, when certain jealous friends butted into the picture. Stories started to circulate about me—lies, stories no one but cads could have started—and Eddie, who was always jealous of me, began to believe these lies.

RETURNED HIS RING

"Well, I decided not to give up hope. Though broken in spirit, I still had some fight left, and I finally persuaded him there was nothing to them.

"After this first bunch of gossip died down, we became engaged. We were happy for six months. All plans were made for our marriage, and the date was set. During this time Eddie was again a happy, carefree young chap.

"Then one night, while at a friend's house, someone again repeated one of the many stories that we thought were forgotten. Well, you can guess how I felt—so utterly alone. Eddie took me home, questioned me till I could stand no more, and finally said, 'If you can't prove it's a lie, I believe John.'

"What was I to do? What I did do was to nicely and calmly return his ring and say good night. He tried to see me after that, but it was too late. I had had enough.

LOOKS DO NOT MATTER

"Since then someone with more faith and broad-mindedness has taken his place, for I found I did not care for Eddie so much as I thought.

"I am to be married in August to the homeliest man, but one I love and who loves me. And I know now that looks do not matter. Girls, take my advice. Don't fall for surface appearances. I fell for an "ideal"—but I'm glad I broke with him when I did.

"Do you think I did right, Sally?

"I am happy now. And tonight, when Ken comes, I am going to tell him the story just as I have told it to you. Of course I know he knows about it already, but I want to tell him about it myself. What do you think of gossiping, jealous people who would do a thing like that to a girl—or a man who would act like Eddie did?

"FAY."

What do I think of them?

Plenty! And I think you did right. And you were fortunate to learn, before it was too late, that eyes and shoulders and a line don't make a real man.

Here's wishing you happiness, my dear.

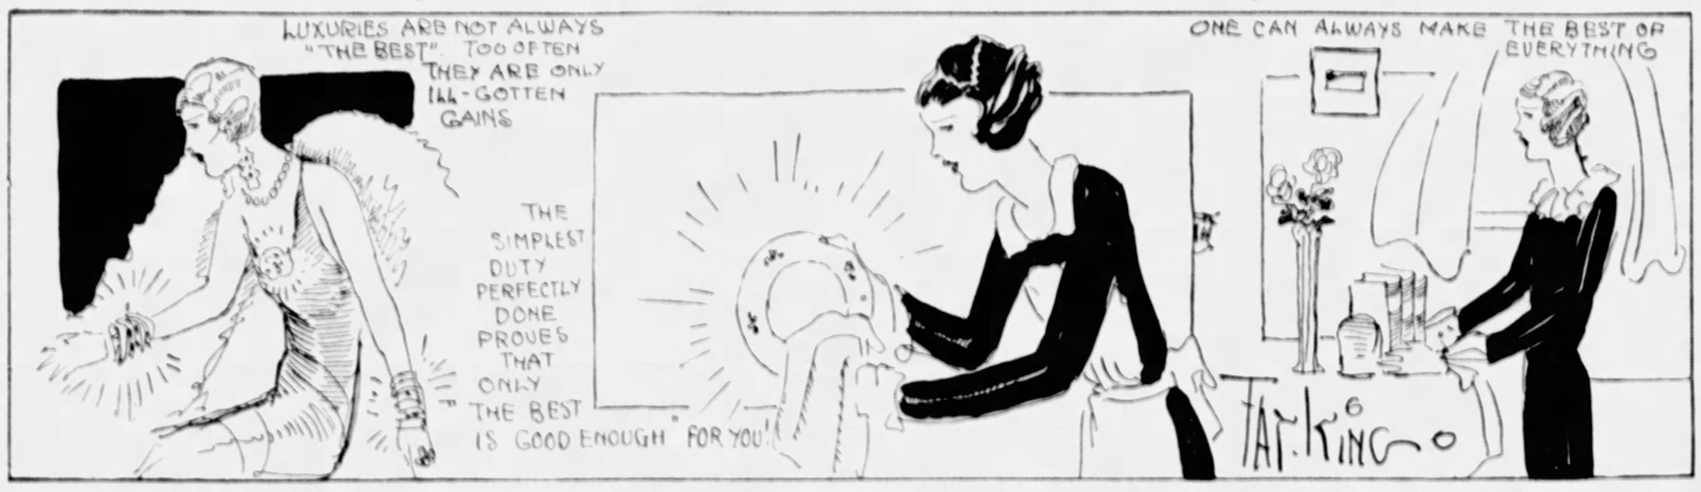
Fay King Stresses Importance of Motto, 'Best Is Good Enough for Me'



LUXURIES ARE NOT ALWAYS "THE BEST". TOO OFTEN THEY ARE ONLY ILL-GOTTEN GAINS
THE SIMPLEST DUTY PERFECTLY DONE PROVES THAT ONLY THE BEST IS GOOD ENOUGH FOR YOU
ONE CAN ALWAYS MAKE THE BEST OF EVERYTHING
FAY KING

By FAY KING

Arnold Bennett, the English author who recently died, said, "The best is good enough for me!"

Being a very successful writer, he was able to provide himself with the best of the best which he so much preferred.

"The best is good enough for me" is a motto we might all profit by taking for ourselves.

"The best" does not necessarily mean costly luxuries. There is a best to the very simplest things of life.

Neatness, cleanliness, a shining window, a crispy curtain, a well-made bed, spotless dishes and table cloth, all these little things attended to faultlessly can be "the best!"

In thought, disposition and character, any one can say and see that "the best is good enough for me!"

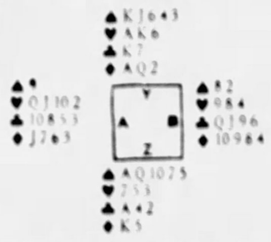
Contract Bridge -:- OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Slam Bidding

All hands like that given below, that will be used in these articles, were actually dealt and bid as given. They are not made up for the purpose of illustrating a mere theory. Thousands of players are deeply versed in the option of "feature showing," and would bid the illustrative hands in the manner given here. As with any option, players should announce ahead of time that they show features.



Z made an opening bid of 1-Spade. Neither A nor B held anything, so they passed every opportunity to bid. Y knew that his partner's opening bid must be made upon the Ace of Spades and the Ace of Clubs. Unless Z held an enormously long suit of spades, or two very long suits, he must hold some side honors. A small slam appeared assured; a grand slam appeared possible. But instead of guessing what his partner held, Y readily could find out by giving "the slam signal." He did this by jumping partner's bid to 3-Spades, calling for Z to show his lowest side Ace. As in duty bound, Z bid 4-Clubs. To discover whether Z also held the missing K of diamonds, Y answered with 4-Diamonds, to show his Ace of that suit.

Aces are shown before Kings when possible. Having no third Ace to show, Z responded to his partner's demand for added information by bidding 5-Diamonds. Up to date the bidding had clearly shown no losers in either clubs or diamonds. It seemed certain that Z held either four spades to the A-Q or a longer suit headed by the Ace, in case the Q was missing. There seemed very little danger of losing any trick in trumps. There remained only hearts that might contain a loser. Y wished to discover whether or not his partner held the missing Q of hearts. To do this he bid 5-Hearts, knowing perfectly well that Z must respond with 5-Spades. Over the 5-Spades, Y bid 6-Hearts. This was perfectly safe procedure. Y had shown the Ace and K of hearts, two twice bidding that suit. In case Z held the missing Q of hearts, a grand slam was assured, so that Z could safely bid either 7-Hearts or 7-Spades. If Z did not have the missing Q his response of 6-Spades would be no higher than Y knew was perfectly safe.

Of course, Z had to deny possession of the Q of hearts by bidding 6-Spades. Had Z held that Q he would have jumped into a grand slam declaration. No player ever forces his partner to bid something in a side suit that will be a trick higher than can be made on the shift back to trumps.

Y knew that just a small slam was certain; that if he bid a grand slam he would be gambling on results. He ran over the chances silently. Apparently the one thing that could beat a grand slam contract was the possibility that Z's hand was divided between the suits just as Y's was (five spades, three hearts, two clubs and three diamonds). Any other suit division would enable one hand or the other to trump or discard. Y decided that the risk was small, and he bid the grand slam, which was readily made.

Household Hints

To frost windows, dissolve Epsom salts in hot water, making it very strong. Then paint it over the glass while hot, with a brush.

Tiled floors or hearths that have become stained can be cleaned by rubbing them with a cloth dipped in paraffin and a little lard. Wipe afterwards with a soft dry cloth.

White marks on polished furniture caused by standing hot dishes on the surface can be removed as a rule by painting the white mark with olive oil, leaving on for a few hours, then polishing; this needs to be repeated several times. Spirits of camphor can be applied, and the mark rubbed vigorously in a circular fashion.

If your oven is treacherous, try it by means of a piece of white paper before you put anything in it to cook. When the paper becomes the color of meat pie crust, the oven is ready for small pastry. When the paper turns a light brown, the oven is ready for pies, etc. When dark yellow, you can bake bread or large pound cakes. If the paper is just turned a bit yellow the oven is suitable for meringues and sponge cake. Of course, this only applies to the oldtime gas and stove ovens, as the new gas ranges have thermostats that take care of all oven cooking.

The Wedding Hour

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it proper to have two bridesmaids and no maid of honor?

2. Does the bride ever give the groom a wedding gift?

3. Is five-thirty a proper time for an evening wedding? Or is 4 o'clock a better time for a wedding? M.

1. Yes. A bride may plan to have just the number and kind of attendants that she wishes. Two bridesmaids, walking together, and no chief attendant is quite all right. The duties of attending to the bride's train, if she is formally dressed, and to her bouquet or gloves, if she has to wear gloves, may be assigned to one of the bridesmaids.

2. Yes, very often the bride gives the groom a wedding present.

3. Five-thirty is still daytime, and so a wedding held at this time would be a day wedding. Seven o'clock is really the earliest hour for an evening wedding.

Four o'clock is the most popular, and probably the most convenient hour, for a wedding.

The hours of five-thirty, six and six-thirty are probably the most inconvenient hours, if the wedding is to be a formal one, and therefore will make the guests wonder what kind of clothes they are expected to wear.

Condolences

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it correct to send a card or a letter of condolence to a person whom I have already visited and to whom I extended my condolence personally? S.

It wouldn't be exactly necessary to write a not of condolence after a visit of condolence, but still, if the friend is a very dear and close friend, and you feel that a few written words would also bring comfort, it would be generous and most kind of you to write the note, too. In such cases, as you and I know, it is often easier to write our message of sympathy and understanding than it is to say it.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

'It's Great to Be Straight,' Is Slogan for Good Health

A leading college for women recently held a posture contest. This is an annual event and arouses great interest. The students have adopted the slogan "It's great to be straight."

I wish that the truth of this slogan could be realized by everyone and that more attention would be paid to the importance of posture.

Dr. Copeland.

Many persons do not hold themselves properly. They walk in a slouchy manner. They pay no attention to the importance of good posture while standing, sitting or walking. This is unfortunate, because good body posture is important to health.

Faulty posture is a common cause of many physical disturbances. Nausea, headache, lack of appetite, "biliousness" and nervousness are a few of the minor complaints caused by poor posture. Constipation, a common complaint, is often overcome by correcting body posture. Frequently backaches, referred to as rheumatism, are merely pains caused by improper positions assumed in walking, standing and sitting. Often abdominal pain and back-pain are confused with organic disturbances, when actually they are caused by the irritation of the spinal nerves due to bad posture.

When correct posture is maintained, pain and discomfort disappear; the digestive disturbances are cured and the individual gains weight and no longer has vague and annoying complaints. There is an increase in "pep" and vitality.

There are only a few fundamental rules for good posture. If you will follow them I am sure you will notice an improvement in your health and an increased ease in your daily work.

When you walk draw in your abdomen, chest out, shoulders high and square, and chin straight forward. Do not hold yourself in an awkward position, but be thoroughly relaxed so that the arms swing as you walk. If you want to be sure that your posture is correct, remember that if an imaginary plumb line is dropped from the side of the head it should pass through the ear and the middle of the shoulder, hip, knee and ankle bone.

Always sit in a comfortable chair and never slouch or sprawl over a table. Flatten the hollow of the back by rolling the hip bones backward and downward.

It is now an accepted fact that many of the diseases of childhood and many of the diseases and deformities of later life are caused by neglecting to correct faulty posture in childhood. This problem grows as the improvements and comforts of modern life increase. The child of today does not resort to as much physical exercise as his father did when a youngster. This is a pity.

Posture classes are conducted in all schools. The education must be continued at home if any benefit is to be expected. Help your child to acquire good posture, but never scold him for faulty posture. It is not enough merely to command a child to stand up straight. Show him what the correct position is and encourage him to walk, sit and stand correctly.

A good plan is to have a home contest and award prizes for the best posture maintained at all times. Remember that poor posture is mainly a bad habit. It can be overcome by continued conscientious effort.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Harsh treatment of pimples often result in scars. Apply compresses of gauze dipped in hot water until the pustule comes to a head. Open with a sterilized needle, press gently with finger tips covered with gauze or cotton. Apply boric acid solution.

Here is a new idea and no mistake. It came from Paris, that prolific source of do-dads and beauty gadets that separate Woman from Money. It is a bracelet made of cork and it is heavily perfumed. Didst know that cork retains sweet smells? It does. Instead of deluging yourself with essences that cost like all git-out, you slip on your bracelet and there you are, flowery, spicy, odory. Every time you wave your hand you make somebody's nostrils quiver.

When there's too much adipose tissues on the lower part of the back, do a spine-arching exercise. Lie on the floor, face downward. Lift up on the hands slowly and come down slowly. Not easy if the supplicant for slenderness isn't accustomed to exercise, or if she is over normal weight. Keep the legs rigid, so that toes, not knees, act as supports.

Freckles that settled on the arms last summer should have disappeared by now, but in case they haven't and are overstaying their time, apply a lotion made by combining four ounces of rubbing alcohol, two ounces of rosewater and 15 drops of simple tincture of benzoin. Dab on at night. Next morning massage with cream and cover with talcum powder.

NEWS! Kotex is now available to women everywhere at a price in tune with the times.

No question mark hovers over genuine Kotex. No endless doubt as to how it was made, where, under what conditions.

Today, for a minimum price, you get the unequaled protection that Kotex—and Kotex alone, offers. Made in air-washed rooms; of tested materials; inspected 76 times before it is cut, folded and packed—all by machine!

Kotex provides perfect comfort—downy softness; quick, protective absorbency. Wear it on either side with equal safety. Disposable, of course. It will pay you to make quite sure, when buying it wrapped, that you do get genuine Kotex.

Genuine Kotex—the best—now costs less

Don't let them count you out

A man is never whipped as long as he is physically fit —

If you don't feel your best when you awake in the morning . . . eager to eat . . . ready to go . . . you may be sure of one thing—the foundation of the "joy of living" is lacking. The reasonable answer is—

Build up your system — gain new strength

"I AM one of those who can't afford hospital treatment or to go to a health resort when worry and overwork cause me to become 'run-down'—my position would be at stake . . . my family is dependent upon my earnings.

"I have the sense to know that a 'lowered' blood count makes one feel weak . . . and when I become 'run-down' S.S.S. quickly puts me on my feet again."

If you require a tonic you should by all means try S.S.S.—this long established medicine acts by stimulating the secretions of the stomach . . . reviving the appetite . . . aiding digestion . . . regenerating hemoglobin . . . restoring the red-blood-cells—and builds greater resistance against infection and disease.

Try it yourself. Get S.S.S. from any drug store. In two sizes: regular and double—the latter is more economical and is sufficient for a two weeks' treatment. S.S.S. may be the means of bringing better health and happiness to you.

S.S.S. builds sturdy health

Transform Those Dingy Walls...with Climax...and Save!

Repapering or repainting is expensive. With Climax you can make your walls as good as new—or have it done at very small expense for help. Wallpaper, plain, antique or textured plaster done in paint—all respond equally well to the Climax "beauty treatment." Flat finishes, difficult for some cleaners, come out beautifully with Climax. Climax easily removes all the dirt film (doesn't rub it in)—it's perfectly safe to use on the finest wall decorations, too. But be sure you get only Climax—in the blue can, with simple directions.

CLIMAX CLEANER

"Isn't it grand, Dot, that our stockings, even our mesh ones, never get baggy now!"
"It's that wonderful Lux way of washing! Remember, the salesgirl told us...

"It preserves the ELASTICITY that makes stockings fit"

Lux for stockings

2 minutes a day keeps them like new

New stockings are elastic. Knitted with threads that stretch and spring right back again. When elasticity is destroyed, stockings get baggy—stretch out of shape. Lux preserves elasticity—makes stockings fit and wear.

Mark Shields on WCAE Tonight

Scenes from "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" are being presented this week during the Sun-Telegraph Family programs for the children. The feature is heard today from 4:45 to 5:15. Climaxing the radio presentations over WCAE, the show will be given at a local theater April 9 as the premier production of the Children's Theater of Pittsburgh.

Mark Shields, political editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, whose comments appear daily in the Sun-Telegraph, gives a political discussion over WCAE tonight at 6.

How is the sports section of a modern newspaper prepared? This, and numerous other questions arising on the point, are answered when Harry Keck, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, speaks over WCAE tonight at 7.

Peggy, who spends much of her time searching Pittsburgh's nooks and corners for bargains, gives her "Peggy's Tips" talk over WCAE today at 9 a. m.

News of the world is flashed to WCAE listeners from the Sun-Telegraph editorial rooms four times daily by Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News. He is on the air at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

Helene Ward, William Moorhouse, tenor, and the Silver Leaf Quartet are headliners on the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club of the air on WCAE tonight at 11, with David Levin and the Nite Club orchestra and Herb McGee, master of ceremonies.

LISTENING IN

With the Radio Editor

GRACE MOORE, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, the Revelers and a concert orchestra directed by David Mendoza make their debut on WCAE at 9 o'clock tonight in a new program replacing that of the late John Philip Sousa.

Miss Moore

Miss Moore is the second grand opera star to sign a radio contract for a regular series. Lawrence Tibbett was the first and he co-starred with Miss Moore in the motion picture, New Moon. Miss Moore features operatic arias and hits from her stage and film successes. Mendoza's appearance tonight is his first broadcast from the East in more than two years, during which time he has been in Hollywood.

Leopold Stokowski devotes his entire program of an hour and 45 minutes Saturday to works by contemporary American composers in the Philadelphia Orchestra broadcast to be heard here through WJAS.

Program Pointers

PAULINE TAYLOR, young East Liverpool O. contralto who made her KDKA debut a little more than a month ago, is heard in a recital at 5:15 today. Miss Taylor, through frequent appearances recently before the KDKA microphone, is rapidly becoming better known to the Pittsburgh audience. She has made a number of concert appearances and is a church soloist. She drives the whole stretch between East Liverpool and Pittsburgh both ways—exactly 80.2 miles—for each program. Her accompanist tonight is Aneurin Bodycombe.

Miss Taylor

Marcia Davenport, daughter of Alma Gluck, concert soprano, and step-daughter of Efrem Zimbalist, violinist, is interviewed by Margaret Santry over WJAS at 8. Miss Davenport's first book, "Mozart," recently published, caused a stir in musical and literary circles.

Elizabeth Daingerfield, celebrated Kentucky horsewoman and one of the most successful breeders of race horses in the world, tells her story of the spring racing season in the "blue grass" country at 10 over WCAE.

"That old favorite, "In the Good Old Summer Time," is featured by Singin' Sam over WJAS at 8:15. Over the same station at 10, Ruth Etting sings "Falling in Love"—remember it? —and "Kiss Me Good Night."

Antique silver is discussed when David S. Patterson interviews F. A. Keating, prominent Pittsburgh jeweler, over KQV at 7:45.

* * *

Fan Fare

BARBARA BLAIR, guest artist with the WCAE Novelty Orchestra tonight at 7:15, is a comedienne with George White's "Scandals" in Pittsburgh this week.

Miss Blair

Joe Falvo, a guest conductor, directs the orchestra and the Lawson Sisters harmonize. The Premium Man, who's heard every Monday and Thursday morning at 9, travels 1,464 miles every week for his broadcasts over KDKA. He lives in Indianapolis—371 miles away—and makes two round trips weekly.

Kate Smith made her stage debut with Eddie Dowling in "Honeymoon Lane"... Mme. Sylvia, the beauty specialist, won't give up radio to keep New Yorkers fit... She recently refused an offer of $1,000 for a single treatment... Jessica Dragonette has returned to the air after an attack of laryngitis, from which she recuperated in Bermuda... Joe Boley, WJAS announcer, yearns to be a playwright, and has turned out about half a dozen plays, several of which have been produced by amateur companies... Ralph Federer, the blond WCAE pianist, likes blue ties, blue suits and blue shirts—everything but "blue" songs... The Galbraith Sisters of WJAS spend several hours each week listening to phonograph records by the Boswell Sisters.

Question Box

Will you please settle an argument regarding that wrestling match scene of Amos and Andy last week? "A" maintains they had others on the program with them while B insists they never permit outsiders in the studio with them and that the crowd noise was made by records. Who is right?—J. J. L., McKeesport.

You are both right. In the first place, there were more than 100 other voices taking part in the program, including studio employes, a newspaperman and stray studio guests. But in the second place, Amos and Andy maintained their usual secretiveness by performing in a booth to avoid the inquisitive eyes of their assistants. Incidentally, it was the first time in seven and a half years of broadcasting that Gosden and Correll got outside help.

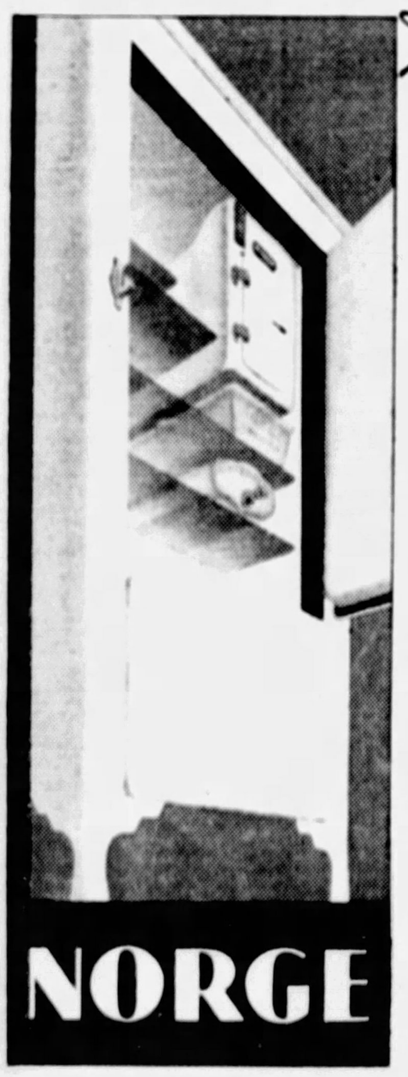
THEY'RE ENTHUSIASTIC ABOUT Rollator REFRIGERATION



THE ROLLATOR ● A roller rolls and there's ice... the Norge mechanism is as simple as that. It has but three moving parts... is almost everlasting.

With new features of convenience and advanced methods of food preservation, Norge today offers even greater value than ever before.

Among the latest Norge advancements are the Icevoir, for making quick and easy-to-remove ice bars, the Watervoir that keeps a gallon of cold water on tap, and the Preservoir for extra cold storage.

With these and many other original advantages, and with the simple, sturdy, powerful, almost everlasting Rollator mechanism, it is no wonder all who see the new Norge are enthusiastic about Rollator Refrigeration.

Before you invest in Electric Refrigeration, by all means see the Norge.

Norge is manufactured by Norge Corporation, Division of Borg-Warner Corporation, one of the world's largest makers of precision parts, including automotive free wheeling.

County's Predominant Wet Attitude Shown

—By MARK SHIELDS—

The predominant wet attitude of Allegheny County is evidenced by developments in four of the five congressional districts.

Mr. Shields

In only one district—the Thirty-first, where Clyde Kelly is the incumbent—is there a strong dry candidate running. That candidate is Kelly himself. But even he has wet opposition in the person of Maurice L. Thompson, of Wilkinsburg, who is being vigorously backed by a group of organizations in his district.

In the Thirtieth District Congressman Edmund Erk is expected to win, and Erk was one of those who voted in Congress several days ago to submit the prohibition proposition to the people for another decision.

In the Thirty-second District there are three Republican candidates conceded to have chances for the nomination. They are P. J. Sullivan, incumbent; City Councilman M. J. Muldowney, and former Congressman John Morin. Each of these is opposed to the existing prohibition system.

In the Thirty-third District, Congressman Harry A. Estep and Attorney Henry Ellenbogen are the outstanding Republican candidates. Both are on record as opposed to prohibition.

* * *

Leading Candidates in 34th Are Classed as Wet

In the Thirty-fourth District the three leading candidates, one of whom will win the Republican nomination, are Congressman Guy E. Campbell, Dr. Thomas M. Heard, Jr., and Matthew A. Dunn, a member of the State Legislature. Each of these men is classed as a wet; Heard, supported by the Independent and Pinchot forces, having caused something of a stir this week by declaring he was opposed to the present system as inimical to temperance, which he favors.

These examples are cited as bearing on a statement made by Gen. Smedley Butler, dry senatorial candidate, yesterday afternoon in Pittsburgh. Gen. Butler was asked to explain some points of his platform, advance copies of which had been placed in the hands of newspapermen for publication today.

His attention was called to the fact that he dismissed prohibition in a four-line paragraph declaring himself dry and a defender of the Eighteenth Amendment, and that this paragraph was somewhat subordinated in a discussion of the need of federal relief for the present unemployment situation.

The attitude of Gen. Butler's chief opponent, Senator James J. Davis, on record definitely for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and, pending that, modification of the Volstead law, was cited to the General, and he was asked if he intended to give prohibition a secondary place in discussion of issues throughout the campaign.

* * *

Prohibition Secondary In Butler Campaign

Very emphatically the General said he did, and his position was approved by Gov. Pinchot, who sat nearby.

But, in view of the Pittsburgh sentiment as expressed through Congressional candidates who are in touch with the electorate and are alive to the main chance, it is difficult to see how the General is going to keep the prohibition issue in the background.

No one denies the vital importance of relief, through private and public funds. But in Congress the prohibition question and the relief issue are being directly joined, it being asserted that a reasonable tax on legalized beer would be cheerfully paid and would raise revenue sufficient to meet all needs without recourse to other taxes being considered. A state beer tax would perform the same service.

Gov. Pinchot, who spoke last night in behalf of the candidacies of Butler and Ralph Flinn, independent candidate for Auditor General, is fully alive to the relief needs of various communities of the state. No one can talk to the Governor a minute without discovering that, and no one can doubt that the Governor is sincerely interested in affording the greatest possible pressure of aid.

* * *

Pinchots Keep Their Generosity Secret

The sincerity of his interest in the welfare of the needy requires no more evidence than that he and Mrs. Pinchot, almost alone, supported free milk stations in mining districts, and that they spent thousands of dollars in this manner and endeavored to keep their generosity secret.

Gov. Pinchot is one of the political leaders of the state who favors another special session of the Legislature to pass relief legislation. He also is one who believes that the most effective way of attaining this goal is the gathering of a state conference, embracing business, financial and industrial leaders, welfare experts and key members of all political factions to perfect a program.

The prediction is here ventured that immediately the Supreme Court hands down a decision on the Talbot relief bill, no matter what that decision, small conferences will be started, will be quickly broadened, and will be aimed toward a session of the Legislature early in May.

Mark Shields will talk on politics over WCAE at 6 o'clock tonight.

ASKS LIFE TERM FOR PAULETTA IN SLAYING

Clarksburg Official Tells Governor Coverdale Man Is Of 'Low Type,' Dangerous

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 30.—(AP.)—A picture of Frank Pauletta, condemned slayer, as a man of "low type" who should be kept permanently from society was given to Gov. Conley today by Sheriff W. B. Grimm, of Harrison County.

Pauletta is under sentence to be hanged April 22 for slaying Frank Giliberti at Clarksburg 18 years ago. Grimm told the Governor he did not personally desire that Pauletta be hanged and that he felt if the condemned man "were kept away from society for the rest of his life it might serve the same purpose and be better in every way."

HANGING URGED

The Sheriff, however, brought a message from Prosecuting Attorney Will E. Morris, recommending that the death sentence be carried out. Grimm said:

"Mr. Morris told me to tell you that if he (Pauletta) ever got out he would do the same thing again."

This week the Governor announced he intended to grant some "relief" to Pauletta, the extent of which had not been determined. He informed Grimm that a complete investigation of the matter was under way.

Referring to Pauletta's life since he escaped from jail in 1914 after being sentenced to be hanged for Giliberti's slaying, the Sheriff said:

"It is my honest belief he has not lived a good life since then."

JAILED OFTEN

His office has information, he said, that Pauletta had been sentenced to jail a number of times under assumed names, and "we do know that he cut his wife with his own hand and disfigured her face."

Pauletta's wife fears him, and it was through her, indirectly, the Governor was told, that Pauletta was finally found in Coverdale, Pa., a few months ago, and after a long race through a coal mine was captured and returned to Clarksburg.

Pinchot Pledges Aid In Pauletta Fight

Gov. Gifford Pinchot last night in his suite in the Hotel Schenley promised Patrick T. Fagan, president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers of America, that he would do what he could for Frank Pauletta, Coverdale miner, who several months ago was arrested at his home and rushed to West Virginia to face an 18-year-old murder charge.

Fagan, greeted warmly by the Governor, told the story of the crime and Pauletta's arrest, pointing out that while the United Mine Workers' Union did not condone the crime he committed, the union objected to the manner in which West Virginia authorities arrested Pauletta.

Fagan said:

"The arrest was very irregular and amounted to kidnaping. It is a question of whether you have any authority to act in the matter, but we are anxious that you help in any way you can."

"I doubt whether I have any authority in this case, but I most certainly will take the matter up with the Attorney General."

SUBWAY PLANS URGED AT TWO MEETINGS

Council Hears Snodgrass Proposal Advocated by Former Director Brown

Plans for construction of a downtown subway and a flood control wall were discussed at two separate meetings today as Allegheny County leaders fought to find wages for the jobless rather than relief through establishment of a dole.

In City Council, Edward Snodgrass, Jr., presented his plan for the subway, designed to remove a great portion of street car traffic from the downtown section.

BROWN OFFERS PLAN

Snodgrass' plans were prepared and presented in a crowded Council chamber by Norman F. Brown, former director of the County Public Works Department, who said he had made a study of the subway problem since Mayor E. V. Babcock's administration.

A $6,000,000 bond issue for the subway's construction was approved years ago by a vote of the people.

Brown told Council that now was an ideal time to build. He said the subway construction would not only relieve the unemployment situation, but its cost would be 30 per cent that of three years ago.

The Flood Commission met in the Chamber of Commerce Building to consider the feasibility of immediate construction of the proposed flood wall around downtown riverbanks.

SUPPORTS PROGRAM

H. B. Kirkpatrick, representing the Building Owners' and Managers' Association, was one of the speakers supporting the plan. He said:

"The mere spending of money for relief will not answer the question before us very long.

"If we give $5,000,000 for general relief it will be spent through the ward chairmen and little substantial good will come of it."

During the discussion, Wilmer M. Jacoby, secretary of the commission, brought out the commission six years ago prepared a flood wall plan and submitted it with a report, to City Council.

COURT ORDERS HOTEL SOLD

Sale of the Roosevelt Hotel, operated by the General Forbes Hotel Company, was ordered today by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson, the date to be fixed later. The hotel will be knocked down to the highest bidder unless the company, within five days, satisfies a mortgage and bonds of $4,309,600.12, due to M. Ernest Greenebaum, Jr., of Illinois, trustee under a mortgage.

It is said the sale will not affect the operation of the hotel.

Blast in Dwelling Breaks Man's Ankle

CUMBERLAND, Md., March 30.—Thomas Whetzel suffered a broken ankle when blown from the second floor of a two-story dwelling in Claybourne street this morning. Fire followed an explosion, but police have not determined the cause. Mrs. Anna Cage, who is said to be the tenant, was held on a federal charge when officers said they found a still and a quantity of liquor in the cellar.

Which Table Is in Your Home?

Poverty and Plenty so powerfully portrayed by Roy Hilton, distinguished Pittsburgh artist, in the third of a series of drawings, recall the words of the wise man to the ruler who sought a saying that would cheer him in the days of his adversity and warn him in the days of his prosperity.

Those whom this year finds huddled around the table of Poverty, take cheer. Remember: "This too shall pass away."

Those who today are seated at the table of Plenty, also should heed the words of the wise man: "This too shall pass away."

Circumstance, beyond human control, might at any time seat you at the other table.

Tonight, 28,000 Allegheny County families need your help. The Harris Family-Help-Family Association has been formed to give every self-supporting family an opportunity to help a destitute family through this grave emergency. Be ready to help.

BUSINESS MEN START FAMILY AID DRIVE

Advance Guard Launches Campaign to Make Harris Plan Effective in City

Relief for families left uncared for when the funds of the Allegheny County Emergency Association were exhausted, today was another step nearer with the County Poor Board announcing a successful loan of $260,000 and the advance guard of the family-help-family campaign already at work.

More than 125 Pittsburgh business leaders, under the direction of Taylor Allderdice, today comprised the group seeking special contributions to the family-help-family plan advocated by Senator Frank J. Harris. The campaign officially will get under way April 7. The loan of $260,000 negotiated yesterday by the poor board will mean that on Friday the needy families in the county districts can obtain direct relief in the way of grocery orders.

WORK COMPLICATED

Many persons believe they can support a family by providing relief directly. In a statement today, Frank B. Bell, of the Emergency Association operating committee, said:

"The essential thought of our plan is that many persons can carry 50 or 100 families; that others will carry 10 or five, and that hundreds can support one family through a gift of $100 to the collective fund. But the very complexity of the task, the reluctance on the part of campaign leaders to subject needy families to humiliation, makes it impossible for an individual or a family to support some other family, by name.

"Nevertheless, your subscription will go intact to the support of one of the 28,000 families, without a cent of expense to detract from its effectiveness, the Emergency Association, which will administer the relief fund, has promised."

WORKERS ASSIGNED

The advance guard in the Family-Help-Family plan gathered in the William Penn Hotel and there received its assignments for the most vital share of the undertaking. The canvassers expect to obtain subscriptions from more than 2,000 corporations and individuals. Speakers at the meeting were Senator Harris, Mr. Allderdice, William P. Witherow and Roy A. MacGregor.

More than 100 speakers will meet tonight in the William Penn Hotel. Alex P. Lindsay, chairman of speakers; William M. Furey, radio chairman, and Senator Harris will speak. Tonight Mr. Bell will speak over KDKA at 8 o'clock.

H. W. Shepard, of the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, declared his organization must obtain financial help immediately to continue its work.

Registration got under way yesterday for persons wishing to provide food by cultivating gardens this spring. Registration is in progress at the headquarters of the Thrift Garden Committee of the Allegheny County Emergency Association, 516 Grant street.

Between 20 and 30 persons applied for plots yesterday.

Jobless Husband Sees Wife's Life Ebb, Son Fade for Lack of Food

Distress Strikes as He Seeks Work in Distant City

J—— was titular head of the family. He knew and acknowledged that.

In the beginning, J—— had not meant to desert at all, and the neighbors who knew him best understood. Since he could obtain no work at home, he decided to try some other city. That was why, when the complete collapse of his home resulted, he was in a different city, hundreds of miles away, unable to do anything about it.

J—— had been a truck driver for 10 years. After he lost his job, life became a succession of temporary jobs and frequent disappointments. Many a time he had walked home over the Smithfield Street Bridge and looked down into the waters of the Monongahela. He must have often felt that it would be a pleasant escape to drop over the railing—but, there was Alice, his wife, to think about, not to speak of Mildred, 8, and Bobby, 5. So, he borrowed on his insurance policy and started westward. He was gone about two weeks when things began to happen.

Worn out by worry, Mrs. J—— grew ill. Robbed of her supervision, Mildred was run over by a truck, seriously injured and taken to a hospital. There was little food and no milk in the home, so that Bobby grew white-faced and pinched from neglect and poor nutrition. A message was sent to J—— in a city in Ohio, and J—— wrote back that he was trying to obtain railroad fare to return home.

But he could not raise the money and so the fortunes of the

J——'s fell lower and lower, and the wife lay near death, unable to care for her 5-year-old son.

Of course, when the story became known, funds were available to bring J—— home, but by that time it was too late.

If you were to visit the home today, you would see J—— sitting at his wife's bedside, probably after another day's search for work. He will never cease torturing himself with the accusation that it was all his fault—that if he had remained at home nothing would have happened.

This is one of the 28,000 families for which the Family-Help-Family appeal is to be waged. On the lists it is No. 7,014.

JOB DRIVE GAINS 3 SPONSORS

With every county in the state except Philadelphia and Allegheny organized to conduct the industrial drive of the American Legion campaign to find permanent employment for wage earners, State Chairman Ernest T. Weir today announced three additional business leaders have joined as sponsors.

The new sponsors are A. L. Humphrey, president, Westinghouse Air Brake Company; L. Iversen, president, Mesta Machine Company, and E. W. Smith, of the law firm of Reed, Smith, Shaw & McClay.

Opening of the local campaign will depend upon the progress of Senator Harris' Family-Help-Family Drive, it was announced. The delay is planned so not to conflict with relief efforts.

DENTIST HURT IN PARK CRASH

Dr. Jacob Rockman, a laboratory dentist, of Webster Hall, was in St. Joseph's Hospital today suffering from a probable skull fracture sustained last night when he was struck by an automobile in Schenley Park, near Panther Hollow Bridge. Edwin Fields, 19, of 1307 Illinois street, Dormont, alleged driver of the car, was charged with reckless driving, police reported.

Pat O'Malley, 9, of 2539 Fifth avenue, was struck by an automobile while crossing Fifth avenue at Craft avenue, last night. The driver did not stop, police said.

J. H. Mulligan, 26, of 2110 Wilkins avenue, Wilkinsburg, was injured seriously when he was struck by a "runaway" automobile in Wylie avenue, near Washington street, late yesterday.

Things to Tax That Will Make No One Feel Hurt

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

We're helping Congress out of its financial spavins by compiling a list of luxuries which can be taxed and nobody will be the wiser:

Colored Easter eggs. Gilded water pipes in second-class hotels.

Old-fashioned carriage steps in front of Victorian mansions. Green feathers on derby hats, the nutmeg on egg nog.

Parsley on boiled potatoes. Double windshield wipers. Marble deer on lawns. Gymnasiums in old folks' homes. Spontaneous remarks on the radio.

Slippery rugs on polished floors. Reform administrations. Republican prosperity.

Amateur theatricals. The Eighteenth Amendment. And some important resignations in Washington.

PROWLERS FLEE POLICE NET

North Side police and firemen from No. 47 Engine Company searched through the two-story plant of the Polar Water Company, 939 West North avenue, after a neighbor told police he had seen three men prowling on the roof of the building last night.

Police, finding the plant locked, called the hook and ladder truck and climbed to the roof. Entering through a skylight, police, armed with revolvers and shotguns, cautiously searched through the place for more than an hour, but found nothing amiss.

The men, who police said probably were safe crackers, made their escape before police and firemen arrived.

Several hundred persons gathered in front of the building and watched the search.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 30.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

No matter what the poor, old, dumb government tries to do, the "big boys" have a scheme that beats it. Now the big bankers have got a new "racket." Instead of going direct to the new Finance Commission for dough, they send the folks that owe them—he gets it from the government and then pays them off. That don't leave a single soul out snipe-hunting with a sack but the government. And, brother, when one of those "big babies" transfers one of his loans over to Uncle Sam it's not a "frozen asset"—it's a "petrified persimmon." Yours, WILL.

Poison Drink Perils South Side Man

Henry Mandrico, 39, of 1927 St. Paul street, South Side, was in a serious condition in St. Joseph's Hospital from the effects of poison swallowed in his home last night, according to police. Mandrico was said to have been despondent over unemployment.

SUGAR STRENGTHENS MORTAR

Scientists Prove Ancient Formula Effective

The wide-awake mouse of tomorrow may be eating the plaster off the walls, all on account of a series of experiments at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, proving that sugar increases the tensile strength of lime-sand mortar.

Scientists Gerald J. Cox and John Metschl learned that in ancient times plasterers "sugared" their mortar, believing it added strength. Then they received letters from several modern plasterers assuring them that sugar did make their mortar stronger. Other letters told them there was nothing in the idea.

The two men set to work some months ago to discover the myth or fact of cane sugar as a building material.

And they found that if sugar equal to 6 per cent of the quicklime is included in mortar, the tensile strength is increased about 60 per cent.

Ex-Marine, Six-Foot Youth Getting 'Acquainted'

Gen. Smedley D. Butler was touring Western Pennsylvania today not only to win votes for his senatorial aspirations but to win back the acquaintanceship of his 22-year-old, 6 foot 1 inch son, Smedley, Jr.

The retired general explained in Pittsburgh last night that his service with the Marines and his son's school attendance had kept them apart for five years. He added:

"I don't know him any more and I don't like it. He's a fine big fellow and almost a stranger to me. His desire to accompany me on this trip tickled me more than anything else. I'm having a lot of fun getting acquainted with him."

ATTACK ON TITO LAID TO BEER WARFARE

Police Learn Out of Town Gang's Seek to 'Muscle in' Here; 'Ride' Averted

Detective Inspector Frank R. Boyd said today his men had definite proof that the holdup of Joseph Tito, Soho political leader, early yesterday was part of a campaign of terrorism by an out-of-town gangster mob seeking to "muscle in" on the local beer profits.

The original plan, Boyd said, was to grab Tito as he left his auto in front of his home, 1817 Fifth avenue and "take him for a ride," as a warning to racketeers who refused to turn over a cut of their profits to the out-of-town gang.

Tito, however, resisted the attempt to be shoved into his car and his two assailants, Boyd said, lost their nerve, pursued him into his home and there robbed him of $600 in cash and a $1,000 diamond ring, took a pair of $1,000 earrings from his wife Catherine and fled.

The identity of the two gangsters, Boyd added, has been established through information given by Tito and though they have left town, their arrests are expected soon.

GOVERNOR CHEERING ILL McGOVERN

RALPH B. FLINN GOV. GIFFORD PINCHOT GEN. SMEDLEY D. BUTLER

County Commissioner McGovern recuperating from a broken ankle at Sewickley Valley Hospital, receiving guests Gov. Pinchot, his political chief, Gen. Butler, Pinchot candidate for U. S. Senator against James J. Davis, and Mr. Flinn, Pinchot candidate for State Auditor General. Butler, Flinn, "running mates," were introduced here. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

CHARLES C. McGOVERN

M'GOVERN GETS TALKS BY RADIO

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern's broken ankle was a tough break in more ways than one.

Instead of being chairman of last night's big political rally he was propped up in bed in the Valley Hospital, Sewickley, with earphones clamped to his head listening to the speeches of Gov. Pinchot and Smedley D. Butler.

C. M. Barr, his colleague, was pinch-hitting chairman of the meeting.

The broadcast was cut off in the middle of Pinchot's speech, only half an hour being alloted to the meeting. When the announcer broke in on Pinchot, McGovern, gazing ruefully at his bandaged ankle remarked:

"This certainly was a tough break."

He will be able to leave the hospital in about a week.

Two-Hour Fight Saves Life of Heart Victim

Squirrel Hill police with an inhalator early today revived John J. Steinhauser, 75, who was stricken with a heart attack while bathing in his home, 6372 Alderson street.

The unconscious man was found in the bathtub by his wife, who summoned police when her efforts to revive him failed. He responded two hours later to the combined efforts of police and a crew of the Mine Safety Appliances Company. His condition was reported fair.

Power Break Stops Clocks, Darkens City

Owners of electric clocks were busy adjusting them today after stoppage due to a momentary break in the current last night, resulting from failure of a 12,000-volt switch in the Colfax plant of the Duquesne Light Company.

Darkness prevailed in homes and on streets until electricians transferred the burden to other units. Operators in moving picture houses reported a break in projection and sound continuity.

Disease Laid to Dust, Worker Sues Firm

Inhalation of steel and grinding wheel dust while employed as an emery wheel operator resulted in tuberculosis for Steve Plazak, of Brackenridge, he charged in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court against the Allegheny Steel Company, seeking $100,000 damages.

While he worked in the Brackenridge plant from September, 1926 to April 15, 1930 the number of motor driven emery wheels was increased from six to 20 without any provision for additional ventilation in the plant, he averred.

MRS. JOHNSON'S ART EXHIBITED

Bertha Gill Johnson's exhibition at the Cordova Club, Forbes and Craig streets, presents the unexpected combination of paintings and weavings. Her studies of the landscape near Los Angeles where sea, mountains, and desert offer endless stimulation to the painter, are delightful in color. Her diligence is shown in her keenly observed travel sketches as she motored eastward.

Mrs. Johnson was one of the first in Pittsburgh to study weaving since the revival of interest in the craft. She has gone beyond the homespun and other types of cottage weaving generally practiced. Mrs. Johnson has extended her work to include tapestry weaving of various kinds. During the past winter she worked with D. Foldes in the French tapestry technic. She is now applying it to original designs in the contemporary style. Her exhibition will continue through this week.

the years his father's duties carried him away from home.

He said he was finding a lot of fun in the trip because his father permits him to drive the machine and takes him to political conferences. His fondness for the parent, who is almost a stranger, finds an outlet in the Quaker expressions that fall from his lips while talking with the General; Quakerish "thees" and "thous" that flow just as easily from the father's lips at times.

The General has another son whom he refers to as the "little fellow." Thomas Richard, 18, Swarthmore College freshman, who is an inch taller than Smedley, Jr. The second son has remained at home while the elder pursued his education in other states.

FIGHT BUS LINE FOR BON AIR

Application of the Brentwood Motor Coach Company for permission to operate between Bon Air and downtown Pittsburgh was opposed by the Pittsburgh Railways Company at a hearing today before Public Service Commissioner Samuel Walker.

The Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company did not oppose the application because it contained a clause that no passengers would be taken aboard the buses between Bausman street, Mt. Oliver, and Saw Mill Run boulevard.

The Brentwood company said it would give 20-minute service on week days and half-hour service on Sundays. The railways company at present operates only between 6:30 and 9:07 a. m. and 3:30 and 7:37 p. m. giving shuttle service from Brownsville road.

Fare on the bus line would be 20 cents cash or five tickets for 75 cents. Its route would be from Bon Air and Patterson avenues to Rice street, to Grimes, to Sunerest, to Arabella, to Parklow, to Redlyn, to Mathews, to Grimes, to Bausman, to Saw Mill Run boulevard and through the Liberty tubes to the downtown district.

Liner Safe After Battling Ocean Gale

PLYMOUTH, Eng., March 30.—(AP.)—Passengers on the Holland-America liner Statendam came ashore today with stories of what the skipper described as the worst eastward crossing he had made in three years.

There was an 80-mile gale which raised furious seas and caused the vessel to roll heavily. Tables and chairs were smashed and the passengers were miserable. It was Commodore Knol's last voyage as master of the Statendam.

19 Sentenced After Capital Red Riot

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(AP.)—When the police got through with the 21 radical demonstrators arrested after Saturday's fracas in front of the Japanese Embassy, two of them were free to go home.

This pair, Baltimore Negroes, testified they thought they were coming to Washington on a sightseeing excursion. The rest were given sentences ranging from 30 to 60 days, with the alternative of fines from $100 to $300.

SUSPEND CHIEF FOR 3D DEGREE

Coraopolis Police Chief Leonard Kleszek was under suspension today, accused of beating two Negro prisoners arrested as chicken thieves.

At a hearing last night before Burgess P. C. Gangloff, witnesses testified Kleszek twisted the handcuffs on one prisoner, beat him over the stomach and hit him with a blackjack.

The chief is a former coal and iron policeman.

Kleszek laid his suspension by the Burgess to politics and was supported by the Rev. P. J. Healey, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church at Coraopolis, who said:

"I believe the witnesses exaggerated. And while these prisoners were supposed to have been beaten last Saturday, they had no marks on them last night."

Five Coraopolis police were among the witnesses.

Officer Arthur Newell testified Kleszek twisted the handcuffs on Thomas Phoenix.

Other police told of hearing the prisoners crying for mercy and of being ordered to get rags to gag them by the chief.

The other prisoner, Thomas Holland, accused Kleszek of beating his handcuffed hands with a blackjack.

AFRICA, ITALY HIT BY QUAKES

CAPE TOWN, March 30.—(INS.)—One of the heaviest tremors in the history of South Africa rocked Johannesburg last night, said dispatches from that city today.

Buildings in the center of Johannesburg were shaken violently. Rock falls wrecked the entrance of the shaft of the Robinson deep mine.

ROME, March 30.—(INS.)—The population of Altamura, in the Province of Bari, was thrown into panic today by a strong earthquake shock.

Hundreds of persons fled to the fields surrounding the town, refusing to return to their homes for several hours. Several buildings were slightly damaged, but there were no casualties.

Fire at Hazleton Causes $100,000 Loss

HAZLETON, Pa., March 30.—(AP.)—A central city business block was in ruins today as the result of a fire which destroyed four buildings at an estimated loss of $100,000. Flames of undetermined origin which started in the basement of a women's apparel shop owned by Harry Frumkin, quickly spread to three other establishments in the block. Only a strong fire wall kept the four-story Sasso department store from catching afire.

CLOSING PLEAS MADE IN MINE KILLING TRIAL

Jury to Get Arnold City Murder Case During Day; Shooting By Yoder Denied

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 30.—Consideration by a jury of the fate of nine men charged with the murder June 23 at Arnold City of Mike Philopovich, was expected to start in mid-afternoon today.

Attorney H. S. Dumbauld, attorney for the widow, censured the defendants for their denial that they fired shots at the strikers, and declared that John B. Yoder had a shotgun from which he fired the six slugs that killed Philopovich. He asked for the conviction of the nine men.

Attorney E. C. Higbee, counsel for the defense, assisted by his son, Attorney Brown Higbee, spent nearly three hours in pleading for the acquittal of his client.

Higbee, in the defense summation declared he had shown by a number of witnesses that Philopovich was not shot by any of the nine defendants. He cited the commonwealth testimony to the effect that John B. Yoder, while standing on the highway, fired a charge of buckshot into the body of Philopovich, whose position was clearly defined on the porch of his store four feet above the ground level. It would have been a physical impossibility to fire these shots from the ground level and to have the slugs take a downward course as the autopsy showed, the attorney declared.

This was the fourteenth day of the trial, in which a mine superintendent and eight guards are charged with the killing of Philopovich, which resulted from strike disorders.

DOPE REVEALED IN THEFT HUNT

The activities of two robbery suspects in whose room, at 1910 Fifth avenue, police said they found quantities of narcotics and several revolvers, were being investigated today by federal narcotic agents and detectives.

The suspects, Ernest Scarello, 22, occupant of the room, and Nick Mellick, who was arrested when he arrived at the Fifth avenue address while police were searching it, were being held in South Side station.

Scarello was arrested in connection with the holdup of Joseph Valis' confectionery, 123 South Twenty-first street, Monday when four gunmen took $68 from the proprietor and three customers.

A physician's medical case, packages believed to contain morphine, a quantity of other narcotics and five revolvers were found in the room, according to police.

BANKER, AUTO PIONEER, DIES

Arthur L. Banker, 60, president of the Banker Windshield Company, Inc., a pioneer in the automobile business in Pittsburgh and one-time bicycle racer, died today in his home, 5800 Wayne road.

Said to have brought the first automobile into Pittsburgh and to have been the original dealer, he shifted to the windshield branch of the industry in which his inventions played a prominent part. Last fall he sued the Ford Motor Company for $18,000,000 for alleged patent infringement. The case has not been tried.

He was born in Wooster, O., and came to Pittsburgh about 40 years ago. He was a member of the Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, the Shrine and Masonic organizations. He leaves his wife, Mrs. May Kable Banker, and two daughters, Mrs. Semon Stupakoff and Mrs. Charles L. Beares, Jr., of Pittsburgh.

ECONOMY MOVE HIT BY JUDGE

Director of Property and Supplies Ray Sprigle's efficiency program for the county hit a snag yesterday when a letter from Judge Kennedy, of County Court, registering a complaint about substitution of printed for embossed stationery, was read.

In his letter Judge Kennedy stated that while he personally did not care if his stationery was rubber-stamped, the printed stationery should be made uniform with all courts and that the embossed stationery is more in keeping with the dignity of the courts.

The matter was referred to Sprigle to determine how much money could be saved by the substitution of printing for embossing.

Wife Asks Inquiry In Husband's Death

At the request of his wife, deputy coroners today were investigating the death of John Wajewski, 50, of 451 Water street, McKees Rocks.

The morgue report stated that Wajewski had died of a fractured skull received when he fell down the steps in a house in Robinson street, Stowe Township last night. The wife told the deputies she believed her husband had been in a fight.

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Old Giants Passed Up. • Eastman Olympic Hope.
McGraw Prefers Olson. Harding's Fine Record.
Reunion of Floor Vets. Haskell May Pass Out.

SENTIMENT OUT WHEN PENNANT FLAPS

SENTIMENT HAS ITS place in baseball sometimes and no magnate or manager in the major leagues has a warmer spot in his heart for old associates than John McGraw. But there is no room for any feeling of this sort when there is a pennant chance at stake. McGraw himself has given the latest evidence of this by his action in signing Ivan Olson, former Brooklyn player, manager and coach, to succeed George Burns as first base coach for the Giants.

Ivan Olson

When McGraw decided to fill the post, the general belief was that it would be given to another of his former players, like Burns. Several of them applied for it. Mike Donlin, in particular, stood out for the job. Fred Snodgrass, Chief Meyers, Tillie Shafer, Art Nehf and Ferd Schupp also were hanging around the Giant camp. But after seven straight years of pennant failure, McGraw is bent on succeeding this year. He put sentiment aside, passed up all his old warriors, and gave the berth to Olson, whom he pronounced a crafty factor on any ball club.

WITH OLSON ADDED to share the coaching duties with Dave Bancroft, McGraw feels that his outfit is all set to make a strong bid for the National League championship. "As I look over the club I am impressed by the prospect that we have a fine chance this year," he said.

"Koenecke will help us. Lindstrom is likely to be the best center fielder in the league. Critz's arm looks strong enough to throw with if he would only cut loose. Terry never looked better, and our pitching is vastly improved. We are especially favored in our reserves, both in the field and in the box.

"I PLAN TO go into the pennant race with 11 pitchers and later cut down to nine. I am satisfied with Luque, Gibson and Bell. I am impressed with Schott, Cyrus and I like Parmalee's improved control. Generally speaking, just how we figure in the pinch—I don't know. It was only in relief work that I signed Luque, and I do not intend to start him—not even in the early weeks of the season. Bell also will work only out of the bullpen and will not be used to start any games."

THE PROPOSED REUNION of basketball's old-timers in this district appears assured. Johnny Freund says there has been such an enthusiastic response to the suggestion that there is no doubt a veterans' day would bring out a large gathering. One of the first to phone his approval and offer to aid in the arrangements was Eddie (Dim) Zonge, of East Liverpool, O., famous as an official for almost a quarter of a century and numbered among the best this section ever produced. Others are being heard from daily. Harry Hough, now in Trenton, N. J., has been asked to name a date on which it would be convenient for him to attend.

Ben Eastman

IT WAS RATHER odd that just as attention was being called to the fact that Maxey Long's quarter-mile in 47 seconds, standing almost 32 years, was one record the modern runners were not approaching, Ben Eastman, bespectacled Stanford star, should turn in and beat it with his amazing new mark of 46.4 seconds.

The athletic world is still gasping. Long's record in 1900 was made on a straightaway course. Ted Meredith's 47.4 in 1916 was like Eastman's, made on a course with one turn. Eastman's staggering time is computed to mean that, barring the possibility that Ted's great competitive spirit might have changed the result, Ben could have spotted Meredith from nine to 10 yards and beaten him the day the Penn star of yesteryear ran the famous 440 which, until last Saturday, old-timers insisted would not be equaled for another generation or two. Eastman is now rated a sure winner for the United States in the Olympic 400-meter event.

SPIKE HARDING, former star athlete at Pitt, is visiting here following the close of another successful basketball season at St. Thomas College in Scranton, where he has been making a fine record as general coach and athletic director. Harding's floor team finished with one of the best records in the East, winning 16 games and losing only two.

Davis and Elkins and Temple were among the teams defeated. St. Thomas was nosed out by St. John's, of Brooklyn, by three points. The other defeat was administered by Geneva. Spike finished the campaign with an all-sophomore team. He is working on an unusually hard schedule for next season and hopes to book several big attractions for the Armory in Scranton, which seats 15,000.

HARDING SAYS HIS football schedule for next fall will include games with Bucknell, Western Maryland, Manhattan, Davis and Elkins, Notre Dame B and St. Bonaventure. The freshman rule goes into effect at St. Thomas this year, but the varsity grid team will not be hit hard as only two of last fall's players will be lost by graduation. Aside from his football and basketball work, Harding was one of the best baseball players Pitt ever turned out. Six years ago he was a teammate of Pepper Martin at Syracuse in the International League.

THAT CLUB THEN, for the first year was a Cardinal farm, and the following season it was transferred to Rochester in the same league, the International. Harding played shortstop under Manager Burt Shotton there in 1926.

Among the other players on the club were Martin, then playing second base; Don Hurst, at first; Tony Cuccinello, at third; Wally Roettger in left field, and Harold Haid, Fred Frankhouse and Al Grabowski, on the pitching staff. Charley Gelbert joined the team in the final month of the season to start his professional career.

ANOTHER INDIAN SCHOOL may pass out of college football and additional branches of athletic competition. Just as Carlisle left the picture during war time, to be turned into a government hospital, it is said that Haskell Institute also is to drop out of the collegiate ranks and become a high school.

College gridiron and track sports in particular will lose a popular fixture if the classification of the Lawrence (Kan.) school is changed. The Institute has kept alive the old Carlisle memories of the Indian athlete, recalling the days of Jim Thorpe, Pete Houser, Frank Mt. Pleasant, Gus Welch, Bemus and Hawley Pierce, Artie Miller, Charley Johnson, Albert Exendine, Chief Bender, Frank Hudson, George Gardner, Dillon, Dietz, Metoxen and many others.

Lone Star Dietz

HASKELL FIRST BROKE into Eastern competition in football when coached by Dick and Pat Hanley, now at Northwestern. Its most famous products of that period were John and George Levi, Mayes McLain and Tiny Roebuck. The Hanleys were succeeded on the coaching job at Haskell by William (Lone Star) Dietz, one of Pop Warner's old players at Carlisle, who has since done a fine job in turning out strong elevens from year to year. The Indians played Duquesne at Forbes Field in 1929, the Dukes winning a hard fight, 7-6. The most brilliant stars developed by Dietz were Louis (Little Rabbit) Weller, ranked with the country's best backs for three years, and Wilson (Buster) Charles. The latter was a great all-around athlete in addition to being a powerful back in football. He won the senior national A. A. U. decathlon championship in the big annual title meet at the Stadium here in 1930.

ERIE QUINTET ADVANCES TO STATE FINAL

By JULIUS LEVIN
Staff Correspondent

SHARON, Pa., March 30.—A powerful Strong Vincent High School basketball team representing everything its name implies has assured itself of a place in the final battle for the state interscholastic championship to be played Saturday night in the Penn State College Gymnasium with the winner of the Palmerton-Old Forge contest scheduled in Allentown tonight as its opponent.

The smooth-working and accurate-shooting passers from the Lake City, coached by Sam Kramer, former mentor at Braddock High School, qualified for the final by swamping Fifth Avenue High of Pittsburgh in the record-breaking contest for the Western regional championship in the local high school gymnasium last night, 41-25.

CRUSHING DEFEAT

With the crushing defeat of the Pittsburgh quintet, a team that astounded the district basketball world by scoring two surprising victories in the P. I. A. A. playoffs at the expense of Braddock, champion of the W. P. I. A. L., and Huntingdon, District VI representative, Western Pennsylvania's hope for the crown today is found resting with the ruined title aspirations of Homestead, Braddock, New Kensington, Charleroi, New Castle and other favorites who were headed for the scholastic throne until they met their Waterloos against opponents rated as underdogs.

Fifth Avenue, conceding weight and experience to the Kramer-coached machine, was no match for the District X champion. The Pittsburghers put up a game battle in face of overwhelming odds, but they could not offset the fine shooting of Louis Sickafus, Charles Bauder, Vincent Bell, William Jones and Ralph Calabrese.

LONG SHOTS FAIL

Unable to get within range of the baskets, due to the stonewall defense presented by the winners, Fifth Avenue resorted to shooting from mid-floor, but the efforts of the Briggsmen were wasted as one attempt after another went wide of the coveted mark.

Fifth started the scoring when Lefty Mahlmood sank a field goal from under the hoop, but that was the only time the Pittsburghers held an edge over the Erie quintet. It was at this point that Bauder started his scoring spree, which was not halted until he had recorded seven field goals and one foul for a total of 15 points.

He received fine assistance from his teammates, all of whom displayed accuracy when it came to registering doubledeckers.

An idea of Erie's offensive may be gleaned from the scoring figures of the game that show 18 field goals for the winners. Fifth Avenue was held to 10 baskets. Erie shot five out of 11 fouls, while the best Fifth could do was to sink the same number out of 18 tries at the charity mark.

To Ralph Calabrese, as good a guard as one will find in scholastic basketball hereabouts, was intrusted the task of checking the scoring activities of Louis Lemonis. Pugliano, and he accomplished this to a queen's taste. Pugliano, who almost single-handed accounted for the demise of Braddock in the P. I. A. A. playoffs, got two baskets, but both came as a result of long shots. He never got near the hoop.

LEFTY WINGS FIVE

While Pugliano was being bottled, Lefty Mahlmood, Fifth's guard, took up the scoring burden and he came through with five field goals, exactly half of the Pittsburghers' total.

Erie, with the exception of when Fifth scored the first field goal of the game, set the pace throughout. The margin of victory just about represented the difference between the two quintets. Every one of the players used by Sam Kramer distinguished himself as a star of the first magnitude. They worked with a finesse that is flashed by few scholastic teams and they go to Penn State College with an excellent chance of returning with the state championship.

The Fifth Avenue team which went down to defeat was typical of all quintets turned out by Coach Chester E. Briggs. Trailing from the outset, a team that showed a decided advantage in all departments of play, the Red and White machine never stopped trying.

FIFTH AVENUE GAME

The losers were in the game from start to finish and they did not concede the Kramer charges victory until the final bell sounded. Pittsburgh has been eliminated from the running but it was not disgraced by a much superior opponent. The lineup:

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE CAPTIVE EAGLE—An eagle's takeoff is preceded by running, a gradual extension of its wings and an acceleration of its pace until the speed is sufficient to lift it from the ground. Accurate measurement from the points where it had stood motionless to the point where the scratches of its talons on the ground had disappeared established that the eagle required a minimum of 60 feet for a takeoff. Therefore, an area of 45 feet square enclosed by a low wall will hold an eagle captive as effectively as a building.

TOMORROW: THE PRODIGAL SILVER COIN.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., March 30.—With his veteran pitching staff depleted by the loss of Charley Wood, Manager Gibson was given much cause for elation yesterday as he watched Johnny Niggeling recruit hurler pitch masterful ball against the Los Angelus club in an exhibition game here.

Earl Sheely, former Buc, pounded out two homers as the Angels defeated the Pirates, 5 to 3. They meet again today.

Niggeling was the master of the Angels for five frames and until the sixth he limited them to two safeties. In the sixth, the Angels were able to cross the plate three times, all their runs being scored on fluke homers over the left field fence.

Left field here is an extremely short one and is hardly more than 200 feet from the home plate. Sheely and Kreevich each hit the ball over. Sheely got his two homers off of Niggeling and Bivins.

The Bucs under ordinary conditions would have won, having scored three runs in the eighth on two legitimate hits—a single by Barbee and a triple by Suhr. These two safeties were coupled with a walk and an error.

The sudden illness of Charley Wood added the second casualty to the pitching staff, Wood joining Remy Kremer, who has been doctoring with a sore arm since the club left Paso Robles.

Wood has been ailing for some time, and complained of a severe stomach pain while the squad was in Paso Robles. He was examined by a Paso Robles physician at that time, who diagnosed his ailment as a strained stomach muscle. Wood was advised to take a complete rest and until recently had not been working with the team.

He complained of a severe pain Monday before the morning drill and Manager Gibson decided to have a second examination. He was taken to Dr. C. W. Cook, who ordered an immediate operation.

Wood has been reported as resting easily. He will be out of the lineup for at least two months.

BERNICE WALL DEFEATED

PINEHURST, N. C., March 30.—(AP)—Margaret Maddox, of Atlanta, eliminated Bernice Wall, of Oshkosh, Wis., from the North and South women's golf tournament today. The score was 6 and 5.

Miss Orcutt beat Mrs. J. J. Lawlor, of New Rochelle, N. Y., 6 and 5, and she then played out her round for a 74, three under women's par.

Mrs. Sarah Fownes Wadsworth, of Pittsburgh, gained the fourth place in the semi-finals tomorrow by beating Mrs. Leo Federman, of New York, 4 and 3. They made the turn all square, but Mrs. Wadsworth then took four straight holes to win the match.

Sport Page' Inside Story On WCAE

Listeners on the weekly program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will be taken for a walk behind the scenes of a modern large newspaper's sports department at 7 o'clock tonight with Harry Keck, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, as their guide.

Many young men express the view that they'd like to be sports writers and travel with the baseball and football teams or attend the hockey games and fights and other sports as reporters. The work seems so fascinating and easy. In this visit behind the scenes the working side of the picture will be presented, thereby giving the sports page reader an idea of what goes into the making of his favorite sports section and how the work is handled from the time the story breaks until it appears in cold print.

It's not all play and no work, far from it. But tune in and get both sides of the story from the Head Seal himself—at 7 o'clock tonight.

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Poor Babe Herman! Often blamed for the mistakes of others by the hoi polloi of the Flatbush, Babe also brings down the intelligentsia on his humble neck. Comes "Time," very clever though often "smart-alecky," news magazine with a blast on the outfielder, which is not without its ridiculous features. The sport chronicler for the ritzy-ritzy sheet relates, among other things, how Babe allows fly balls to pop off his head and with funny boomerang effect, Herman's critic lets one bounce off his own dome as he unwittingly suspends the rules of play to make his point. Here's part of "Time's" toast to the erstwhile Brooklyn bambino:

"If the dullest bush-leaguer who figured in the baseball fiction of Ring Lardner had been much more rustic and addle-headed, he would have been very much like Floyd (Babe) Herman, outfielder for the Brooklyn Robins since 1927. Herman is celebrated for allowing fly-balls to drop on his head, for transforming a home-run into a triple play (by passing two other baserunners), for carrying a lighted cigar in his pocket. But, because he is a powerful batter and at times a competent fielder, he is by no means a liability to his team."

"Time's" method of turning a round-tripper into a triple play duly qualifies its expert to broadcast a world series game. It matches the classic of the "mike" artist, who, when the Redbirds were manipulating their beautiful "squeeze play," last October let go with:

"Oh, he's bunting with a man on third—I never saw that before!"

Rule 49 of the playing code defines clearly when baserunners are out. Section 16 of this rule covers the point at issue. And here's that section, in full:

"If he pass a preceding baserunner before such runner has been legally put out he shall be declared out immediately."

Babe, according to his latest critic, made three outs in one time at bat. As soon as he passed the first runner he himself was erased and the continuity broken, but Babe is nothing if not unique—he kept on wiping 'em out. Art Shires or Hack Wilson could not do as much.

So Herman, his head bloody but unbowed, passes on to the protection of Irish Dan Howley and the kind Germans of Cincinnati. He will continue to be the butt of jokes, his diamond skill to the contrary notwithstanding. Would it startle you to know that Herman was second among the regular right-fielders of the National League in total chances attempted and accepted in the field last year? And it's a bit hard to laugh off an outfielder who is runner-up in the matter of throwing out opposing runners, Paul Waner, of the Pirates, is the only regular rightfielder of the league who was in front of more drives than the Babe, and Paul is the only outfielder of any description to nip more speeders than the so-called stumbling Herman.

The fans will continue to have a lot of fun with the home-run batter. If he makes a smart play and a smart teammate pulls a "boner" on the same action, Babe will get the blame. Glenn Wright is one of the headsup stars of the game. Well, didn't Wright slam one over the Brooklyn right wall? The drive was doubtful of clearance, and Babe, emulating a smart baserunner, went back to "tag up" and advance a base, in case the ball were caught. Didn't Glen go past Herman like a pay car passing a tramp. And was Babe panned by the multitude?

DETROIT, March 30.—While Erie, Huntington and Altoona pinsters were making a bad job of crashing the prize-winning gates in the annual American Bowling Congress tournament yesterday, Pittsburgh pinsters were not backward in coming forward for the cash.

Two Pitt pairs, W. Engleman and G. Antic, Jr., and G. Miller and G. Antic, Sr., laid the pins to rest for paying figures of 1209 and 1162, respectively. Antic, Jr., was the hero of the duels as he punched out a nifty series of 691.

It lay for the Bodine Hardware, of Bradford, to take care of the prize-check business on the midnight shift. This outfit hit 2,856 to rank third best total for the night. The scores:

REDS' TREASURER DIES

NEW YORK, March 30.—(AP.)—Louis J. Widrig, treasurer of the Cincinnati National League Baseball Club, died at the Commodore Hotel here yesterday of pneumonia, contracted while he was recuperating from burns received in a fire at the home January 19. The body was sent to Cincinnati at 3 p. m.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

BILOXI, Miss., March 30.—Some of the magnates are beefing about the attendance at exhibition games this year. The box office receipts may be a little skinny, but just as many folks are seeing the games, because the woodpeckers are rivet-more holes in fences this season. A few old rags will solve the whole problem.

Nick Altrock. This may not be a bumper year for gate receipts, but you'll find a lot more guys in the bleachers than in bread lines when Ruth starts pickling homers and Pepper Martin gets his ankles oiled u.

I see Mickey Cochrane ha his foot operated on. Tha shouldn't affect Mickey's work behind the plate as long as they don't lance his tongue.

DETROIT, March 30.—The Windsor Bulldogs, defending champions, are setting the pace in the International Hockey League's play-offs for the 1931-32 title.

With less than two minutes of play remaining in a 10-minute overtime period, Earl Robinson caged the puck to give Windsor a 1-0 victory over the Detroit Olympics. London and Buffalo, the other two title contenders, battled to a 3-3 tie at the Bisons' Fort Erie (Ont.) rink.

Johnny Clark, Detroit goalie, collapsed after the game. He was rushed to a hospital, where he was found to be suffering from an appendicitis attack.

Detroit will play at London, and Windsor will be host to Buffalo in the second set of games in the series tomorrow.

RANGERS, TORONTO WIN

NEW YORK, March 30.—The New York Rangers won the National Hockey League title and advanced to the final of the series for the Stanley Cup, emblematic of the world championship, by defeating Les Canadiens, of Montreal, 5-2, here last night.

In the final the Rangers will meet either the Montreal Maroons or Toronto Leafs. Toronto won its two-game, total-goals series with Chicago by beating the Hawks, 6-1, at Toronto last night, while the Maroons were downing Detroit, 2-0. Toronto will play at Montreal tomorrow.

SPEARS SIGNS AT WISCONSIN

MADISON, Wis., March 30.—(AP.)—Dr. Clarence Spears, football mentor at the University of Oregon, has accepted the position of head football coach at the University of Wisconsin, the board of regents announced today.

He succeeds Glenn Thistlethwaite, who resigned last December.

Dr. Spears will arrive in Madison April 13 and will direct the Badgers in spring drills two days later. The board of regents did not announce the new coach's salary, but it was reported on good authority that it was $10,000 for a year's contract. Thistlethwaite received $8,000.

In selecting Spears, the board of regents acceded to the demands for a coach with a "national reputation." After disastrous seasons in 1930 and 1931, the athletic department was subjected to severe criticism and as a result both Coach Thistlethwaite and George Little, athletic director, who brought him to Wisconsin from Northwestern, resigned.

Spears is Wisconsin's fifth head coach in the last decade. J. R. Richards retired in 1922 after coaching for six years and was succeeded by J. J. Ryan, who gave way to Little in 1925. Thistlethwaite assumed charge in 1927.

Wisconsin's new coach is well known in Western Conference circles, having coached at Minnesota from 1925 to 1930. Previously he coached at West Virginia and was assistant coach at Dartmouth, his alma mater. His Minnesota teams were always a threat in the Big Ten circuit, having won 28 games while losing only nine.

The OLYMPIC GAMES

By Lawson Robertson

CHAPTER XII.

Gene Venzke sizes up now as one of the greatest milers the running world has known. And, because he is intelligent and courageous and has the keen Mike Sweeney as his trainer, I am confident he is quite likely to crack the records he established this winter.

Some person have given me credit for the development of Venzke. This is not true. The incident which has to do with my part in Venzke's life is this.

He had been doing quite a bit of cross-country running in and around Philadelphia. I had seen him upon occasions and he looked to me like a great prospect at shorter distances. But I noticed that he was winning more because of gameness and endurance than through possession of bursts of speed.

URGES TRAINING CHANGE

So I said to him one day:

"Do you train by running short distances?"

He answered:

"Yes, I make mile runs."

Success at running calls for speed. And the way that speed is acquired is by constant practice and sprints. This is what I have taught all the boys I have handled. And perhaps it was knowledge that Gene didn't have. So I said to him:

"I think you will do a lot better if you practice sprinting—100 yards, 220 and 440."

"Thank you, I'll do that," he said.

That's all there was to it. Later Gene came under the eye of Sweeney, who took him in hand, schooled him splendidly, and the result is that Venzke today is the greatest miler in America, and perhaps in the world.

POSSESSES COURAGE

Venzke has courage. In the parlance of the track, "he can take it." I've seen plenty of stars ho couldn't. By "taking it" I mean to come on again—and again—and still again—if necessary, when caught and passed.

Venzke knows pace without a watch—but he safeguards himself by carrying one in the palm of his hand. He knows just how fast he should travel each lap so that he will have plenty of reserve energy for the last lap or two. So he steps according to his figure and the watch.

If no one travels beyond Venzke's measure of time, then he's out in front. If somebody starts off with a wild burst of speed, it doesn't flusster Venzke nor alter his plans, no matter how much of a lead the other fellow gets. He holds to his schedule.

WILL BREAK RECORDS

Venzke has a beautiful stride and a tremendous amount of endurance. He runs smoothly and always within himself—even in the last two muscle-wracking laps. No one really has pressed him this winter—no one has gone out and forced a sizzling pace. When that happens and Venzke must step to the limit to win, I am certain he will blast away his own records for the 1,500 meters and also the mile.

DUKE NETTERS DRILL TODAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The Steel City tennis campaign peeps out of the turf—or better, perhaps, out of the asphalt, inasmuch as it's the Duquesne University courts that are concerned—this afternoon. Provided March doesn't flash further evidence of going out like the traditional lion, Grant Siverd will hustle his Hill Top racqueters out on the Bluff rectangles shortly after 2 p. m. and from today till April 23, when Dr. Billy McElroy's powerful Pittites parade to the Red and Blue bailiwick, it'll be net work aplenty for the sizable coterie of performers likely to turn out for posts on the graduation-riddled Duke outfit.

Meanwhile, the tennisers of Pitt and Carnegie Tech will confine their efforts to preliminary conditioning drills indoors until the clay surfaces in the Panther Stadium and the Skibo amphitheater have dried sufficiently to permit jousting in the open.

The first campaign of the new district Interscholastic Tennis Conference will get under way on Thursday, April 21, with an even dozen schools competing in the trio of county sections and from five to 10 institutions likely to battle in either one or two city groups. The schedule:

SUBURBAN SECTION 1

April 21, Shady Side at Arnold School, University School at Mt. Lebanon; April 23, Mt. Lebanon at Shady Side, Arnold School at University School; April 28, Shady Side at University School, Arnold School at Mt. PROS RESUME DUTIES SOON

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Five changes in posts have been noted thus far as many golf professionals throughout the Western Pennsylvania sector prepare to take up their duties for another season as April is ushered in day after tomorrow. Many may not care for the April Fool's Day stuff on Friday and will hold off their scheduled appearance until Saturday.

Pros at new berths this season, whether they take their posts now or later, include Jimmy O'Donnell, at Churchill Valley; Ted Luther, at Valley Heights; Sam Parks, Jr., at Summit; Paul Erath, at Edgewood, and Johnny Capebianco, at Aliquippa. Most of the other boys will be back as follows:

George Underwood, Altoona; Fred Brand, St. Allegheny; Julius Platt, Beaver Valley; Tony Factor, Brackenridge Heights; Walter Johnstone, Butler; Dave Clarke, Castle Shannon; George McBride, Country Club, Pittsburgh; Dale Zimmerman, Chartiers Heights; Jack Kennedy, Fox Chapel; Andy Vellcan, Greene County; E. Vincent Eldred, Highland; Floyd Bruno, Hill Crest; Blair Hines, Kittanning; Bill McKay, Longue Vue; Johnny Manley, Montour Heights; Harry Keffler, Monongahela Valley; Jim Carlyle, Nemacolin; Ray McFarland, North Allegheny County Park; Dave McKay, Pittsburgh Field Club; Dave McCormick, St. Clair; Bob Graham, Schenley; Al McBride, South Allegheny County Park; Charley Manning, Shannopin; Walter Loeffler, South Hills; Jim Carroll, Stanton Heights; Jack Stewart, Thornburg; Emil Loeffler, Oakmont; Pete O'Hara, Westmoreland; Clarence Shakespeare, Washington; Tom Bennett, Youghiogheny; Harry Reisner, Zimmerman; Wildwood; Fred Loeffler, Ellwood City; Eddie Melvin, Wanango.

Billy Kane, Riverside (Cambridge Springs); Jim Keillor, Meadville; Arthur Goss, Bedford Springs; Horace Strand, Johnstown; Kenneth Stewart, Latrobe; Perry Delverchio, Greensburg; Wes Walthour, Hannastown; Ed Morrison, Pleasant Valley.

Fred Barron, Oakland Beach (Conneaut Lake); George Lobsiger, Conneaut Lake Country Club; George Swanke, Sharon; George Nahoutis, Jr., Five Points; Carl Vernon A. Smith, New Castle; Bobby Hilts, Steubenville Municipal; Jim Rathie, Steubenville Country Club; Jim Noble, Murraysville; Thomas E. Sullivan, Sleepy Hollow (Franklin); Tom Gray, St. Marys; Bert Battell, Punxsutawney (Johnstown); Ken Rutherford, Indiana; Charley Hunsera, Kahkwa A. C. (Chapman's, Wheeling; P. O. Hale, Cedar Rocks (Wheeling); Rader Jewett, Belmont Hills; Andy Patrick, East Liverpool, and Bert Gallagher, Slippery Rock.

The Shannopin Country Club has announced its formal opening for Saturday. Most clubs will wait until May first or Decoration Day before they officially begin a new season. A stag and dinner party is slated at the Ben Avon Heights club, with the dining to follow the golf, beginning at 6:30.

SENIORS BEGIN TITLE TOURNEY TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

With more than 170 individual entries filed, the Allegheny Mountain Association, A. A. U., senior championship boxing tournament gets under way tonight in the gymnasium of the Keystone A. C. downtown. The competition will be continued nightly until completed Saturday.

Preliminaries are scheduled tonight in the flyweight, bantamweight and featherweight classes and tomorrow night in the lightweight, welterweight and middleweight divisions, with the lightheavies and heavies holding over until Friday, when the competition in all classes will be carried up to the semi-finals.

The boxers will be weighed nightly between 6 and 8 o'clock and on the first two nights only the boxers in the classes drawn will be admitted to the club. A novelty will be injected into the competition by the presence of official seconds, who will remain in the corners for all bouts to work with one representative of each boxer. Two professional judges, Red Robinson and Jock Simco, will be employed with the usual staff of amateur officials. Simon Carlson, of Uniontown, and Ralph Shinton will referee.

Between Rounds

Walter Ketchel has been substituted for Bruno Sala as the opponent of Buddy McArthur at Fairmont, W. Va., Friday night. C. B. Carpenter and Frankie Hallo will box the semi-final.

Freddie Heintz, Saginaw (Mich.) middleweight, will make McKeesport his fighting headquarters beginning next week.

Ray Eberle runs an amateur boxing show in Croatian Hall, Ambridge, tonight.

Promoter Jim McGirr reports his best advance sale of the year for his Willie Davies-Tony Marino show in McKeesport tomorrow night. He has Joey Barnette and Young Jack Kaltwell in their semi-final, also Virginia and Kato Angelo in the second bout and Hal Finney and Johnny Lewis in the opener. Pittsburgh patrons may make reservations by calling McKeesport 1800.

April 15 has been tentatively set as the date for a match between Buddy McArthur and Maxie Rosenbloom, the light heavyweight champion at Grand Rapids.

Joe LaGiey, who boxes Gips Salerno in the main bout at the Rappahan Arena, Friday night, has beaten Young Terry, Paulie Walker and Abie Bain in recent starts and also has fought a good battle with Dave Shade. Joey, accompanied by Angel Cilullo, who backs Tiger Joe West in another 10-rounder on the card, will arrive here tomorrow night. Advance ticket sales are going on at 128 Sixth street and 305 Wood street, downtown. There being no box office sale at the Arena except on fight nights.

Pete Wallace, New York Negro welterweight is in town seeking bouts. He claims to have fought Ben Jeby, Canada Lee and Izzy Grove, among others, and has been in the employ of the late Leo P. Flynn in New York.

Politics Alleged In State Boxing

EASTON, Pa., March 30.—(AP.)—Comment from Gov. Gifford Pinchot was awaited today on charges of William McGinley, of Easton, that he was instructed to serve as a ward leader and foot the bills of Pinchot candidates in order to obtain a state license to promote boxing shows at Bethlehem.

In a letter to the Governor, McGinley asked whether he had ordered the State Athletic Commission to delay licenses until the applicants' political sympathies were determined.

McGinley said that after receiving no reply to his application, he was told by "a friend" to see a "Mr. Cox, of Easton," who, in turn, referred him to Prof. Harold Kennard, of Lafayette College, a Pinchot leader here.

Coach Contracts Taboo at Syracuse

SYRACUSE, March 30.—(AP.)—The athletic coaching staff at Syracuse University, including the coach of football, Vic Hanson, has had definite word from the chancellor, Charley Wesley Flint, there will be no more contracts.

That word by the chancellor was given at the annual Block "S" smoker, conducted in honor of the university's athletes. Hereafter coaches will be department heads, appointed just as any other member of the faculty.

Battalino Ordered To Take 60-Day Rest

NEW YORK, March 30.—(INS.)—The New York State Athletic Commission has taken action relative to Bat Battalino "so that his future usefulness shall not be impaired."

The commission suggested he refrain from accepting any matches for a period of 60 days, pointing out that to do so might endanger his health.

Night Charity Cup Battle Tomorrow

The draw for Referees' Charity Cup soccer games was made last night, with Heidelberg pitted against the Owls in a night game, to begin at 8 o'clock at South Park tomorrow. Moon Run meets the Pittsburgh Rovers at Leslie Park, and the Shannon Juniors battle Union Switch, at Swissvale, in Saturday contests.

DODGERS LOSE O'DOUL

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 30.—Misfortune took another rap at the Dodgers when Lefty O'Doul was forced out of the game with Indianapolis yesterday in the fourth inning after being hit by a pitched ball. One of Lee Barnhart's wild pitches struck O'Doul on the third finger of the right hand. An examination indicated a broken bone that may keep O'Doul out for weeks.

Sports Vignettes

This is a small world. . . . A few nights ago, in Newark, O., a young matron named Mrs. Warren S. Weiant, Jr., was listening to a Pittsburgh radio station and heard an announcement that Mae Cutnell had broken a swimming record that had stood for 14 years. . . . Mrs. Weiant is the former Eleanor Smith, who had held the record so long. . . . She was one of the famous "Smith Twins," of Columbus, O., who, as girl swimmers, held just about every record in this district a little more than a decade ago. . . . The other twin was Ruth, now Mrs. F. H. Miller, of Cincinnati . . . Both gave up speed swimming a long time ago, but, according to Mrs. Weiant, they still retain their enthusiasm for the sport and follow the doings of the leading performers.

Jim McGirr, the McKeesport boxing promoter, is sending out his mail these days in the envelope of a beauty shoppe . . . Perhaps that's where they cultivate those cauliflowers we hear about in the ring sport . . . Why is it, by the way, that the managers and seconds of boxers generally have better hair trims than their fighters, who are forever getting their unshorn locks in their eyes? . . . Certainly it can't be because the managers have closer shaves . . . Jack Kilbourne, the young Australian middleweight, who has taken Chicago by storm with a series of victories, looks like one of the best prospects in his class.

Jimmy Robertson, former quarterback star at Carnegie Tech, has been dropped as football coach at Shady Side Academy in the retrenchment program, and Capt. W. A. Palmer, former coach, who has been serving as director of athletics, will combine the coaching work with his other duties next fall. . . . Robertson succeeded Howard Harpster as the grid mentor of the Academy when Harp left to go to Geneva two seasons ago. . . . Bernard Kelly, Jr., McKeesport manager of boxers, is a dad again, a third son having been born in the McKeesport Hospital Monday. . . . One of the children is dead. . . . Robert G. Morrison, Jr., of Pittsburgh, has been awarded his letter in swimming at Hun School, Princeton, N. J.—HARRY KECK.

NEW SEMI-PRO CLUB LIKELY

By TOM BIRKS

Plans for a first-class semi-professional baseball club, gathered for Sunday games, to bring to Pittsburgh the best attractions in the tri-state district, has been developing in sandlot circles, and there is reason to feel that the promoters soon will announce the organization of one of the best outfits ever banded in this section.

The location selected is just outside of the city and has the reputation of being able to bring in the crowds, providing the class of attractions is above the ordinary.

According to its backers, the club's first idea was to get together and apply for a berth in a local league, but that idea was dropped.

Many leading players already have been approached, and appear willing enough to go along if the remuneration is big enough.

Another officials body is to be organized tonight when, at Tarentum, a meeting is held of the Tri-County Officials group. It is to provide umpires for the Allegheny Valley and Kiski Valley leagues. Lew Swartz, popular Tarentum sportsman, will be secretary, and a president is to be elected.

Some well-known names are on the roster, including Toby Fullerton, former pitching star; Katy Easterday, former Pitt star; Russel Hart, Chuck Bird, Clyde Cox, Joe Frick, Benny Murray, H. Henderson and Baldy Wentzel.

Fight Results

At Stamford, Conn.—Jack Delgar knocked out (technical) Cowboy Jack Willis, 3 rounds.

At Jacksonville, Fla.—Cowboy Frankie Edgen won on foul from Walker (Cyclone) Smith, 9 rounds.

At St. Petersburg, Fla.—Tony Canzoli knocked out (technical) Sammy Cohen, 7 rounds; Joe Lohman defeated Cracker Jack Webb, 10 rounds.

At New York—Vince Hambright knocked out Eddie Marks, 1 round.

At Tampa, Fla.—Henry Firpo defeated Tiger Roy Williams, 10 rounds.

At Los Angeles—Young Tommy won by technical knockout over Frankie Genaro, 3 rounds.

At Saginaw, Mich.—Frankie Misko defeated Harry English, 10 rounds.

At Indianapolis—Tracy Cox defeated Santiago Zorilla, 10 rounds.

At West Palm Beach, Fla.—Clyde Chastain defeated Willie Oster, 10 rounds; Harold Murphy defeated Mike Firpo, 8 rounds.

At San Jose, Cal.—Bobby Gray defeated Baby Tiger Flowers, 10 rounds.

KERR, KIZER SPEAK HERE TONIGHT

By JESS CARVER

The influx of celebrated football coaches into this town today is nothing short of astonishing. There are two alumni association banquets on, and alumni association banquets most always call for the personal appearance of big shots in the coaching world.

Andy Kerr

The prominent visitors today include Andy Kerr, of Colgate, and Noble Kizer, of Purdue. Kerr and President George Barton Cutten, of Colgate, tonight will address the annual gathering of the Western Pennsylvania wing of the Colgate Alumni Association at the University Club. Kizer will talk before the Purdue grads at the P. A. A. The Boilermaker mentor, a former Notre Dame luminary, also will confer with Buddy Overend, of Carnegie Tech, relative to the Purdue-Tech football games, booked for 1933, at Lafayette, and in 1934 here in the Pitt Stadium.

This chap Cutten has had almost as colorful a career as the two coaches, and has been a football coach at a big league institution himself. He coached at Ohio State at the time he held a Baptist pastorate in Columbus. He played football at Acadia University, in Nova Scotia, and managed the hockey team, played baseball and performed on the track.

CUTTEN COLORFUL

Graduating from Acadia U. in 1896, Dr. Cutten with $21 in his pants pocket, an A. B. degree and super-saturated with ambition, entered Yale University for post-graduate work and obtained there the excellent psychological background that has proved of such great value in his rise to academic prominence.

Dr. Cutten is a noted psychologist, a minister of the gospel, an educator and administrator and a writer. His talk tonight should be as interesting as that of Coach Kerr, who always may be counted on for a right peppery address.

By the way, after all these years of writing about Andy Kerr, we find to our deep dismay and everlasting regret that we've been missing out in handling his name. It should read like this—Andrew Kerr IV., and not just plain Andy Kerr.

PITT 1933 CARD SET

The University of Pittsburgh basketball schedule released today by W. D. Harrison, director of athletics, shows 22 games for next season. One newcomer, the University of Minnesota, will be met at Minneapolis, although there will be games with Fordham, Army, and Northwestern, teams not met last season.

For the first time in years Penn State will not be opposed on the court. Conflicting dates made it impossible for the Lions and the Panthers to meet in 1933.

With the formation of the New Eastern Basketball Conference home and home engagements were carded with West Virginia, Georgetown, Temple, and Carnegie Tech, other members of the league. The schedule for 1932-33 follows:

December 10, Georgetown (Universal) at Pittsburgh (night game); December 16, Northwestern at Pittsburgh; December 19, Minnesota at Minneapolis; December 31, Wisconsin at Madison; December 31, Indiana at Pittsburgh (tentative); January 2, Penn State at Pittsburgh; January 7, Temple at Pittsburgh; January 11, Carnegie Tech at Duquesne; January 14, Carnegie Tech at Tech; January 21, Notre Dame at Pittsburgh; January 28, West Virginia at Pittsburgh; January 31, Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh; February 4, Fordham at New York City; February 6, Army at West Point; February 8, Western Reserve at Pittsburgh; February 11, Notre Dame at South Bend; February 15, Duquesne at Pittsburgh; February 17, Georgetown at Washington, D. C.; February 25, Temple at Philadelphia; March 4, Army at Annapolis; March 4, Temple at Philadelphia; March 4, Washington and Jefferson at Pittsburgh; March 11, West Virginia at Morgantown.

West Penn Floor Refs Hold Banquet

The annual banquet of the West Penn Basketball Officials' Association was an affair of last night at the P. A. A. Some three score turned out for the event, which was in charge of Red Byers and Rody Ruttenbush.

Leo McGlinchy, newly-elected president of the organization, gave the keynote address after being suitably introduced by Dan B. Dougherty, the toastmaster. Other officers of the association gave talks. The entertainment was furnished by Max Hannum and Beggs Snyder, both of whom did very well.

PITT MEET FRIDAY

The University of Pittsburgh's eighth annual interscholastic swimming meet, to be held Friday and Saturday, has attracted the largest group of entries ever to be received this early before the meet, and the quality of the entrants bids fair to exceed the quantity. Last year's winner, Strong Vincent, of Erie, will be back with two swimmers who set new marks last season in Higgins, a breaststroker, and Mattle, breast stroke artist.

Cord Acquires Interest But Not Control of Aviation Corp

E. L. Cord, head of the Auburn Automobile Company, has acquired a substantial interest in Aviation Corporation. It was stated in banking quarters close to the company, but has not acquired control of the company which owns important domestic air lines. Aviation Corporation has about 30,000 stockholders. It was said, among whom its capital stock of about 2,650,000 shares is divided. So far as New York interests which are intimately acquainted with the affairs of the company are concerned, it was explained there has been nothing to indicate that Cord was seeking control, as had been rumored.

The $50,000,000 spent by the International Nickel Company, of Canada, since 1924 for modernization and improvements will yield good returns when business again becomes normal, said Robert C. Stanley, president of the company, in his annual message to shareholders. Due to these improvements the company has effected a considerable cut in costs, he said. It was also disclosed that the company is now producing copper at the rate of 26½ per cent of capacity. Referring to curtailment of expenditures during the period of depression, Mr. Stanley said: "Not only have all expenditures been carefully scrutinized, but the compensations of executives and all salaries of employes has been substantially reduced."

Among other things to which attention was directed by weakness in International Telephone and Telegraph yesterday was the company's current financial position. At the close of last year the company had bank loans of $44,217,772 and cash and marketable securities of $17,401,740. In addition to cash and marketable securities there were receivables of $39,193,327, part of which, however, are not especially liquid due to foreign exchange restrictions prevailing in some of the countries in which its subsidiaries operate.

Rearwed liquidation appears to have found reflection in the banking positions, judging from this week's consolidated report of institutions in the Federal Reserve. Several weeks of comparative stability are followed by an indicated resumption of deflationary tendencies. Loans and investments show a drop of $185,000,000, of which $134,000,000 was in loans and the balance in investments. Loans on security collateral dipped $76,000,000, or more than double the $27,000,000 decline reported in borrowings of brokers in the same interval. Net demand deposits, due in part at least to return of income tax checks for collection, shrunk by $149,000,000, and banks increased their indebtedness to the Reserve by $6,000,000.

Reduction of the Reserve Bank's buying rates for bankers' acceptances is not regarded in the financial district as the forerunner of a further cut in the rediscount rate of that bank, but instead as a gesture tending to strengthen the market for government bonds. It is not considered likely that the Reserve Bank will mark its rediscount rate down below 3 per cent until some of the other 12 banks of the reserve system have reduced theirs from the 3½ per cent which prevails outside of New York.

When buying is resumed, it is probable that safety will be the greatest influence in making selections. Most attention will be given to the stocks of companies which were able to make a comparatively favorable balance sheet showing in 1931, when industry had passed through several years of steady depression. Many observers are studying various reports which have come to hand and have announced their intention to watch income statements for the purpose of making buying recommendations later.

STEEL HOPEFUL FOR APRIL

NEW YORK, March 30.—Iron Age tomorrow will say:

In the face of a further decline in steel ingot production, the industry has not lost hope for a revival of demand in April. This expectation is strengthened by the announcement of a public showing of the new Ford automobiles on Thursday, the appearance of the new Plymouth car on Saturday and the inauguration on the same day of a country-wide sales drive by General Motors.

Ingot output has declined this week to about 22 per cent of the country's capacity against 25 per cent last week. There has been a sharp falling off at Cleveland, where one plant has shut down all of its open-hearth furnaces, and lesser decreases have occurred in the Valleys and at Pittsburgh and Chicago.

Notwithstanding that the steel-making rate has not been so low during the entire depression except for a brief period last December, the steel industry believes that this is the "zero hour" and that new business, principally from the automobile industry but to some extent from other sources will lift operations appreciably during the next two weeks.

Missouri Insurance Proceedings Halted

ST. LOUIS, March 30.—(AP.)—Receivership proceedings instituted yesterday against the Missouri Pacific State Life Insurance Company, which has policies outstanding totaling $1,200,000,000 and is the largest insurance company west of the Mississippi River, had been halted temporarily today by an order of the Missouri Supreme Court at Jefferson City.

Shortly after the appointment of two temporary receivers by Judge Robert W. Hall in Circuit Court here, the State Supreme Court late yesterday ordered that no further action be taken in the receivership suit until it has passed upon an application for a writ of prohibition filed by the company.

Republic Steel Gets Ford Order

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 30.—(INS.)—April will mark the turn for the midwestern steel trade, it was predicted today as advices in the Mahoning Valley revealed that the Ford Motor Car Company is beginning to release long-anticipated steel orders.

The automobile company is placing orders for special metals, such as stainless steel, and has given a contract to the Republic Steel Corporation to fabricate 20,000 axles at its Buffalo plant, it was learned.

China Purchasing More Silver Here

NEW YORK, March 30.—China has been purchasing silver here the past few days and some shipments have been made.

Silver authorities consider this important to the market in view of the fact that in the past few months China has been a negligible factor. Formerly she shared with India leadership in world consumption of the white metal.

COTTON PRICES SHOW GAINS

NEW YORK, March 30.—Cotton opened steady today at an advance of 4 to 8 points on trade buying and covering prompted by steady Liverpool cables. May sold at 6.20.

Offerings were much lighter than recently with little or no southern selling in evidence and while demand tapered off after the call prices held steady with May advancing to 6.27 and October to 6.66, or about 10 to 15 points net higher.

The weekly report of the weather bureau said farmwork was active in the southern states (though there were interruptions the last day or two caused by heavy rain) in a few sections.

The buying was less active later in the morning while a slightly easier tone in the stock market brought in a little realizing or liquidation. Prices ranged few points, May selling around 6.23c and October 6.64, at midday or about 4 or 5 points from the best of the morning.

Forbes

Public Objects to Increase Of Red-Tapeworms.

—By B. C. FORBES—

AMERICA HAS been creating too many red-tapeworms. Bureaucrats have multiplied inordinately. They feed on you and me on our pocketbooks. In 16 years governmental costs increased 47 per cent, contrasted with a population increase of less than 26 per cent. Expenditures by federal, state and local authorities exceeded $13,000,000,000 in 1929, equal to fully $107 for every man, woman and child in the nation.

Mr. Forbes

Taxpayers are beginning to call a halt. Every businessman in America has been compelled to retrench. Why should politicians and tax-eaters not be compelled to retrench?

The "sons of wild jackasses" in Washington are trying to mislead the public into believing that extravagance can run riot without costing ordinary citizens a penny; they proclaim that the rich can be made to carry the increasing taxation burdens.

This is the sheerest nonsense. The rich can sidestep 72 per cent income tax levies by putting their money into tax-free securities. As a matter of fact, every family in the land has to bear a share of political profligacy.

The day of reckoning and of retribution has come. The "dear people" can no longer be fooled by politician blatherskites. The way out is not to attempt to impose uncollectable penalties upon the rich. The way out is for tax-levlers to do what you and I have had to do, namely, cut down expenditures.

My humble opinion is that the Washington irresponsibles will be brought to their senses and that saner councils will prevail. By this time next week calm probably will have been restored. If it is, investors are likely to exhibit less nervousness.

THE BIG THREE in the automobile industry, General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, all have aggressive plans to combat buyers' lethargy. General Motors has arranged a unique series of national exhibits for next week, involving expenditure of a vast amount of money.

Ford, after regrettable delay, enters the ring with two cars instead of one, an entirely new departure. Walter Chrysler is ready to spring an improved low-priced car and to spend money to tell the world about it.

So, the lull in automobile buying may shortly be ended. Certainly, our motor magnates cannot be accused of supinely surrendering to depression.

YOU KNOW many families that have curtailed expenditures. But how many of them have given up their automobiles? The fact is that life in America has been adjusted to an automobile basis. Personal transportation has become essential.

GRAINS DECLINE AFTER RISE

CHICAGO, March 30.—Wheat prices tended upward early today, influenced by the government report showing decreased stocks of wheat on hand in domestic mills and elevators. Firmness was also in sympathy with initial action of securities. Opening unchanged to ¼ to ⅜ cent higher, wheat afterward held near this limit. Corn started unchanged to ¼ cent off and subsequently sagged further.

Setbacks that followed early upturns of wheat values were largely ascribed to bearish sentiment resulting from proposed 400 per cent increase of taxes on grain exchange transactions. Declines in prices were in the face of reports telling of terrific dust storms damaging crops in Western Nebraska and Western Kansas, reducing prospects in some places 50 per cent. Garden City, Kas., messages said wild and dust were the worst in years, and that it was apprehended wheat over a large area had been injured irreparably.

Koppers Gas and Coke Earns $12.29 a Share On Preferred Stocks

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

KOPPERS GAS AND COKE Company earned its preferred dividend requirements more than twice in 1931, according to the annual report released yesterday. Stocks held by the company showed a substantial decline under their original cost, but nothing in the statement explained or justified the weakness in the price of the company's securities in recent months.

Net income for 1931, after deducting all charges including depreciation, depletion, taxes, interest, amortization and earnings accruing to minority interests was $2,458,187. This was equivalent to $12.29 a share on 200,000 shares of 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value. In 1930 net income was $3,140,113 or $15.70 a share on the preferred stock.

Earnings per share on the 807,091 shares of common stock are not of interest to the public since substantially all of these shares are held by the Koppers Company, a closed corporation dominated by the Mellon interests.

* * *

Marketable Securities Show Decline in Price

THE COMPANY represents a peculiar combination of interests. It is both a public utility holding company and an industrial organization.

While Koppers Gas has published a consolidated statement of its earnings, it has not included its equity in the profits of some of the organizations in which it has a dominant interest. As an example of this the report says:

"Among its diversified holdings, Koppers Gas and Coke Company has accruing to it through direct ownership and through an interest in an associated company, the major share of the earnings to the common stock of Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates. For the calendar year 1931 Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates earned $2,208,736 for its common stock, but inasmuch as no dividends were paid on this stock, none of these earnings are included in the income statement of your company."

* * *

Value of Property Account Increased

THE PRINCIPAL changes in the balance sheet during the year are seen in an increase in the property account, and a decrease in the investment in allied companies. This propably is due to the acquisition of all the common stock of the Koppers Coal Company and the complete consolidation of that company's statement with the parent company's. The property and plant account increased from $35,745,860 to $65,879,361 during the year. Against this depreciation and depletion have been set up amounting to $22,865,075, including $2,053,526 charged against 1931 earnings for these reserves. The investment in allied companies declined from $74,950,473 to $57,939,733.

The investment in securities owned, carried at cost, increased from $18,201,302 to $25,707,338. The actual market value of these holdings was $16,013,907 at the end of the year. While this was $9,693,431 less than cost, the company's surplus was $12,246,456 so that the equity of the securities outstanding does not appear to have been seriously impaired. Current assets at the close of the year amounted to $24,403,635 against current liabilities of $8,978,901.

Tabulator Trust Charges Answered

NEW YORK, March 30.—(AP)—In a letter to stockholders issued today, Thomas J. Watson, president of the International Business Machines Corporation, denies that the company's cross licensing agreements were made for the purpose of eliminating competition.

Mr. Watson's statement was prompted by the announcement from Washington that the Department of Justice had started suit against the company and Remington Rand, Inc., alleging violation of the Sherman anti-trust laws.

Stocks Lose Gains — Lone Star Gas Lower

STOCK MARKET EASES OFF SLOWLY

Early Gains Melt Away Under Discouraging Steel and Power Reports

NEW YORK, March 30.—(AP.)—The stock market was unable to advance in the face of discouraging reports of steel and electric power production today, although bears were somewhat nervous.

The list pushed up a point or two in the first hour apparently reflecting short covering, then gradually eased off, some issues showing moderate losses by early afternoon.

Utilities turned particularly heavy, on the weekly power consumption report. Standard Gas, Electric Power and Light and American Power and Light preferred issues sagged a point or more to new lows as did American Power and Light common. United States Steel common advanced a point, then retreated as the preferred issue sold off a couple of points to a new low under 89. Goodyear Rubber dropped more than 2 points on dividend uncertainty, and cutting the Westinghouse quarterly payment to 25 cents from 62½ carried that stock off more than a point. Beatrice Creamery was again a soft spot, off more than 2, but pressure against International Telephone lifted. The early upturn carried such issues as Santa Fe, Union Pacific and Allied Chemical up a couple of points, but these gains were short-lived.

Despite the encouragement in Wall street over the indications of progress in Congress toward balancing the budget, brokerage quarters were somewhat gloomy over the prospect of the increased tax on securities transfers. More important was the approach of April 1, when the new restriction on stock loaning for short selling goes into effect.

A small gain in freight car loadings was helpful in the early rally, but it was largely offset by the large drop shown in power consumption. Wall street is still hopeful that the intensive automobile sales campaigns planned for April may have some effect on power consumption and steel output.

Despite a sharp drop in steel production during the past week, a little more activity is now reported from the Youngstown area, with a smattering of orders attributed to the Ford Motor Company. Electric power production last week was off 10.3 per cent from the same period of last year, the widest shrinkage yet, and compared to 8.6 per cent in the previous week.

Reports from Stockholm are now being interpreted in Wall street as indicating that the affairs of the Kreuger and Toll group may be in considerably more troublesome condition than at first expected, but the securities have already been so severely deflated that any further repercussions in the local market are regarded as doubtful.

WESTINGHOUSE ON $1 BASIS

NEW YORK, March 30.—AP—A dividend of 25 cents a share was declared today by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company on the common stock, payable April 30 to record of April 11.

A year ago the dividend on the common stock was reduced to $1 quarterly from the previous rate of $1.25. After two disbursements at this rate payments were cut to 62½ cents quarterly.

The regular quarterly dividend of 87½ cents on the preferred stock was ordered by the board, also payable April 30 to April 11.

The common dividend declared today came as something of a surprise to Wall street, as it had been generally expected for some time that the company would discontinue payments pending the union issue because of unsatisfactory earnings.

KREUGER BANK GETS AID

STOCKHOLM, March 30.—AP—Government aid for banks embarrassed by the difficulties of the Kreuger & Toll companies caused a sharp improvement in the Bourse today. Stocks which declined badly since the death of Ivar Kreuger made considerable advances and the general tone of the market was optimistic.

Loans totaling approximately 150,000,000 kronor (about $30,000,000) were arranged by the government and private banks today to maintain the liquidity of the Skandinaviska Kredit Aktiebolag, Bank strained by difficulties of the Kreuger & Toll companies.

Lily Lou Arrives Home Just In Time to Attend Her Mother's Funeral

CHAPTER XLVIII.

She got the last message on the train.

Read it over and over, trying to realize what it would be like without mother. Said it over and over to herself . . . "Mother, dead. Mother, dead."

But it did not seem real. In the midst of her worried repetition. Mother dead . . . mother . . . dead . . . there would come the thought of the Buochen. Hadn't she better wire Maxine to go see him on Sunday? Maxine was so unobserving though. Tony would be better, but Tony was working so hard and Sunday was his only chance to rest.

Back to mother again . . . "Oh, if I'd only started sooner. If May had only told me . . . but of course she didn't know. It wasn't her fault . . . Oh, dear, it's so hot and dirty . . . Holsteins in that pasture . . . pretty things. Holsteins . . . Wonder what they did with all Uncle Eph's sheep? Mother must have known I'd come . . . she must know that I'm coming now . . . between those who love there's bound to be some sort of telepathy . . .

"I won't see Ken, of course . . . Still, I might. It would be natural for him to come to see us, on account of mother. It isn't absurd to imagine that. Peggy Sage couldn't object to that. He knew mother. She used to like him . . .

"Poor, darling mother. . . .

MEETS RELATIVES

"It would have been criminal to bring the bubchen. The heat would have wilted him. Ken doesn't know he's alive anyway. Even Maxine thinks he's the loveliest child she ever saw. He's even gaining during the hot summer. Mrs. Jensen is wonderful to him . . . at least she seems so . . . Better wire Tony to call and make sure. . . .

Raymond and May met her at Sixteenth street in Oakland.

"Well, we might as well go and have some breakfast," Raymond said. "We've got plenty of time. The funeral isn't till 2 o'clock."

Raymond did all the talking. "I've got the day off, of course," he said. "I figured it was only right. Pa, he would have come, too, but funerals break him all up. You know how it is when they get along. Hates to hear the word. All the time thinking he'll be the next one. That's pa. He's cheerful, and his health ain't what you'd call bad, but he's all the time thinking how many years he's got left. I know him. You can't fool me, eh, May?"

"Yes, you're pretty smart," May agreed absently. "I hope you didn't find it too difficult to come out, Lily Lou. I hate to have you spend that much money, especially when it turned out this way. Did you borrow from Mme. Nahlman?"

"No, she is still abroad. I borrowed it from Dwight Gwin."

HAS LITTLE MONEY

Raymond wrinkled his forehead. "You don't want to get under any obligations to those fellows. A girl alone can't be too careful. If I was you, Lily Lou, I'd pay that fellow soon as you get back."

"With what, Raymond?"

"Well, with the first money you get. You're working, aren't you?"

"Yes, but I don't make a fortune, and living is so high—"

"That's just it," May cut in. "You ought to come back to San Francisco. New York isn't any better. Irene's friend, Lefa, has a friend, a Mrs. Glenaor, who studied in New York for two years. Two years, mind you. Well, when she came back and went to study with a teacher, named . . . what was his name? Well, anyway, he said they had ruined her voice in New York. She never did make anything of it, after all she spent. She's selling real estate now, but with business what it is . . ."

"Yes, it's a long, uphill drag," Lily Lou agreed.

She thought about it, sitting alone in the back seat of Raymond's car, as they drove out San Pablo avenue, on the way to Woodlake.

Maybe it would have been better if she had never tried it. All the chances she'd had. Europe with Nahlman. Dwight Gwin's lessons. Metropolitan chorus and dramatic lessons there. Tony's patient help with Italian and French . . . and still miles from the goal. Still every chance in the world that she'd be just one more who tried . . .

How brown the hills were. She had almost forgotten. The syrupy, golden-brown dryness of the California hills, with the patches of lilac and amethyst that meant thickets of drying shrubs. The rich, reddish black of the soil in the plowed fields. And by the roadside, though it was almost September, the golden poppies bloomed, undismayed by dust and thirst, sending their sturdy roots into the parched rich earth, living on sun.

It was a hot and tiresome drive, over the mountains, that smelled of sage and chaparral, giving up their spicy, aromatic sweetness in the hot, dusty wind that blew straight from the sun.

How different, how terribly different from the last time, 13 months ago, when she and Ken . . . when she and Ken . . .

May leaned over from the front seat. "Don't cry so, Lily Lou. You can't help things by feeling so bad. I'm sure we all feel bad to lose mother. But after all, she was 58. It isn't as though she were younger—"

Lily Lou wept heartbrokenly then.

To think that she could have so far forgotten her mother as to cry over old memories, on the way to her mother's funeral.

* * *

It was hot and crowded in the little house. There was Bess and her husband, and the three children, the youngest asleep on the old feather bed that had been Lily Lou's.

John was there with his wife, Ena, and his two shy little boys, that looked like twins, and weren't.

Earl was there, and his wife and their children, Ruby and Junior.

Bess had taken charge of course. She was so busy bustling around making sure that there were chairs enough for everyone, that everyone's children were out of mischief, and would stay clean "until it was all over" that she had time for nothing more than a hasty kiss and a "How are you, Lily Lou?"

Mr. Stokes, the old minister, was there, and the minister's wife and Mr. Fletcher, and Mrs. Burpee, and half a dozen others from the church.

"I don't know where we'll put them all when they all get here. I wish we'd planned to have the funeral in the church like I wanted," Bess worried. "It was my idea from the first, but dad would have it here. He said mother would have liked it here. He was the last one in life to ever know what she liked, and worked out that way right to the end. Well! It's all we can do now . . . I wish he and Rufe Fletcher would come. Not that I care whether Rufe Fletcher lives or dies, but they're off drinking together. Dad's been off by himself, or at Uncle Eph's old place ever since mother died. It's awfully hard on the family to have to put off a funeral for somebody coming from the East. Look at that child! Regina, if you dirty your white dress—"

"Yes, I know it has been hard for you. Perhaps I shouldn't have come," Lily Lou said.

She thought of Dwight Gwin and the money she had borrowed from him. Bess said it had been her father's idea to send for her. He thought mother would have liked it. Maybe he was wrong in that, too. Maybe mother would have preferred that she didn't come . . . if she knew . . .

When the family gathered in the shed kitchen, and overflowed onto the backs and side porches, Lily Lou went into the little front room to say goodby to her mother. No one had thought to take her in. After all, she preferred to go alone.

They had moved out everything except the piano . . . the golden oak piano that had set her feet on the path from which there was no turning now . . .

The bier was near the piano. Back of it two rows of chairs. Camp chairs that the undertaker, Mr. McRoberts, had brought.

A little timidly she came closer to her mother.

Synopsis

Lily Lou Lansing has ambitions to become an opera singer. She meets Kentfield Sargent, son of a wealthy shipper. Ken is also interested in Peggy Sage, prominent society girl. Ken admits his love for Lily Lou and they go away and are married. When Lily Lou first sees Ken's mother she is told that Ken was not old enough to get married. Anxious days follow. Then Lily Lou is told by Ken's father that the marriage has been annulled. He gives her $500 and a ticket to New York. In New York she has a hard time getting a job and her money runs low. From a home town paper she reads that Ken has become engaged to Peggy. She learns that she is to become a mother. She gets a job as accompanist with Dwight Gwin, voice teacher. Nita Nahlman, famous opera singer, hears Lily Lou sing and offers to take her to Europe to study. In Vienna Lily Lou becomes the mother of a baby boy. When Lily Lou recuperates they return to Paris, where, through an injury to one of the singers, Lily Lou gets her first chance to sing in opera. She sings well and wins much praise. Lily Lou and her baby are sent back to New York by Nahlman. Maxine asks that they live with her. Lily Lou borrows money to go home when she learns of her mother's serious sickness.

Now Go On

News of her mother's death reached Lily Lou on the train.

Heart of a Wife

Children Safely "Parked," Madge Turns to Other Tasks

For a second or two following my mother-in-law's question to the boys I was tense with suspense as to how they would react to her request—or rather command that they promise not to go downstairs unless accompanied by some older person.

"Sure, we'll promise," they said, "but can we go out on the veranda now?"

"Yes, you may, but shut the door after you so Faith won't hear your noise. I'm having her have her nap in here this morning," she went on, "she certainly gets enough fresh air on that veranda night and day, so that a little quiet nap inside won't hurt her for once."

MADGE EXPLAINS

"Now sit down here and tell me everything that has happened," she commanded, and drawing my chair up to hers I related the whole story of the morning's adventures.

"What has been done?" she demanded, "about keeping those desperadoes away from the farmhouse? If they've done this to a mere messenger, what will they try to do to you?"

I parried the second question and answered the first one.

"Dicky has gone to consult father and I think they will work out a plan between them, but they agree with us, I am sure, that the small boys should be kept on the second floor for a time."

"I should hope so," my mother-in-law said with emphasis. "Well! there's one thing. You don't need to worry about their being safe up here.

"If you'll stay here now," she said, "until I can go to my room and put on something thinner, you won't need to come up the rest of the day."

"That is wonderful of you, Mother," I said sincerely. "I imagine they'll need me downstairs, especially if they decide to operate on that poor chap."

SUMMONS BOYS

"That may be," she said, "but I shan't need you up here after this few minutes. Now remember, don't go downstairs while I'm gone, no matter how many times they send for you. "I'll only be a few minutes."

"I'll stay right here," I promised and she hurried out of the room. No sooner had she closed the door than I opened the door upon the veranda and called the boys in.

"Boys," I said, "can you keep a secret with me?"

Their eyes brightened—they had looked distinctly sulky when I opened the door, and they spoke eagerly.

"I want you to do some things for me while you are up here," I said. "But I don't want you to tell grandma that I have asked you to do them. You won't have to tell her a story about it. If you're careful, she won't notice that you are doing it, and if she asks what you're doing them for, you can say, 'Why you and mums both told us we must take care of Baby Faith, and this is the way we're doing it.'"

"Sure!" Junior said. "That's what we'll do. What is it you want of us?"

"I want you to take turns patrolling the upper hall, going to each of the windows in turn, and seeing if you see anything suspicious from the upper windows. How good are your eyes? How far can you see when the weather is clear?"

"Oh, a long way. I guess almost a mile."

"You mean a half a mile," Roderick said in superior fashion, and I forbore wounding either of them by doubting their bombastic boasts.

PROMISE TO WATCH

"You will need good eyes," I told them, "but I want you to watch very carefully from the windows and the veranda, to see if you can detect any movement in the cornfield or orchard."

"You mean," Junior said, excitedly, "if we see anything that looks like the Chinese men?"

"Exactly," I said. "If you do, one of you stay and watch and the other one must run and tell one of the grown-ups right away."

"We'll do it," they chorused. "Shall we begin now?"

"Yes, do," I said, glad to have them out of the way when their grandmother came back.

But when I finally went downstairs, I had the assurance that my mother-in-law and the children were safely "parked" as Dicky would say, for the next few hours, and that I would be free to help in whatever tasks the care of the wounded Chinese would entail. In the back of my mind, there was a worried question as to the time I would be able to give to the fourth act of my play, the first draft of which I had just completed.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Saturday the big Schenley Theater was filled to capacity with happy singing youngsters, all members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club. The meeting opened with the children repeating the club pledge followed by the Junior Komic Club Orchestra which played several popular numbers. Here are just a few of the new members who joined Saturday: William Schwartz, Della Khoury, Murray Nash, Harry Rober, Mildred Lerner, Ruth Cohen, Ruth Fine.

M'KEESPORT CHAPTER

The members of the Memorial (McKeesport) chapter elected new officers last Saturday, and the youngsters elected will serve all through the month of April. The new officers are: Grand jester, Frances Mac; board of governors, Cookie Ueltzen, Virginia Wood, Betty Griffin, Andrew Malos, Bobbie Ueltzen and Mike Evans.

EASTER BASKETS

Easter baskets filled with candy were distributed to the following boys and girls: Oliver Johnson, Sara Jane Rhodes, Dorothy Woodward, Ester Rubenfeld, Paul Mayer, Shirley Klein, Mary Hornak. Two large Easter bunnies were awarded to Joe McNulty and Eugene Reed.

The new members joining the Memorial chapter last week were: Mary Davis, Nellie McDivett, Sylvia Prytulak, Florence Sweet, Florence Snyder, Dorothy Brenyo, Patsy O'Hara, Alice O'Hara, James Wakerle, Harry Wackerle, Gertrude Hopkins.

Rusty Blair, the new dancing usher of the South Hills theater, where the Junior Komic Club meets every Saturday morning entertained the youngsters and stole the show.

The children entertaining the members Saturday used for the first time a microphone which was connected with a large amplifier. Some of the youngsters had "mike" fright at first, but they soon became used to it and the audience enjoyed the show very much. Those entertaining and using the "mike" were Mary Gallagher, Catherine Larkins, Dorothy Stricker, Phyllis Thomas, Mary Zarman.

The new members enrolled Saturday were Robert Krystafer, James Mickey, Jean Burke, Pompea Cardarelli, Jean Brobst, Robert Beward, Donald Chase, Dorothy Stoltenberg, John Maloney, Billy Robinson, Jeanett Gardner.

Made specially for BABIES and CHILDREN

Physicians tell us that one condition is nearly always present when a child has a digestive upset, a starting cold or other little ailment. Constipation.

When little bowels get clogged, body wastes accumulate, and poisons and infection find a fertile breeding place.

The first step towards relief is to rid the body of impure wastes. And for this nothing is better than genuine time-proven Castoria!

Castoria is a pure vegetable preparation made specially for babies and children. This means it is mild and gentle enough for their delicate organs. Yet it is always effective.

And of course it contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics.

You never have to coax children to take Castoria. They like its taste! The genuine Castoria, you know, always has the name Chas. H. Fletcher on the package.

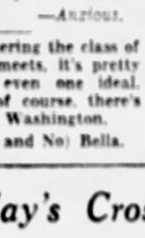
HUMAN INTEREST STORY FOR TODAY



For years Prof. Ivor Herowitz has been trying, unsuccessfully, to break up the atom. Six months ago he became discouraged and got a position dishing out the food in a tea room kitchen. Last week he quit and went confidently back to his laboratory with a look on his face like the cat that has just eaten the canary.

Q. & A. DEPARTMENT

Dear Sympathetic Aunt Bella:

In this age of freedom, which all too often turns into license, do you not think it is absolutely necessary that a girl have ideals?

—Anxious.

Ans.—Considering the class of muggs a girl meets, it's pretty hard to find even one ideal, dearie. But, of course, there's always George Washington.

—Aunt (Yes and No) Bella.

That's Telling It to Her, Mister

"A diet of watercress will, according to the New Haven experiments, supply more vitality than any other known green food."—Scientific note.

'Twas in a simple cottage on a side street
The wife and mother toiled in sad despair;
Her lazy husband sat from dawn 'til bedtime
In the one and only well upholstered chair.
"Will not you stir yourself," the woman pleaded,
"And turn the wringer for me, as my back
"Feels like some one had taken Willie's ball bat
"And given me a thwack, thwack, thwack!"
The man looked up from reading his paper,
A puzzled look was on his bloated map,
Said he, "My darling Minnie, you are speaking
"To me as though you thought I were a sap,
"If you would keep abreast of science, dearie,
"Your life would not be such a hopeless mess,
"For you would gladly wring the wringer, dearie, . .
"If you knew enough to nibble watercress.

A Crisis Arrives

The Catastrophe Impending in Philadelphia Emphasizes The Need of State Employment Relief.

Philadelphians were told yesterday over the signatures of Cardinal Dougherty, Edward T. Stotesbury, S. M. Vauclain, ex-Mayor Harry A. Mackey and a score of other well-known persons that their city was threatened with "a catastrophe too shocking to contemplate."

Two hundred and ninety-one thousand workers there are wholly without employment; 59,629 Philadelphia families are completely dependent on charity; the funds of the Lloyd Committee, which has been feeding these unfortunates, are almost exhausted, and the city is without further resources. The signers of the manifesto declare, accordingly, that "the only possibility of relief is from the state government."

This merely confirms, of course, what the Sun-Telegraph has been saying during the last few weeks about the necessity of an immediate conference of business, welfare and political leaders to devise a state relief program.

Philadelphia is preparing for bread riots. The Philadelphia Record declares they are inevitable if the commonwealth fails to come to the rescue.

Can Pittsburgh have any assurance that it will escape violent outbreaks of the starving?

We have just as much interest as Philadelphia in the proposed state relief. Why do not our foremost citizens join in the call for it, as Philadelphia's civic leaders have done?

The Republican state chairman, Edward Martin, of Washington, Pa., has just indorsed the call for action by the commonwealth in words that might well be taken as the guiding policy:

"There must not be the slightest hint of politics in the conference. Nor must the program of any one man, nor special interest, nor group, take special precedence. What is done must be done as the broad plan of all citizens. The voice of Pennsylvania should speak."

Gov. Pinchot said in Pittsburgh yesterday that he was considering the question. But surely the time for action has come. The crisis has arrived. The enemy is here. The battle is on.

Thank Heaven, Some Shows Are Decent!

(Reprinted from editorial page of New York American of Tuesday, March 29.)

In the foyer of a fashionable hotel the other day there was seated a group of men enjoying their after-dinner coffee and cigars. One of them, displaying symptoms of an impending anecdote—one of those tiresome little wheezes which turn upon a nasty double entendre—turned his glance circumspectly over his shoulder, saying:

"I hope no ladies are hereabouts."

Another of the group assured him he was in no danger of feminine audition, but said:

"Remember, however, there are a few gentlemen present."

It would be well if the point of this story could sink into the minds of our theatrical producing managers and the dramatic critics and reviewers who, as the defenders of "sophistication" in the theater, aid and abet its indecencies.

The theater in New York has reached such a pass that its cleansing is no longer a matter of eliminating a vulgar line here or there, or excising specific obscenities.

The frank purpose of too many productions is to pander to the lowest tastes of the lowest elements in the community.

It is no longer a question of spicing a production by a daring line or a piquant situation of the risque order.

FILTH IS THE OBJECTIVE.

FILTH IS THE MEDIUM.

FILTH IS THE TECHNIQUE.

The result is that countless men—not girls or callow youths, but men, not of the squeamish or ultra-sensitive type, but self-respecting and mature—are ashamed to be seen as a part of the audience at many of our theaters.

THE responsibility for this disgraceful condition rests heavily, but not primarily, on the theatrical producer. He, however, can claim, with a certain truth, that he is merely purveying the type of entertainment for which there is a profitable commercial demand.

The responsibility must be shared by the critics and reviewers who proclaim to the public on the day following an initial production that the show is good or bad—worthy of patronage or not.

Lest they be thought provincial or inexperienced, they approve or gloss over INDECENCIES which they fancy to be mundane or "sophisticated."

The faithful portrayal of life, the art which lurks in simplicity and moral earnestness, the power of truth are outside the ambit of our swinish stage. The decent productions, and, I thank Heaven, there are still some, are too few to qualify the censure and reprobation which the theater as a whole so abundantly deserves.

The theater claims to be in a "bad way." This is true from more standpoints than that of patronage and financial returns.

It is in a "bad way" because it is a bad theater, because it is a source of defilement, because it is a libel on American taste, because it is a libel against the clean art of the theater, WHICH IT HAS DEBAUCHED AND WELL-NIGH DESTROYED.

Other Benefits

The Codified Traffic Ordinance Does More Than Abolish "Tag Fixing."

"Tag-fixing" has been so outstanding in its viciousness that the section of the codified traffic ordinance designed to prevent it overshadowed other provisions of the measure in public interest.

Now that the ordinance has been passed its other features are receiving some attention, with the result that the public is found to have gained additional benefits.

Pittsburgh profits by the experience of other cities in the new traffic regulations, which have been modeled after the best practices observed elsewhere.

Lewis W. McIntyre, City Traffic Engineer, points out that we now have definite rules, formerly lacking, for the protection of pedestrians in general and children in particular. It is specifically stated, for example, that a pedestrian who has started to cross a street on a green light shall have the right of way over all vehicles, including those making turns.

Even without the "tag-fixing" ban there would be much to commend in the ordinance.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

"A Gentleman's Way"

This country has gone "silk-hat," in the last few years. The "rough diamond" and the "self-made man" no longer hold the center of the stage. "Gentlemen" are in, again!

* * *

Yet, lots of us still seem to be a little hazy as to just what IS a "gentleman." Just knowing what fork to use, what clothes to wear and how to act at a tea-dance, doesn't make a gentleman. There's a vast difference between polish and breeding, even though they are first cousins.

There's a "gentleman's way" of doing everything—from tipping a waiter to throwing over a woman who has become tiresome.

* * *

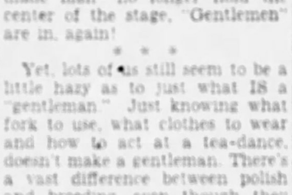
One sure way of knowing a gentleman is by the way he makes his "exits"—his exit from a room, his exit from a love affair, his exit from marriage—and sometimes his exit from life.

* * *

A gentleman can always get out of anything by the correct "exit."

* * *

When a gentleman discovers that he has made love to the wrong woman (after the fourth cocktail) he doesn't snap her off like a telephone receiver when you've gotten the wrong number. He eases her down gently with flowers, compliments and a few sweet lies about "going out of town." That's his requiem.



And there's a gentleman's way of divorcing his wife—usually by paying her fare to Reno, Paris or Mexico, and letting her divorce HIM. There is no reason why two people should get up in court and call each other names simply because they are tired of sharing the same newspaper and the same tube of tooth paste.

* * *

A gentleman is not merely genteel—he is GENTLE. Breeding and courtesy are just CONSIDERATION for the other person. Polish is only the frills. A gentleman can do the most cold-blooded things in a gentle way; while a boor can do the most natural things in a way that makes them seem insulting.

* * *

Gentlemanliness is an instinct. Something deep and fine inside a man that makes him always do the right thing, intuitively, at the right moment. You need no Emily Post to make you well-bred. You need only a "gentleman's instinct." And that never fails you!

* * *

A millionaire may be self-made, but "only God can make a tree"—or a GENTLEMAN!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 30.—In a loftier social realm they are tagged "les snobs de la puree"—elegantees who think it smart to be broke and gab about it. The identical folk who prattled grandiloquently of their Riviera chalets now tell of scrubbing the bathroom floors. The upper crust of the bread line!

Society columns now and then print paragraphs about Mrs. Vanthorpe renting her mansion furnished—items sent in by the ladies themselves, incidentally. Much of the economic slashing is, of course, merely chatter, but there have been sweeping retrenchments among the elect.

With it flowers the new social grace of being quixotic in adversity. Dinner parties in aristocratic areas request guests to wear informal attire. Those who have not hocked tiaras are not wearing them. Shopping at the five and tens has become a diversion.

There are theater parties, too, which once demanded the first two rows but now purchase seats down front anywhere in the balconies—the best place, by the way, to see any show. A Social Registerite recently gave a dinner party in one of the albino-tiled chain restaurants.

It all has a surface aura of noblesse oblige yet underneath is a rousing resentment against snobbery of all kinds. With a world wimpled in pandemonium and men and women of worth and character in dire want, a display of any kind has ominous impertinence.

Voyagers occupying de luxe cabins to Europe this early winter return modestly second class in slow boats. The hit musical comedy of the year is a travesty of depression among the nabobs. They make merry carrying trays in self-serving cafes.

The pastor of a very rich congregation recently intoned from his pulpit: "There are among you today many who have not been to services in years. You have come seeking spiritual joy only because materialism has mocked you once again."

* * *

Spring filters to the eternal scuff-scuff of lower East Side pavements. Pinochle players, despite a nip in the air, have their tables outside and kibitzers collect. The ace of the pinochlists is the famous locality mayor, Stitch McCarthy, who declares the game is just in its "infantry."

* * *

Eugene O'Neill is said to have seen but two plays this winter. And at one he had difficulty exiting due to autograph hunters waiting for Russ Colombo.

* * *

A yellowing diary reveals that just 20 years ago I managed to settle one of many weeks overdue room rent selling a slight satirical jet to Life. And there was the boastful notation: "Getting on in the world at last." Many in later years smile at such youthful humility as entirely irrelevant. Christopher Morley once closed a tender biography amazingly apropos. He wrote: "Perhaps it was like us all—kissing the footprint where life had been, missing life itself."

* * *

A part of my equipment for storming the city were "letters of introduction," vaguely complimentary such as "I have known the bearer for many years," etc. I always thought those who read such padded puffs regarded them as forged and expected me to turn out my pockets for hidden loot. Anyway, thus bulwarked, I never got the job.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Why do wives lie to their husbands?

Every wife does. Not out-and-out whoppers, perhaps; but small evasions, quiet concealments, pretty little cover-up gestures, all of which deceive as thoroughly as down right dishonesty.

But why should loyal, loving wives wish to deceive loyal, loving husbands?

Panteleimon Romanof asks that question in his new book, "WITHOUT CHERRY BLOSSOM," and answers it.

"WITHOUT CHERRY BLOSSOM" is a story of love under Soviet Russia. Modern Russians believe that something should be done about marriage—something which will keep it from ending in wrangling, boredom, monotony or bitterness. Perhaps if men and women could be perfectly free, perfectly honest with each other, love would last. So, what with industrial equality, a single sex standard, free love, free divorce and state nurseries, a lively experimental time is being had by all. Maybe romance will survive it—and maybe it won't.

In the meantime, Panteleimon Romanof shows how various individuals are affected by this upheaval. There's A. O., who writes "Letters of a Woman." For years A. O. has lived quietly, conventionally with her husband. Their marriage, once an ecstasy, has subsided into a monotonous habit under which they are both stagnating. But A. O. has accepted the situation. Such monotony and stagnation were inevitable in marriage; so she thought.

But now suddenly she begins to question and rebel. Why should marriage be allowed to do this thing to human life. Is any marriage sacred—is it even decent—if it blots out a woman's personality, stops her inner growth, makes her act a role which is against her nature?

For A. O. sees very clearly that marriage does make liars of wives.

"There isn't a single day," she cries, "during which a woman does not in some way or another deceive a man."

Is it because she is innately dishonest? Or cruel? Or has her eye on some other man? No; her deceit is based on her very desire to please and humor him.

"But it is no longer necessary for a wife to lie in order to please or humor her husband," you say. "Women had to do that once; but now they can support themselves and live honest lives."

Yes. But half a dozen years of economic equality cannot undo a million years of domestic inequality. Husbands still expect to be pleased. Wives still strive to please. So the muddle begins.

"Deceit in relationship with man begins at the very start. Its first appearance is in the exaggeration of our feelings. Sometimes the man who loves you shows all the strength of his feeling for you, and though your affection for him is not so strong, you unconsciously show more love towards him than you really feel, in order not to offend him.

"How often you answer this or the other expression of a man's feelings, not because you are in sympathy but simply because it is better not to hurt him or to show openly that you have less feelings than he expects or imagines you to have.

"FROM THIS BEGINNING AN UNSEEN THREAD BEGINS TO WEAVE TOGETHER A HUGE LIE, WHICH FILTERS INTO YOUR RELATIONSHIP WITH THE MAN WITH WHOM YOU LIVE AND WHOM YOU EVEN LOVE AND—THE FURTHER YOU GO THE GREATER THE LIE BECOMES."

So the secret disruption of marriage starts. But how can it be stopped?

If a woman insists on her being honest self, so frequently indifferent, even cool to the man she loves, he is aghast. He could understand such detachment in a man friend, but he cannot understand it in his wife. It does not fit his sentimental picture of what a wife should be. He is hurt, horrified, angry; feels he has been cheated. Estrangement starts—

On the other hand, if she hides her real self she either loses her own personality and becomes an uninteresting, boring shadow of her husband; or, in her loneliness, she begins to lead a deceitful, rebellious inner life which is bound to explode in tragedy.

But is it not possible for a husband and a wife to be really honest with each other and retain love?

WELL, IS IT?

What's YOUR guess?

Yes, certainly every young man should read "WITHOUT CHERRY BLOSSOMS" before he marries.

To Your Friends in Other Cities

The People Will Pay the Hoover Deficit

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The defeat of the sales tax in the House had been a foregone conclusion for a week before the vote was taken; and nothing happened the day the vote was taken that had not been known before. In the course of the debate some extreme statements were made which reflect, we think, something of the undercurrent of feeling in the country.

Perhaps it is impossible to have 8,000,000 breadwinners refused their inalienable right to work with the 40,000,000 in dire distress, with a face stern-set against a penny from the Federal Treasury for the hungry, and a $2,000,000,000 loan from the Treasury to the powerful—perhaps we cannot have these conditions and expect all men to think with sweet reasonableness. There is no doubt but that the fury in the House was directed at the rich and powerful, but it may be seriously doubted whether these ultimately will be hurt.

If taxes are concentrated in any degree on them, they have recourse to tax exempt securities. And there are a thousand and one devices through which they are able to get around a law.

In the end the great mass of the people will pay.

* * *

Both Party Organizations Were Smashed

There are two lines of comment on the result that call for some attention. The press propagandists of the administration, whose baby the deficit is, lay great stress on the fact that the Democrat leaders in the House could not control their men, and that great numbers revolted. These propagandists tenderly refrain from stressing the utter futility and failure of Mr. Snell, Republican leader, to lead and control his men. The revolt was a bi-partisan revolt; and both party organizations were smashed.

The Democrats' majority in the House is so small that the change of a few votes—as many as four or five—can upset the majority. The marvel is that the leaders have been able to hold this majority together so perfectly practically all the time. The danger is that having broken away from the leadership this time, they may continue in the future. And if they continue in the future the inevitable conclusion of the thoughtful in the country will be that the party lacks the solidarity and discipline for government.

* * *

An Unimpressive Figure

But for "guts," we heartily commend Mr. Snell to the consideration of the dazed—and the partisan propagandists of the Hoover press. He leads almost as many men in the House as Mr. Rainey. He had the support of Mr. Hoover, who is his party's candidate for President just now. He had the active support of Ogden Mills. And he was unable to hold his party together.

Indeed, Mr. LaGuardia made Mr. Snell look like a drifter with the scullions and the cooks rather than like a leader.

More than that he did not make an impressive fighter even when he had every advantage with him. He has not stood out as a gallant figure in this struggle. Rainey did; and Crisp did—they stood to their guns, and everyone knew where they were fighting. But Snell, leader of the Hoover administration forces whose baby the deficit is, was an inconspicuous and an unimpressive figure throughout. Had he held his men together, the bill would have passed; but the Republicans broke away from his leadership.

But Mr. Snell talks like a conquering hero after a condolence meeting with President Hoover whose baby the deficit is. He implies that he and his party will do nothing further to meet the deficit for which his party is responsible.

"It is up to the Democrats," he says. To do what? To meet the more than $2,000,000,000 deficit of the Hoover administration. No responsibility on the part of the administration, says the gleeful Mr. Snell. And then he says something more that for sheer effrontery almost approaches the campaign waged for Mr. Hoover four years ago—that the Republicans supported the bill. That is true precisely in the sense that the Democrats supported the bill. They did; but both Republicans and Democrats opposed and defeated the bill.

* * *

A Penalty the People Must Pay

But there still stands the deficit. There still remains the fact that the budget is not balanced. There still remains the threat to the credit of the nation. And while the two billion dollar deficit is the baby of the administration, the House must report a tax bill to meet it; and this will be done.'

In doing it, it will be impossible to find a tax that will be popular with all the people. Taxes always are as welcome as death. But they are necessary if organized society is to be held together.

The money cannot be raised by income and corporation taxes under existing conditions; for these incomes are lower than for many years, and there always are the tax-exempt securities. There is only one way to make wealth bear the entire burden, and that is through a capital tax—which just now is impossible. No tax can be devised just now that does not fall heavily on all the people. It is a penalty they must pay for the Hoover deficit.

* * *

"Soaking The Rich"

The sales tax is out; the vote has settled that.

But there looms the Hoover deficit—and the Democratic leadership in the House will meet it, though it is not their "baby."

Mr. Rainey immediately after the vote addressed the country, over the radio, promising another method for meeting the deficit within a week, and explaining why nothing more can be added by way of "soaking the rich." No living man has fought for so many years with such consistency for the average man, but he has the saving salt of common sense. He thinks that "the most violent advocate of soaking the rich" ought to be satisfied with what has been done, and he adds:

"The danger is that we may have driven the rich by this bill, so far as it has gone, into tax exempt securities, and if we have done that, capital in industry will be greatly impaired and more industries will close."

He knows, and says, that there is no possible way to meet the Hoover deficit without resorting to unpleasant taxes, such as "the irritating nuisance taxes of war times or something of the kind." The postage rates will be increased from two to three cents. And then——

"The balance of it we can raise by resorting to such taxes as taxes on radios, automobiles, gasoline, electricity, cigarets and tobacco, messages, stamp taxes on checks, taxes on conveyances of real estate, and all that kind of nuisance taxes which everybody will pay, but the solvency of this great government must be restored."

Now that "the only party fit to govern" has given us a deficit of more than two billion, now that we are running behind as much as seven million a day, there is no way under existing laws and constitutional provisions to meet the Hoover deficit without laying some burden on all the people.

* * *

We Must All Pay The Piper

For Mr. Hoover has not eliminated poverty—he has added immeasurably to it. And he has not maintained prosperity—his policies have wrecked prosperity and wiped out the incomes even of the rich. And he has not maintained the credit of the nation—for with this deficit that is threatened. The people voted for his policies and on his promises—and now we must all pay the piper.
